REBEL ACTIVITIES SPREAD

Closing Down of American Enterprises Means Rebel Reinforcement and Financial Situation Grows Serious.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO, April 11.—The War Office has recommended the formation of a volunteer corps throughout the country for local service only, and the sending of large quantities of arms and munitions for their equipment. This is considered an extreme measure, since such companies are often not loyal after they are equipped.

Madero's move northward was unexpected, and caused much speculation. The hope of early peace is rapidly diminishing. The rebels are again in possession of Batopilas, where there is a rich mining camp and many Americans. Tlahualilo, in Durango, is in the hands of the rebels, and the close of the Guggenheim smelters at Velardena, Torreon, and Chihuahua must come soon and will release about 5,000 men. There is little question that these will join the rebels.

There must soon be a decisive move one way or another or a big business slump is sure. Several prominent firms are said to be in a bad way, the banks are pressing for loans, and the war is costing the Government a hundred thousand pesos a day. Oaxaca is about the only State which is not reporting disorders more or less serious.

Ambassador Wilson denies emphatically the story of a Japanese-Mexican treaty. He declares that it is the invention of a Mexican here, whose name he knows.

"I never even mentioned the absurd treaty story to any official American or Mexican," he said; "as to my taking a photographic copy to Washington, that feature is a deliberate invention of a Mexican here whom I know."

After next Saturday privates in the Mexican Army will receive one peso a day, or 56 cents more than now. Gen. Manuel Cosio, Secretary of War, to-day sent all division commanders circulars announcing that this increase of wages had been ordered.

Commissioned and non-commissioned officers also share in the increase. First Sergeants will receive two pesos a day, and it is said the commissioned officers in the field are to receive a peso a day more.

AMERICAN MINERS FORTIFY.

Prepared to Defend Property in Guanajuato with Nearly 6,000 Armed Men.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 11.—Information reached San Antonio to-day concerning the building of a large fortification near Guanajuato, the capital of the State of the same name, by American mining interests. The information came in a letter from Joseph William McDonald, Superintendent of twenty-one large mines in that State. The insurrection is growing in Guanajuato, McDonald wrote, and a large band of insurrectos were at the time within forty miles of the mines.

McDonald says he has under him 800 Americans and about 5,000 Mexican miners and he is prepared to stand a long battle if necessary. He has 1,000 rifles and 100,000 rounds of ammunition, he said. Other information in the letter was that within the last few weeks wealthy ranch owners in the State of Guanajuato had contributed over $25,000 gold to the revolutionary cause.

Francisco I. Madero, Sr., and his son Alfonso, the latter of whom is the head of the local insurrecto junta, are still waiting for notice that a special train has been sent to the border to carry them into Chihuahua for a conference with Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the rebel leader.

Francisco Madero, Sr., said that he did not expect to leave to-day for the border, where it is understood the special will be waiting for him. It was his belief, however, that by to-night or to-morrow something definite would have been heard. It is understood that the special train will not come to San Antonio, but will be waiting at Cindad Porputo Diaz, Mexico, thus enabling him to run down to Torreon and thence up the Mexican Central to Chihuahua.

It was announced to-day that the aeroplane tests which are to decide whether the Wright or the Curtiss machine is the best for military purposes will begin at the end of this week, and will last about three weeks. The tests being mapped out by the officers of the Signal Corps are said to be the severest in the history of aviation, and call for flying under all sorts of conditions. Many long cross-country flights are planned.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED SOUTHWARD.

Madero's Movement North Stops Trains—Chihuahua Cut.

EL PASO, Texas, April 11.—Further indication that Francisco I. Madero and his army of insurgents are headed for Juarez or at least are coming north, is had in the fact that traffic on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad has been interrupted.

Officials of the road in Juarez decline to state whether the insurrectos have merely stopped traffic or have destroyed bridges. They admit, however, that to-day's northbound passenger train, due here at 5:30 P. M. had not left Pearson, the southern terminus of the line, and that no more freight would be received for delivery at points south of Juarez.

Dr. Newby, an American, was captured by insurrectos in Southwestern Durango, according to a report from Culiacan, and held for days, being forced to treat the wounded men, although he had no instruments. When some of the wounded died from gangrene, the result of operations with pocket knives, he was threatened with death on the charge of poisoning the men.

He was finally forced to go to Culiacan to cash checks which insurrectos had extorted from citizens, his wife being held as hostage until his return. He complained to the Governor of Sinaloa, according to statements from Culiacan, but got no assistance.

The Federal Grand Jury adjourned to-day without indicting Martin Casillas, an insurrecto Colonel, arrested Feb. 12 on a charge of violating the neutrality laws.

Two hundred recruits have joined the insurrecto besieging force outside of Ojinaga, east of here, bringing two old cannon into the hands of Gen. Sanchez, who is directing the attack.

CHAMPAGNE DISTRICT RIOTS.

PARIS, April 11.—The Senate to-day, after a lengthy discussion of the serious situation which has arisen over the champagne question, adopted a resolution in favor of the suppression of all territorial delimitations as likely to provoke dissensions between the various sections of the country.

A law was recently enacted excluding the Department of Aube from the region the wine of which can legally be designated champagne. This resulted in demonstrations of protest in that department.

EPERNAY, Department of Marne, April 11.—Upon learning of to-day's decision of the Senate the leaders summoned the wine growers to assemble at Epernay, and the call was quickly answered.

A big column, gathered from various sections, marched through the valley and arrived at Dizy before the authorities were aware that the workers had started. The mob wrecked cellars and smashed 250,000 bottles of champagne, throwing up barricades with casks and hoisting the red flag.

The column then swept down on Damery, where three establishments were sacked, the wine being poured into the streets. The next stopping place was Ai, where the rioters were beginning the work of devastation when a squadron of the Thirty-first Dragoons, which had been sent in pursuit, caught up with them, driving them out of town.

RHEIMS, April 11.—The resolution adopted by the Senate relative to the champagne area caused tremendous excitement throughout the Department of Marne, the news spreading like wildfire. It is considered a deadly blow to the interests of Marne and a concession to the rival and neighboring Department of Aube.

A column of 2,000, from all the villages in the Marne Valley descended on Epernay, which is the entrepot for champagne wines. These are kept in vaults in the rock on which the town is built.

The men marched through several small towns, doing considerable damage to the cellars or unpopular firms.

COTTON MEN GUILTY.

Special to The New York Times.

ABERDEEN, Miss., April 11.—The Government's prosecution of members of the cotton firm of Steele, Miller & Co. ended to-day with verdicts of guilty against J. H. Miller, L. C. Steele, and C. H. G. Linde on charges of conspiracy to defraud through misuse of the mails. J. H. McKnight, confidential employe of the concern, who was also named in the indictments, was acquitted.

Miller was previously found guilty on a separate indictment of circulating bogus cotton bills of lading. Two additional indictments pending against Miller individually were nolle prossed.

To-morrow sentence will be passed, and the men will at once begin serving their punishment. No appeal will be taken, and to clear the way for the immediate imposition of sentences attorneys for Miller to-day withdrew demurrers and motions in arrest of the judgment previously filed. In his case a fine of $7,000 and imprisonment for thirty-five years is possible. Linde and Steele may be imprisoned for thirty years and fined $66,000.

The acceptance of the verdicts, which were instructed, was agreed to at a conference between District Attorney Stone and attorneys for the defense. When the court later convened the six indictments charging conspiracy were consolidated. Formal pleas of not guilty were entered, and the jury was instructed to return a verdict of guilty.

It is said that banks and cotton firms in this country and Europe lost about $3,000,000 as a result of the operations of the firm. Witnesses came here from Great Britain, Germany, and France to testify against the accused. These banks and importing firms have entered suit against the Southern Railroad.

WOMEN VOTE IN BRONXVILLE.

Help to Carry Proposal That Village Care for Lawrence Park Roads.

Thirty women voted at the special election held in Bronxville yesterday to decide whether or not the village should undertake the care of the private roads in Lawrence Park. The proposition was carried by a vote of 53 to 50. The women were about equally divided, as were the men voters. Most of the women who voted were property owners directly interested in the question. It has been impossible to have the Lawrence Park roads deeded to the village because they lack 8 feet of the statutory width of 22 feet. A bill to permit Bronxville to acquire the roads absolutely was passed by the Legislature and signed by Gov. Hughes, only to be declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

At 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, half an hour before the polls opened, all the women voters were at the Village Hall and engaging in a heated argument. Nearly all of the women electioneered among their relatives and friends, and some of them carried their arguments in to the polling place. The polls were kept open until 8 o'clock for the benefit of New York businessmen who commute to Bronxville.

The result of the election is a victory for H. Ward Leonard, who conducted a campaign for village unity, he said, against politicians who believed that their interests were best served by dividing the population of Bronxville into two distinct groups.

G. S. TERRY CRITICALLY ILL.

No Hope Held for Recovery of Assistant Treasurer of United States.

AIKEN, S. C., April 11.—George S. Terry, Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York, who has been seriously ill at a hotel here for more than a week, is reported in a critical condition to-night. According to his physicians no hope is held for his recovery.

Mr. Terry, whose home in this city is at the Union League Club, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, went to Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, about Jan. 15, and from there to Aiken, S. C.

Mr. Terry has been Assistant Treasurer of the United States since March 1, 1909, when he succeeded Hamilton Fish, who had resigned immediately after his nomination for Congress in October, 1908. At the time his appointment was confirmed Mr. Terry was Assistant Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and had been Secretary of the Park Commission when William R. Willcox was Commissioner of Parks. Mr. Terry is a prominent member of the Union League Club and was formerly its secretary.

$5,000,000 BABY AT ST. REGIS.

Son Born to Mrs. Russell Hopkins May Be His Grandfather's Heir.

Another baby was born yesterday at the Hotel St. Regis to disprove Elinor Glyn's statement that a year passes between births on Fifth Avenue. The mother is Mrs. Russell Hopkins, wife of Russell Hopkins of Irvington-on-Hudson, who was before her marriage Miss Vera Lawrence Segrist of St. Louis. Mother and child are doing well, and the baby, which weighed 8½ pounds, is the possible heir to a fortune of $5,000,000 from its grandfather, John Randolph Hopkins, after whom the boy will be named. On his maternal side he is a direct descendant of Dr. J. J. Lawrence of old New York Colonial stock.

PATTEN'S $2,000,000 IN TUBERCULOSIS WAR

MAY GIVE $20,000,000 FOR IT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 11.—James A. Patten, the multimillionaire grain and cotton operator, has taken steps to rid himself of at least $2,000,000 of his fortune in a systematic effort to rid the world of the "white plague."

Exercising the business sagacity and energy that made him famous as a speculator, enabling him in a few years to amass a fortune estimated to be not much less than $20,000,000, Mr. Patten has begun a personal campaign of social service, the keynote of which is the donation of $2,000,000 within the last six months for charities and public works which particularly appeal to him. With the same energy which marked his operations in grain, cotton, and finance Mr. Patten has set about the disbursement of his wealth in financing the biggest war on disease and ailments which beset mankind that has ever been known in the history of the world.

With an initial gift of $500,000 to Northwestern University for medical research into the question of prevention and cure of tuberculosis it leaked out to-day that this sum is to be increased to $2,000,000, so greatly is Mr. Patten interested in the subject. This disposes of $4,000,000 of the Patten fortune.

Details of Mr. Patten's plans for the disposition of his millions come only through his friends. In the past he has refused to make known the nature and extent of his benefactions, and this attitude remains unchanged.

Patten Has Nothing to Say.

"Not a word to say," he declared when asked by the correspondent of THE TIMES if the report of the $2,000,000 gift to stamp out tuberculosis was correct. "I will neither deny nor affirm it," said Mr. Patten. "I shall use my money for the purposes I deem best, but I do not believe it is incumbent on me to talk about it."

For months past Mr. Patten has been shaping his affairs, according to his friends, so that he would be in a position to take personal charge of the work of stamping out the white plague. Now he will not only provide the money for scientific research, but will act as general manager of the practical campaign of eradication. Mr. Patten's determination to gain the ultimate victory over tuberculosis was evinced following the death last year of his brother, George W. Patten, who succumbed to the disease after years of suffering. With millions at his command and freedom from all business cares, he is in a position to devote his life to the task. Mr. Patten declares that "a man should dispose of great wealth for the benefit of the community, social service being the one great thing in life."

Dr. Edwards Explains.

Associated with Mr. Patten in his tuberculosis fight will be Dr. Arthur Edwards, dean of the Northwestern University medical department.

"Mr. Patten decided to make a contribution to medical research," Dr. Edwards said to-day, "and establish a laboratory in this medical school with the idea, originally, of devoting all the energies of the newly founded department to a search for the cure of tuberculosis. It has now occurred to him that in the event of others making an earlier discovery, or in the event of the search proving fruitless, the scope of this department should be widened and that it should include the search for newer knowledge in the field of any of the infections, or indeed of any original problem.

"Mr. Patten's original gift to Northwestern University will be devoted to the establishment of a new chair in the Medical School, to be known as the Chair of Experimental or Research Medicine.

"Four recent graduates, when the enthusiasm of college work is fresh upon them, will be induced by a living salary to remain one more year or longer in the laboratory, before engaging in practice. In this way a school of investigation will be established which, in its effects, will work on the problems of the young practitioner after he has once begun private practice. Again, the abler men will be induced to remain in research subjects, and thus may arise a school of men such as we encounter in Germany."

Other Philanthropies.

The whole expense of this investigation is to be borne by Mr. Patten. So, too, will the Frances Juvenile Home, with its wide appeal to the sympathies of every one, be materially assisted in its endeavors by the same philanthropist.

This represents only a tithe of Mr. Patten's philanthropies, for he has contributed a public park in Evanston, substantial aid has been extended to the Young Men's Christian Association for enlargement of the scope of that institution in dealing with the young men of this and succeeding generations, generous assistance has been afforded to the cause of education in Northwestern University, and a large sum given to the Evanston Hospital, besides the responses to almost innumerable appeals that have come to him from the widows, the orphans, the poor, and the distressed.

FIGHT FOR McNEIR CHILDREN.

Grandparents Seek Them—Mother Suing for Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 11.—It only took thirty minutes to hear the two witnesses who testified to-day before Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser on the question as to who shall have the custody of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Burrows McNeir of New York. Mrs. McNeir is suing for an absolute divorce.

The hearing to-day was on two petitions for the custody of the children, the petitioners being the father of the husband and the mother of the wife. Both Mr. and Mrs. McNeir were in court, but there was no sign of recognition passed between them. Burrows McNeir is a grandson of Senator Burrows of Michigan.

George L. McNeir, the father of Burrows McNeir, testified that he had an income of $50,000 a year, and that he had social connections which would be of benefit to the children of his son.

Mrs. Walter W. Law, Jr., said she had been acquainted with Mrs. McNeir for seven years, and always believed that Mrs. McNeir had been a good mother to her children. Mrs. Law was questioned as to the propriety of washing a baby twice a day, and said she had never done so, although she was the mother of several children. It was said that Mrs. McNeir had only washed her children once a day.

DEMOCRATS AGREE ON RECIPROCITY BILL

Vote in Caucus to Pass Immediately One Bearing the Party's Stamp.

FREE LIST FOR FARMERS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The House Democrats assembled in caucus at 8 o'clock this evening to consider action on the Canadian reciprocity agreement and such tariff legislation as the majority party may deem best to bring forward at this session. Mr. Underwood, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, explained to the caucus the programme as formulated by his committee, and there was no serious dissent.

The final vote on the programme was 128 for, 20 against, and 6 asked to be excused from voting.

The first thing recommended is to take up the Reciprocity bill and pass it as it was passed last session. An amendment to the McCall bill was proposed in the caucus urging the President to make further negotiations with the Canadian Government to obtain additional trade advantages. A motion to strike out this amendment to the Reciprocity bill was voted on and overwhelmingly lost.

The feeling in many parts of the country among farmers that the Reciprocity bill does not obtain for the farmer reductions on those articles which he buys and most needs has prompted the Democratic leader to follow up the passage of the Reciprocity bill with an omnibus tariff bill which would put on the free list the following articles: Agricultural implements, including harrows, reapers, plows, and mowers; boots and shoes, saddles, saddlery, wire fencing, baling wire, cotton bagging and ties, sacks and burlaps, flour, meats, fresh meat products, sewing machines, rough lumber except hardwood lumber, and salt.

It was decided to hold a later caucus on the woolen and cotton schedules, as there are many complications in the present tariff on those articles, and it was believed that they should be discussed separately, and in the effort to adjust fairly the duty on wool and the duties on goods manufactured from wool to the end that it might not happen as it has heretofore, that when tariff adjustments have been made on woolen cloths and on unwashed wool the farmer in the United States received little or no advantage from the legislation.

The only opposition in the caucus to the reciprocity agreement came from the four or five members who opposed it when it was before the House last session, and their opposition is mainly on the matter of lumber. The reciprocity bill will be brought in to-morrow by Mr. Underwood, and will be precisely the same as the McCall bill, except that it will bear Mr. Underwood's name instead of Mr. McCall's.

MAYOR BOUGHT HIM A KNIFE.

Small City Hall Park Whittler Made Proud and Happy by Gaynor.

Mayor Gaynor gladdened the heart of a little east side lad yesterday in City Hall Park. As the Mayor was returning across the plaza from his luncheon in the little German place in Frankfort Street, which he has been frequenting of late, he stopped to talk with several of the boys who spin tops and roller-skate about the front of City Hall. One of them was chopping away at a stick with what had once been a penknife.

"What are you doing?" asked the Mayor.

"Whittlin'," replied the lad promptly. All the boys have got to know the Mayor well.

"That's not the way to whittle," said the Mayor. "Come with me." He took the boy's hand and led him to a sporting goods store in Nassau Street, where he purchased a fine four-bladed knife. It was the principal object of attraction in the Park for the rest of the day.

POLICE CALLED TO CHURCH.

Police were summoned to maintain order at the annual meeting last night of the congregation of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Yonkers. The Rev. H. H. Butler, the pastor, called the peace guardians.

For more than two years the church has been divided into factions, one side trying to oust Mr. Butler from the pastorate, and the other, including many women parishioners, favoring Mr. Butler's retention.

Miss Grace Warren, who since her withdrawal as organist of the church, has instituted a suit for slander against the pastor, is one of the leaders of the opposition to him.

Thomas Graham, a member of the Board of Trustees of the church, tried for several months, he says, to heal the breach between Mr. Butler and the flock, but some months ago he became an insurgent also, and personally appealed to Bishop Greer to remove Mr. Butler.

Mr. Graham appeared at the meeting last night and announced himself a candidate for re-election as Trustee. He was backed by A. J. Heuston and others. Mr. Heuston refused to get out when directed to by the Chairman. Then the meeting became stormy and broke up in confusion, the election of Trustees being postponed to a later date.

CONSUL TOPAKYAN TAKES A BURGLAR

Nabs Him and Ropes Him and Sends Him by Vehicle to Police Who Wouldn't Respond.

SCORNS AN OFFERED AMENDE

"I'll Work for You for Ever," Pleaded the Intruder, Prostrate on Piazza—But Consul Relented Not.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Wednesday, April 12, 2 A. M.—Haozoun Hohannes Topakyan, Persian Consul General in New York, was aroused from his slumbers in his palatial country home here just after 1 o'clock this morning. The disturber of Mr. Topakyan's slumber was his wife, who, shaking him in great agitation, told him that she was sure she heard burglars downstairs.

Mr. Topakyan listened. What he heard sent him out of bed with a bound, reaching for his revolver. Next moment he was stealing silently down the broad stairs. As he went, sounds of conflict from the front piazzas reached his ears. He hurried out and there found his brother-in-law, Harvey Elder, sitting astride a sizeable man who was prostrate on the piazza.

Mr. Elder, whose home is only fifty feet from the Consul General's, called out in triumph that he "had him." Mr. Topakyan, switching on the electric light by means of the button in the vestibule, gave reassurance that he had brought a revolver to add to their feeling of security.

In a word or two Mr. Elder explained that he, too, had heard sounds as of some one entering the house, or trying to, and had lost no time in getting over to the home of his brother-in-law to be of service. His quickest service, it seemed, was to knock the intruder down, which he did without more ado. Then he sat on him as the simplest solution of the waiting problem, and there the Consul General found them.

Mr. Topakyan surveyed the prostrate figure with small favor.

"If you move," he said, "I'll shoot you." And he waved his gun in plain sight.

"Oh, mercy," came from the floor, "don't kill me, Sir, don't kill me, and I promise right here I will work for you for the rest of your life for nothing."

But Mr. Topakyan did not pause to consider this tempting offer. Instead he called lustily to the chauffeur and the colored house servant, who had appeared meanwhile, to bring a rope. The laundry yielded a fine assortment of clothesline, and with this the Consul-General himself bound the arms and legs of the captive, binding them with such security that the man finally ceased to expostulate.

Recourse to this method of holding him in safe keeping was not had until Mr. Topakyan had telephoned to the Morristown Police Station, only to be told by the authorities there that his house lay just outside their jurisdiction. There was nothing to do, therefore, but to be your own jailer of your own burglar.

Mr. Topakyan telephoned again, this time with some sarcasm, to announce the capture. He also informed the Morristown police that he would like to be rid of the intruder, if it were convenient and not prevented by a matter of jurisdiction. The police coldly responded that they could not think of sending any one after the roped party, but if Mr. Topakyan chose to drive him over they would take him into custody. Mr. Topakyan thought this rather ungracious, but he didn't want the man down in his cellar all night, so he accepted the terms as the best available, and the man was bundled, still tied, into a wagon.

Mr. Elder and the chauffeur undertook to act as escort to the police station, and Mr. Topakyan was left to think it all over in the quiet of his rescued home. His joy over the capture led him to confide the news to a few friends who happened to be still up.

"We didn't lose any time in tying him up," he said. "I got the rope and did it myself, and all the while I kept saying to him, 'If you say a word I'll shoot you.' Of course I would not have done such a thing, you understand, but I said so just to scare him, and I kept the gun in sight all the time. It did scare him, too."

The exhaustion resulting from his exertions at such an unwonted hour and under such trying circumstances having slightly worn off, Mr. Topakyan was free to ponder on the unsatisfactory protection which had been extended to him by the Morristown police. He did not like it a bit.

"In my country," he said, "we give the most perfect protection to your Consuls, and I think it is queer if there is no official on whom I can call for help if an attempt is made to enter my house in the midle of the night. I am going to sit down after breakfast this morning and write to the State authorities to see if they cannot give me some satisfactory explanation. I want protection in the future. Now that I have had time to think of it I am of the opinion that the whole affair was an outrage."

Mr. Topakyan is known to fame for other exploits than this morning's burglar capture. In 1907 he bought the old Richard McCurdy estate on the Lake Road, near Morristown. The house is really in Morris Plains. After reconstructing it he called it the Persian Court. There, on the Fourth of July, 1907, in the presence of some fifty Armenian and American guests, he gave an "Oriental barbecue," at which a whole lamb was roasted slowly in a huge pit, which he had installed as a national fixture on the lawn near the house. The lamb wass tuffed with rice and spices and was tasty alike to the American and Armenian guests, among whom was Homer Davenport, with a soul like the former but garbed like the latter.

In June the following year the Persian Consul repeated his Oriental barbecue in even finer style, roasting not one but two lambs à la Orient, and afterward serving them up to his fashionable guests on a large table of bronze and gold that had cost $12,000.

Mr. Topakyan also appeared twice in the papers through abstaining from dining. The first time was at a dinner given at the Hotel Astor by subjects of the Ottoman Empire in July, 1910, when he noticed that a place had been assigned at the guest table for the Turkish Ambassador, Youssouf Pasha but not for himself. This he considered an affront to the Shah of Persia.

"Is there not some mistake?" he asked the bystander.

The bystander said he knew of none. So Mr. Topakyan went home.

A few months later, on Feb. 7, at a dinner given at the National Democratic Club to John Fox, Mr. Topakyan noticed that there were other men of prominence at the guest table, but nary a sign of himself. He had been assigned to a corner table. Again, because he felt that an affront had thereby been offered to the Shah, his royal master, he got up, turned on his heel, and without a word went home, afterward eloquently describing the incident to his friends on the newspapers.

He also has been known as the donor of a costly rug to President Roosevelt, which he himself designed and which the press reports weakly described as "a priceless, marvellously beautiful gift."

NEW PLACE FOR CROPSEY?

Police Headquarters Hears He's to be a Magistrate—Flynn in His Place.

Police Headquarters heard late last night, and was inclined to credit it, a rumor that Mayor Gaynor would soon appoint Commissioner Cropsey to a police Magistracy in Brooklyn.

In that case, the report had it, Deputy Commissioner Flynn would become Police Commissioner and a new Deputy Commissioner, not yet selected, would take his place.

It was impossible to confirm or obtain authoritative denial of the rumor. Neither the Mayor nor Commissioner Cropsay could be reached. Deputy Commissioner Flynn had not heard the report and knew nothing about it.

Nieces of Meyer Feuchtwanger Now Share in His Estate.

The petition for probate filed yesterday with the will of Meyer Feuchtwanger, who died April 6 at the Hotel Marie Antoinette, reveals that three nieces of the testator will receive $1,000 each because they remained single. The will provided the sum should be paid "to the daughters of my brother Ernst, who shall not have married before my death."

The three young women are Belle, Henrietta, and Marion Feuchtwanger of New Haven, Conn. The will left $3,000 to be distributed by the executors among charitable institutions and $25,000 each to six grandchildren.

MAURETANIA'S NEW RECORD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 11.—The Mauretania, with a large crowd on board, marking the early beginning of the American coronation invasion, reached Liverpool this morning, some hours late, owing to the delay caused by fog at New York.

The liner was unable to call at Fishguard because of bad weather, but had an excellent passage, creating a new record for a day's run. This was from noon Friday to noon Saturday, during which time 614 knots were covered.

GUENTHER THOMAS ILL.

German-American Journalist Operated Upon for Appendicitis.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 11.—Guenther Thomas, the Berlin representative of the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung, was to-day successfully operated upon for appendicitis in St. Hedwig's Hospital here by the celebrated surgeon, Prof. Eschenbach.

Mr. Thomas's many friends in New York German-American circles will be glad to know that he is resting easily to-night, with every prospect of complete recovery.

HARTFORD IS DEMOCRATIC.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 11.—For the first time in thirty years the city Government is wholly Democratic. At a special election held to-day in the Fifth Ward Joseph E. O'Neil, Democrat, was elected Alderman by a majority of 147. The election was held to break a tie at the regular election on Tuesday last.

The Mayor is a Democrat, and the new Council has a Democratic majority of 10 on joint ballot. The Board of Aldermen has 11 Democrats to 9 Republicans; the Council board 24 Democrats to 16 Republicans.

FINE BATHS FOR ASBURY PARK

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., April 11.—A contract for Asbury Park's new bathing plant was let to-day, and the completed structure must be turned over to the Beach Commission by July 15. The plant will be on the Boardwalk between First and Second Avenues and will contain tubs for hot and cold sea water baths, a big swimming pool, lounging rooms, and a sun parlor. It will cost $90,000.

The Beach Commission has also engaged Creatore's band from May 27 to July 2. Creatore is now playing an engagement at the Casino under the auspices of the Asbury Park Boosters' Association. The Italian bandmaster will be followed on July 3 by Arthur Pryor and his band. He will remain at the Arcade until Labor Day.

FRENCH BOAT BURNS AT SEA.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 11.—The burning at sea of the French schooner Victorville is reported in a wireless dispatch received here to-day from Capt. Kendall of the Allan liner Lake Erie. Capt. Kendall said that the Lake Erie, which is bound from Liverpool for St. John, N. B., sighted the burning vessel while in latitude 44.03 north, longitude 46.29 yesterday. She was a mass of flames and presented a magnificent spectacle.

Standing by the schooner was a French barkentine showing the letters "Kong." The barkentine signaled that she had taken off the crew of the schooner. The derelict schooner, Capt. Kendall reports, is a danger to navigation.

HOST TO THE DISTINGUISHED.

Col. Burnett Wants to Pay Bailey's and Texas Governor's Hotel Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 11.—United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey and Gov. O. B. Colquitt hereafter will not have to pay their bills while stopping at Texas hotels, if Col. Burk Burnett has his way. The order went forth to-day from the headquarters of Col. Burnett to all the hotels in the State that when Bailey and Colquitt appear their bills shall be forwarded to him.

The Colonel owns one of the largest cattle ranches in the world and is one of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's close friends, although opposing him politically. When Col. Roosevelt was here about a month ago Col. Burnett refused to let him pay his hotel bill and entertained the former President and a hundred guests at a dinner in the ex-President's honor.

Col. Burnett to-day said he believes the hospitality of Fort Worth and Texas cannot be shown better than by paying the hotel bills of distinguished visitors.

INDICT OWNERS OF BURNED FACTORY

BOLTED DOOR THE EVIDENCE

Other Indictments May Follow—Jury Considering Responsibility of City Officials and Building's Owner.

Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, joint owners of the Triangle Waist Company, in whose plant on the eighth, ninth, and tenth floors of the Asch Building at 23 Washington Place, 146 persons, mostly girls and women, lost their lives during the fire on March 25, were indicted for first and second degree manslaughter yesterday afternoon.

The indictments were handed up to Judge O'Sullivan in the Court of General Sessions, just after the Grand Jury, which has been investigating the case for a week, completed its inspection of a charred bit of wood to which a fastened lock was clinging. The wood and the metal attached to it had been recovered early yesterday from a garbage heap where refuse from the ninth floor of the Asch Building had been taken. The police had reported their inability to find it, but detectives assigned to the case by District Attorney Whitman had succeeded in obtaining the tell-tale bit of evidence.

"I think the mute testimony of the fastened lock left no question as to the guilt of the partners," District Attorney Whitman remarked as the two men stood before Judge O'Sullivan to plead and to listen to the fixing of their bail at $25,000 in each case. Detectives had kept the partners under surveillance for a week, and brought them to court from their new factory in University Place within an hour after the indictments were returned. A bonding company furnished bail for them after their lawyer, Max Steuer of 115 Broadway, had pleaded in vain for a reduction of the sum demanded to $10,000 each. The partners said nothing in court.

Mr. Steurer made a statement to the court in entering a plea of not guilty for his clients, in which he said he would not seek to take advantage of any legal technicality in their behalf, but would consider he was best conserving their interests by seeking a fair and full trial on the exact merits of the case. He said he was conscious of the fact that the section of the labor law making lessees of a building responsible equally with owners for certain conditions could probably be made to apply only to cases where the lessees took the whole building, and not to cases where they leased only a floor or two. Mr. Steurer received a postponement until April 24 to familiarize himself with the case, with permission to alter the plea entered at the end of that period if he so wished.

Two indictments were returned against each partner under Sections 80 and 94 of the labor law, and Sections 1,050 and 1,052 of the Penal Code. They recited specifically that Harris & Blanck jointly caused the death of Margaret Schwartz, 22 years old, and Rosie Grasso, 16 years old. These were two of the girls whose bodies were found in the heap of fifty dead discovered by the firemen just back of a closed door on the ninth floor. The District Attorney expects to prove that they tried to get out through the locked door and failed.

Sections 80 and 94 of the labor law make it a misdemeanor to lock or bolt doors in factories while employes are at work, or to provide less than a reasonable number of exits, or to have doors that open inward when it is practicable to have them open outward. Sections 1,050 and 1,052 of the Penal Code provide that persons who cause the loss of life while engaged in such violations of the law as constitute misdemeanors shall be guilty of manslaughter in the first or second degree.

In two identical indictments against Harris & Blanck they are charged with first-degree manslaughter, and in two more the charge is second-degree manslaughter. The maximum penalty for first-degree manslaughter is twenty years, and for second degree ten years.

Other Indictments Expected.

The indictments returned did not terminate the Grand Jury's work. Two more, and possibly three more, phases of the investigation are to be considered involving public officials and the owners of the Asch Building. Judge O'Sullivan, after hearing the Grand Jurors, sent them back to the task of investigation with this bit of admonition and praise:

> In the name of the county I feel constrained to express its indebtedness to you for the spirit of restraint you have shown in your investigation and the expedition with which you have conducted it. You will continue your investigation and go into every detail of the disaster to find out if there has been any criminal negligence or violation of the present laws. Your search should not be limited or checked by any impression that the law is insufficient to deal adequately with violators of it. My opinion is that the law as it exists is fully adequate to protect the lives and property of our citizens if the law is properly enforced. It may be that you think the penalties are not sufficiently severe. It is not, however, the severity of the penalty so much as its certainty that is most effective as a deterrent to crime. And I want to assure you that you may continue your work with a feeling of certainty that the officials whose duty it may be to carry out the recommendations it may become incumbent upon you to make, will not fail to do their full and entire duty.

Responsibility of the Department.

The jurors sat for an hour on new phases of the case after returning to their chambers. They considered the probability of culpability on the part of the Building Department, the Fire Department, the State Labor Department, and the owner of the Asch building.

The case against the Building Department rests on evidence to the effect that the Washington Place stairways did not extend to the roof; that there were only two sets of staircases, whereas the law required three sets; that the doors opened inward instead of outward, and that there were no hand rails on the staircases, while the fire escape ended in a blind well, where it did not afford the safety it seemed to, and should be required to in order to come up to the suggestions carried in its name. The question of indictments on this evidence depends on what showing the Building Bureau can make in the way of shifting responsibility to other departments.

The probable case against the Asch building's owner rests on the same paragraphs in the labor law and Penal Code as those on which the lessees of the three upper floors were indicted.

The State Labor Department is to be considered by the Grand Jury as to its probable neglect of duty by providing insufficient inspection. District Attorney Whitman believes that proper inspection would have prevented the locking of doors, eliminated doors that opened inward, and would have prevented the crowding of so many operatives together in a single room in violation of the provisions in the law as to cubic feet of air space for each employe.

Jurors Inspect the Building.

The Grand Jurors yesterday morning inspected the Asch building in company with the Coroner's Jury, the Italian Consul, who submitted several affidavits to the District Attorney, and several representatives of the District Attorney's office.

It was evident from their frequent comments as places were pointed out to them where girls sat back to back in narrow aisles, and where they were found dead in heaps after the fire, that they felt deeply the problem before them. Coroner Holtzhauser, who attempted to indicate to his jury the manner in which he found the roof tank empty the day after the fire, found that his evidence had been destroyed since a new tank had already been put into place.

Assistant District Attorney Rubin, with a map of the Asch building in his hand, pointed out the location of the Washington Place doors, which were closed to all employes except the bosses; the Greene Street partition, where the doors could be approached only through a thirty-inch passageway guarded, when the employes were passing out, by persons to inspect their pocketbooks, bundles, and luncheon baskets.

The jurors remarked that they were unable to pass up the dark, winding staircases more than one abreast, and that there seemed to have been very little consideration shown for the safety of the employes in any feature of the construction or the arrangement of machinery in the factory.

Samuel Bernstein, a foreman, and Louis Prown, an engineer, of the Triangle Company, who had been ejected from the Criminal Court Building on Monday after it had been intimated that they were attempting to tamper with Grand Jury witnesses, put in an appearance while the Grand Jurors were in the company's former factory. Mr. Rubin had them ejected.

So many complaints that witnesses have been approached have reached Coroner Holtzhauser that he decided last night to issue new subpoenas, returnable this morning, for his Coroner's inquest, which has been in progress since Monday. Those who sent assurances that they knew of attempts to influence witnesses were Leonora O'Reilly of the Women's Trades Union League, who has visited many of the fire sufferers; Giacomo Farabonni, the Italian Consul, who reported that several Italian girls had made affidavits before him to the effect that they had been approached, and a number of witnesses who have appeared before the Coroner.

"It will be important to determine if such attempts have been made," Coroner Holtzhauser said, "in order to determine what weight to give the testimony of certain bosses who are employed in the Triangle Company's new plant, and who have attempted to free the company from all blame on the score of locked doors and blocked exits."

Locked Doors in Other Factories.

In addition to the charges that attempts have been made to influence those who are to testify, charges were freely made yesterday that in many factories where doors were unlocked the day after the fire, they have again been locked. Several persons wrote to this effect to the District Attorney. The Committee of Five of the Women's Trades Union League which called for reports from factory workers upon a pledge not to reveal the names of writers, issued a statement declaring that many reports of relocking the doors had been received.

"I hope," said District Attorney Whitman, when asked about these cases, "that the indictments returned will prove a healthful corrective. Public policy demands that there be no more barred doors, and the manufacturer foolish enough to think he can avoid the law in the future is taking a great risk."

The Coroner's jury plans to conclude its inquest and fix the responsibility for the fire at to-day's session, while the Grand Jury is expected to continue at work for another week.

SUPT. MILLER SPEAKS BITTERLY

Thoughts of the Triangle fire and what architects could do to prevent similar disasters were in the minds of most of the speakers at the dinner of the Columbia Architects' Society last night in the Columbia Club, Gramercy Park and Irving Place. Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin of Columbia showed plans of the new building to be erected at Columbia for the Avery Library and the architectural department, but every other speaker referred sooner or later to the fire.

Building Supt. Miller, who was received with marked cordiality, spoke with some bitterness. He declared that he was glad to find himself among friends, as since his "alleged recent junket in the South" he had needed friends. He reminded the society that eight years ago he had spoken to it on the necessity of planning buildings in such a way as to give proper exits.

"These matters are not new to us," he said, "but it is not easy to persuade those who must carry out our ideas that these things are not only desirable but necessary. Yet we must bear the brunt when our suggestions are not acted on."

Commissioner Murphy of the Tenement House Department asked the architects to follow the law which he must administer. It has been said that the Tenement House Commissioner has much power, but no discretion, while the Building Superintendent has much discretion but no power. He regretted that the New York Chapter of Architects had recently awarded prizes for tenements without consideration of their internal arrangements, as though they were built solely for the man on the other side of the street.

"I am very glad to say," he went on, "that in the 21,000 new tenement houses in the city there has not been the loss of a single life from fire, and this can hardly be altogether a matter of good fortune, as they are 20 per cent. of the tenements in the city."

Donn Barber, President of the Beaux Arts Society, made a plea for the exclusion from the city of the enormous loft buildings which are now being erected, and asked why they could not be located in the suburbs, where the workmen could live under proper conditions and there was not the same congestion.

"We want to get together," he said, "in artistic matters and try to reach some generally accepted ideas. Then we can do away with notions about the city beautiful and the restriction of building heights, for we shall all know what ought to be done. Why should we permit the crowding of loft buildings in the city and leave the suburbs to young couples? Every factory should be forced out into the country, where men have space to breathe.

"Acres of loft buildings are being put up in very small areas, and how can the sweatshop owners pay their rents except under such conditions as prevailed in the building where the late disaster took place? We should find proper places for factories, and then provide for the segregation of business in their own special districts, not by town planning commissions or the plans of the city administration, but by the experience gained by the men who have traveled and seen how other cities have solved the same problems."

Mr. Barber took a shot at the National Academy of Design. One good thing, he said, had happened. The National Academy had at last given up the idea of getting the city to give it a part of a park.

"It jumped all around Central Park," he remarked, "and then tried Bryant Park. Now it has decided that it does not want a park site. It was about time, as the city had quite decided it would not give one. It is a good thing, too, that it is now willing to combine with other societies."

Prof. Hamlin described the new $820,000 building which has been presented to Columbia by an unrevealed benefactor. It will be built so as to form an internal quadrangle on the Columbia campus with the present Fayerweather and Schermerhorn Building, the library, and the chapel. It will be 150 feet by 50, and will house on the ground floor the Avery Library. The three top floors and the attic will be devoted to the School of Architecture, and will contain ample lecture halls, freehand and drafting rooms, and museums of Greek archaeology and building materials.

He also stated that, beginning in 1912, the candidates for the certificate and the degree would take the same course, but the degree men must have two years' study at some recognized educational institution as a preliminary to entrance.

Fire Relief Fund Still Grows.

Contributions sent to the Mayor's office yesterday for the Washington Place fire sufferers brought the relief fund up to a total of $21,787.52. These contributions were received by THE TIMES and forwarded to Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer of the National Red Cross Committee:

From the employes of Union Novelty Company	$29.20
Miss Dorothy I. Gottschalk	12.85
Leopold Haas	10.00
Total	$52.05
Previously received	2,587.06

HOUSE PROGRESSIVES APPEASED BY MANN

GOOD PLACE TO EX-SPEAKER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—When the House adjourned to-day after sitting two hours and a half its committee organization had been completed, the preliminaries of adopting resolutions for the necessary printing for committee uses passed, and it was ready for the actual work of the session. The minority appointments to committees made by Mr. Mann, the minority leader, were presented to the House, and on the motion of Mr. Underwood, the majority leader, the majority caucus nominations and the Mann list were adopted to make the committees of the House.

The Republicans generally expressed decided satisfaction at Mr. Mann's assignments, and the progressives were especially pleased with the treatment they received. Mr. Mann has set himself before the House as a broad and fair minded leader willing to let bygones be bygones, and there are no punishments in his selections for committees. He took no place whatever for himself. His name nowhere appears in the list of committees, but in the official index of committees his name appears credited to the position of "Chairman of the Conference Minority."

Ex-Speaker Cannon has been placed as the ranking member of Appropriations, which carries him over the head of Gen. Bingham of Pennsylvania, the father of the House, and for years the ranking Republican member of the committee. Gen. Bingham is no longer capacitated physically for the arduous tasks of the leading committee place on this, the most important, committee of the House. Mr. Cannon has had a lifetime of service on Appropriations, and will make the conduct of public business by the majority members interesting as the various supply bills are considered.

In making up the minority of Ways and Means it was necessary to take off one member, as there are but seven minority places, and the eighth Republican member left Mr. Dwight of New York assigned to Appropriations. Mr. Payne of New York remains at the head of the Republican contingent on the committee.

In dealing with the progressives Mr. Mann has gone far to wipe out the soreness that has been felt ever since Mr. Cannon in the Sixtieth Congress undertook to discipline such strong men as Cooper of Wisconsin, Norris of Nebraska, Madison of Kansas, and Lenroot of Wisconsin. Madison and Lenroot have been put on Rules, Cooper goes to Foreign Affairs, Norris, who has victoriously led the struggles to break down the power of the ex-Speaker, is on Judiciary, and Murdock of Kansas, who was the first man to resent Cannon's dictation, has gone back on Post Offices and Post Roads, from which Cannon banished him.

Hubbard of Iowa retains his place on Insular Affairs, and becomes leader of the minority on the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice.

Other assignments of insurgents are Cary of Wisconsin to Education and to District of Columbia; Cooper, Wisconsin, to Elections No. 3 and Foreign Affairs; Gardner, Massachusetts, to Immigration and to Library; Good of Iowa to Appropriations, perhaps the best plum an insurgent gets; Haugen of Iowa to the minority leadership of Agriculture; Hays of California to Banking and Currency and to Immigration; Kendall of Iowa to Foreign Affairs and to Railways and Canals; Kent, California, to Civil Service Reform and Industrial Arts and Expositions—the latter especially desirable for a Californian at this time; Kinkaid, Nebraska, to Irrigation, which is intimately concerned with his district.

Representative William La Follette of Washington goes to these committees: Coinage, Weights, and Measures and to Railways and Canals; Lenroot, Wisconsin, to Rules and also to Patents; Lindbergh, Minnesota, to Coinage, Weights, and Measures and to Claims; Madison, Kansas, to Rules and to Labor; Morse, Wisconsin, to Insular Affairs and War Claims; Pickett, Iowa, to Public Lands and Library; Prouty, Iowa, to Elections No. 1 and Civil Service Reforms; Steenerson, Minnesota, to Post Offices; Volstead, Minnesota, to Public Lands and Education; Woods, Iowa, to Claims and Industrial Arts and Expositions.

Small Place for Berger.

Berger, the Socialist, and Akin, the New York independent, are stowed away where they will have a limited and experimental field of endeavor, the former on District of Columbia and the latter on Education and Enrolled Bills.

On the important committees new blood has been introduced, with good selections from men who have had years of experience in the House, and the result has been to strengthen these committees. On Inter-State and Foreign Commerce, one of the most important committees of the House in the matter of constructive legislation, the new men are Hamilton of Michigan, Driscoll of New York, and Martin of South Dakota. On Merchant Marine the new men are Asher Hinds of Maine, Porter of Pennsylvania, Stephens of California, and Parran of Maryland. On Banking and Currency the new men are McKinney of Illinois, Guernsey of Maine, and Campbell of Kansas.

Two new men go on Judiciary, Norris, and Dodds of Michigan. One new man goes on Naval Affairs, Kopp of Wisconsin, and Butler Ames of Massachusetts is the only new man on Military Affairs.

Post Offices has been reinforced by the addition of Smith of Michigan, Laffan of Pennsylvania, Steenerson of Minnesota, and Madden of Illinois.

Every new Chairman to-day endeavored to get through a resolution allowing his committee to print and bind documents for the use of the committee. When Mr. Ashbrook, Chairman of the Minor Committee on Expenditures in the Post Office Department, presented his resolution for printing, objections came from several Republican members.

"What necessity is there for this committee to have printing done?" asked Mr. Mann. "It has never been done before, has it? That committee has little to do."

FAVORS LOW TARIFF SENATORS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—At the last moment Senator Martin, the new minority leader of the Senate, decided to make several changes in the personnel of the Democratic Steering Committee by leaving off Senators Tillman, Bacon, Money, (retired;) Newlands, and Stone, so that the new Democratic Steering Committee as appointed to-day consists of Senators Martin, Culberson, Simmons, Clarke of Arkansas, Bankhead, Fletcher, Williams, Kern, and Hitchcock.

In the opinion of Senator Stone, this Steering Committee is much stronger, from the standpoint of revenue tariff Democrats, than it was expected that Senator Martin would appoint, and the Missouri Senator, who was virtually the floor leader of the so-called progressive Democrats at the close of the last Congress, expresses himself as satisfied with the selection.

As this committee performs the function of a Committee on Committees for the Democrats it is expected to appoint a majority of so-called progressives, or revenue tariff Democrats, on the Senate Finance Committee as well as see to the strong progressive representation on the committees. With an important tariff programme coming from the House to the Senate interest in the Steering Committee centres on their respective tariff records, and the line-up in this regard is generally placed as follows:

Regulars—Martin, Bankhead, Fletcher, Simmons—4.

The record of six of these nine Democrats, who were in the Senate while the Tariff bill was under consideration, was as follows:

Martin	12	41	14
Culberson	1	43	23
Simmons	9	46	12
Clarke	0	9	58
Bankhead	6	33	28
Fletcher	7	37	3

While Senator Fletcher of Florida is classed with the regulars certain progressive Democrats to-night declare that, despite Senator Fletcher's votes on lumber and iron, he is in the main fairly sound on the tariff.

The Democrats on the Senate Finance Committee now are Senators Bailey, Simmons, and Stone, which leaves two vacancies through the retirement of Senators Money and Taliaferro. It appears certain that Senator John Sharp Williams will be appointed to fill one of the vacancies. The progressives believe that the other vacancy will be filled by either Senator O'Gorman of New York or Johnson of Maine, while the regulars say that Senator Johnston of Alabama will be sure to be one of the selections.

If Williams and either O'Gorman or Johnson of Maine are chosen the progressive Democrats would predominate on the minority of the Finance Committee, while the selection of Johnston of Alabama or John Walter Smith of Maryland would make the regulars predominate. This does not take into consideration what would happen should Democratic representation on that committee be increased to six members, as has been considered by the Republican leaders.

The Senate Democrats have also under consideration a suggestion that a new committee be appointed, called a Floor Committee, to be, in fact, a sort of board of strategy, but this suggestion has not yet taken tangible form.

HATTERS' CASE GOING HIGHER

D. E. Loewe Prefers to Have Supreme Court Pass on Boycott Decision.

DANBURY, Conn., April 11.—D. E. Loewe of the firm of D. E. Loewe & Co. commenting to-day on the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upsetting the $232,240 judgment obtained by the firm against the United Hatters of North America for boycotting said:

"If the Judge of the lower court or the attorneys continue to hold the same views upon the important points involved in the appeal that they held at the time of he trial it appears to me that it would be wise to have the Supreme Court pass upon the question rather than to have a retrial of the case. As I view the matter at present it seems to me that our case should be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States for final decision upon the points that have been raised in the appeal just decided."

John A. Moffett, President of the United Hatters of North America, came here yesterday from his headquarters in Orange, N. J., and conferred with National Secretary Martin Lawlor regarding the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals setting aside the Loewe judgment against the hatters. As the firm can elect either to appeal to the United States Supreme Court or have a new trial, no move will be made by the defendants until it is seen what the plaintiff firm is going to do. The National President and Secretary got in touch, however, with the locals of the union. They expect to have the full text of the decision in a day or two.

Lawlor was the only National officer made a defendant in the Loewe case because he happened to live in the State of Connecticut at the time. The officers of the union said last evening that the property of the members of the union in Connecticut was attached as security for the damages asked pending the trial of the suit. Many of the hatters owned their own homes, and these were attached, together with all bank deposits of members. The defendants had the benefit of their landed property, but could not dispose of it. Those whose bank accounts were attached could not touch the money. Between $50,000 and $60,000 was thus tied up.

Secretary Lawlor said he considered the decision a great victory for the union. He considered that part of the decision holding that mere payment of dues did not constitute members defendants even more important than the declaration that Judge Platt was in error in taking every question except that of damages from the jury.

"There are members of the union," he continued, "who have not attended a union meeting in many years, and yet have kept up their payments of dues. For instance one of the members of the union in Connecticut is blind and another is deaf. Both have kept up their payments of dues for more than twenty years, and neither has attended a union meeting for twenty years. If these could be held responsible as defendants there could be no union. They are certainly not morally, nor from the decision of Judge Lacombe legally, responsible for the alleged boycotting acts."

The general strike of the United Hatters of North America for the union label took place in 1909, while the Loewe boycott proceedings were pending. It is still in force nominally against five of the seventy firms, whose decision not to use the union label led to the strike.

WANT X-SCIENTISTS DEFINED.

Eddy Plaintiffs to Attack Bequest as Uncertain Till Courts Do This.

CONCORD, N. H., April 11.—Chief Justice Robert M. Wallace, after a conference with counsel for both plaintiffs and defendants in the contest over the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church, ordered that proposed amendments to the plaintiffs' bill in the Superior Court be filed by April 17. As there will be no replication by the defendants, the filing of the amendments will complete the pleadings, and the case will be in order for a hearing.

Former United States Senator William E. Chandler, chief counsel for the plaintiffs, announces that the amendments will attack the validity of the bequest of the residue of Mrs. Eddy's estate to the Christian Science Church, on the ground that the residuary clause was "uncertain" until the courts should define the Christian Science religion.

ROGERS BOY'S UNCLE HELD AS KIDNAPPER

Implicated in Las Vegas, N. M., Case by an ex-Convict's Confession.

OFFICIALS FEAR LYNCHING

Special to The New York Times.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., April 11.—Will Rogers, uncle of little Waldo Rogers, son of A. T. Rogers, Jr., an attorney of this city, who was kidnapped shortly after midnight on March 30, was arrested here to-night after Joe Wiggins, an ex-convict, had made a confession implicating him in the crime.

For the boy's return $12,000 ransom was paid to Will Rogers, acting as agent for Mrs. Rogers. This money was recovered to-night.

Will Rogers confessed to his part in the kidnapping, but did not implicate his brother John, who was charged with being concerned in the crime in Wiggins's confession. Will told where the money was, and the officers went to the place indicated and got it.

Wiggins made his confession to-day to District Attorney Charles W. G. Ward, Capt. Fred Fornoff of the Territorial Mounted Police, and other officers.

The prisoner will probably be taken tomorrow morning to Santa Fé, where he will be locked up in the Territorial Penitentiary. This action will be taken as it is feared if a confession is wrung from the accused relatives of the little boy that the county jail will be stormed and the man taken out and lynched.

Will Rogers is 21 years old. For several months he has been employed by the local water company. That the young man when planning the kidnapping was attempting, by working up the love of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rogers for their son, by placing their little one's life and safety in jeopardy to draw money from Judge Waldo, is the belief of the officers.

Wiggins, who was pardoned from the New Mexico Penitentiary some time ago by ex-Gov. Otero, while serving a sentence of ninety-nine years for murder, asserted that he received a letter from Will Rogers while employed as a miner at Madrid, by a New Mexico coal company.

"Do you want to make $10,000 easily?" he says the letter inquired. "If so, come to Las Vegas and see me."

Bringing his wife with him, Wiggins came to Las Vegas about sixty days ago. He leased a small house, which is located on the Romeroville Road, near the southern line of Old Town, the county seat. Wiggins says that Will Rogers came to him and leased the house for three days, March 27, 28, and 29.

Wiggins told the officers that he and his wife returned to the house after the child had been returned to his parents upon the payment of $12,000 to the kidnappers. There the officers found the trousers and mask worn by the masked man who entered the Rogers home and took the child from the arms of his mother. They also found the two pairs of pantalettes given the intruder by Mrs. Rogers when she gave her boy into the hands of the kidnapper, in order that her son might not be uncomfortable for lack of clean and warm clothing.

Wiggins told the officers that he and his wife threw these articles out of the house on the place. The things were found after a search by the officers. In spite of Wiggins's story that he and his wife had no further participation in the affair than to rent young Rogers the house, the officers believe they are both actively connected with the plot.

The refusal of Rogers to pay Wiggins his share of the $12,000 is believed to be the cause of Wiggins's willingness to talk.

PUTS HIS ESTATE IN TRUST.

E. G. Lewis, Who Has Lost Millions, Wants Others to Safeguard Him.

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—As a climax to the broadside of suits for the recovery of loans and several years of business adversity, during which he has lost several million dollars, E. G. Lewis, owner of The St. Louis Star, Mayor of University City, and owner of the greater part of that municipality, has arranged to transfer all his possessions, including $4,000,000 worth of property in University City, to a Board of Trustees for the next five years.

Lewis to-night said that the Board of Trustees would defend the suits which are pending against him. He refused to reveal the names of those who will compose the board.

Lewis will act as field manager of the Women's League, an organization comprising 100,000 members formed to solicit subscriptions for large Eastern magazines.

Mascota district of Jalisco, killing the local Judge, José Montes de Oca, and ten other residents. The bandits are said to have secured money and extensive supplies of corn and beans. A detachment of State gendarmes has been sent in pursuit of the bandits, who are reported still to be in the Mascota district.

Specials to Guadalajara from Merida, the capital of Yucatan, tell of insurrecto activity in the southern States of Campeche and Yucatan. Plantations are being raided, it is declared, and the aggregate loss is said to be heavy. Among the plantations to suffer loss is that of Olegaro Molina, a former member of the Diaz Cabinet. The managers of the Santa Rosa plantation in Yucatan and the Kayal plantation in Campeche are said to have been killed.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 10, via Laredo, Texas, April 11.—This city was entirely cut off from communication for several hours to-day. Later telegraphic communication was reopened, but the United States Consul was informed that all railroad connections had been severed and probably would remain so for some time. The condition is believed to have been brught about by the insurrectos because a trainload of Federal troops was sent South yesterday. Previously the insurrectos had served notice that if anything but provisions were carried over the road it would be put out of commission. Little fear of an attack was entertained because of the belief that Madero's forces had been moved to the northwest.

The American prisoners who are now reported to be marching here from Casas Grandes under guard of Federal troops, will probably be placed in cells in the penitentiary as soon as they arrive. They will be allowed to confer with attorneys in preparation for their trials in the civil courts on charges of sedition.

REAL ELECTION IN SONORA.

Military Governor Retires—Free Ballot for First Time Under Diaz Rule.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 11.—Authentic advices from Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, Mexico, says Gen. Lorenzo Torres of Lorin, commanding the Federal troops in the Yaqui River region, has withdrawn his candidacy for Governor, and that at the instance of the Federal Government a genuine popular election is to be held April 23.

The reform movement is the direct result of conditions brought about by the spread of the rebel movement in the State. It is interpreted by many as a recognition by the Federal Government of the seriousness of the rising and the necessity of complying, at least in a measure, with the demands of the populace.

According to the Hermosillo advices, mass meetings named as the popular candidate for Governor Alexandro Lacy, a member of an old family which has been neutral throughout the present difficulty. Licenciado Taide Lopez del Castillo, a lawyer of Sonora, was named for Vice Governor. Castillo has not been identified with administration measures. The Government will open the polls on April 23, and will send out instructions as to how to vote and guarantee a free ballot. This will be the first open election in the State of Sonora since President Diaz's first inauguration. Following an uprising which occurred at that time, a Military Governor was appointed, and he has been maintained in office every since, the so-called elections being merely equivalent to reappointments.

According to the usual custom, Gen. Torres was nominated for Governor and Dr. Fernando Aguilar for Vice Governor two months ago. They were named without opposition, and the people had no choice in their selection. Dr. Aguilar's withdrawal as a candidate accompanied that of Gen. Torres.

AMERICAN WOMEN CAPTIVES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11.—Mexican filibusters hold a number of American women and children captive in a stockade at Alamo, Lower California, it became known here to-day. The prisoners are said to be at the mercy of their captors and to have suffered insults and indignities. Protests have been made to Secretary of State Knox, and Senator Perkins, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, has been advised of the matter.

Among those held captive are G. Raffi, his wife, and five children, of San Diego. The names of the others have not been disclosed. The appeal to Secretary Knox was made by O. Henry Savage, a well-known business man of this city, a relative of Mrs. Raffi. Mr. Savage said today that news of the condition of the prisoners at Alamo was brought to Ensenada last week, and reported to George B. Schmucker, United States Consul, as well as to Gov. Celso Vega of Lower California. Savage charged that Vega did not send relief, and that Schmucker ignored the complaint.

Fearing for the welfare of the prisoners in the hands of the rebels, who are said to be commanded by Simon Berthold, Savage wired Secretary Knox on Sunday afternoon as follows:

> Members of my family and other American women and children held at Alamo, Mexico, by rebels. Unable to obtain food or relief. Wires to Ensenada are down. Reliably informed that Mexican Governor, Lower California, declines relief. Will you order warship to Ensenada to rescue? Please answer.
> O. HENRY SAVAGE.

> The Ambassador at Mexico City has been instructed by telegraph to request the Mexican Government to extend protection to the American citizens mentioned in your telegram of yesterday, and the American Consul at Ensenada has been instructed by telegraph to investigate and report, and to ask the Governor for needed protection for these people.
> PHILANDER C. KNOX.

State Senator Leroy A. Wright telegraphed news of the situation to Senator Perkins yesterday afternoon in the hope that, according to a message which he Washington to secure quick action.

The case was also taken to Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas, commander of the Pacific Fleet, who was urged by Savage to send a warship to Ensenada. Admiral Thomas said that he could not act without orders from Washington.

Savage said to-day that his advices from Ensenada gave no reason for the imprisonment of the Americans and their families at Alamo. He said the Americans were employed in the mines near Alamo, and that Berthold, the guerrilla chief, had confiscated all the supplies in the town.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—American Consul Schmucker, at Ensenada, telegraphed the State Department to-day that the latter would use his influence at had received yesterday from Alamo, the American women and children held at that point were unharmed, but probably would not be permitted to leave the town. He expressed the belief that provisions were becoming exhausted, and asked for permission to go to the scene himself, or send a representative, to investigate the situation. This was granted by the department.

STONE SUSPECTS PLOT.

Says Japan-Mexico Bugbear Is for "Some Unholy Purpose."

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senator Stone of Missouri, who was at the White House to-day, declared that in his opinion the repeated efforts to connect Japan with the movement of American troops to the Texas border was done for "some unholy purpose."

"Persistent reports of war between the United States and Japan have been circulated for years," said Senator Stone, "for the apparent purpose of encouraging a strong naval policy by the Government. I would not be surprised if the present talk connecting Japan and Mexico was inspired by the same powerful sources as the war talk in the past."

SAYS WE SENT FILIBUSTERS.

Member of Canadian Parliament Charges Annexation Plot in Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, April 11.—In the House of Commons to-night Col. Hughes, member for Victoria and Haliburton, stated that the United States had sent filibusters into Mexico as they did into Cuba, to create disturbance in order that the United States Government might have an excuse to quell the disturbance and accomplish annexation.

He added that there had been half a dozen rebellions in Central America which had all been stirred up by Americans.

The Rainier

"The Car You Want"

The RAINIER is the Car of your dreams. It is smart—swift—elegant—reliable. It has the flowing lines that fascinate the eye and the style-touch that satisfies your pride of ownership.

The RAINIER stands out among the herd of cheap cars like a great oak tree in a field of berry bushes. It belongs to a different breed from the flimsy tin smoke-wagons that cost more to advertise than to build and whose natural home is the repair shop.

Our RAINIER mechanics have never made cheap cars. They have never made cars that were just good enough to be sold. They have been trained to make a Car that STANDS UP—a Car that MAKES GOOD—a Car for people of TASTE AND REFINEMENT.

Now, the price of this Car that you WANT is $4,250. If it seems beyond your reach, perhaps we can meet you.

We will take the car that you have now—the car that you DON'T want, and we will sell it for you. We will allow you the WHOLE PRICE of it.

Really, you cannot afford NOT to have a RAINIER, when we make it so easy for you. You will save repair bills. You will save time and PERHAPS LIFE.

HORSE SEEMS POSSESSED.

Again Runs Away After Policeman and Another Capture It.

Patrolman Thomas Phelan of the Mercer Street Station was standing at Sixth Avenue and Fourth Street last evening just at 6 o'clock, probably thinking what an uneventful world this is and how few are the chances for a policeman to distinguish himself. These twilight thoughts were interrupted by the wild clatter of hoofs, and, turning in his tracks, Phelan saw a horse running west in Fourth Street, and running about as fast as it knew how.

A delivery wagon was attached to it and two men were on the driver's seat, but these things did not seem to bother the horse. Just as it reached the corner Phelan and Walter Wood of 37 Sixth Avenue made a simultaneous leap for the bridle. Between them they threw the animal, and the wagon came to a stop.

It had no sooner done so than the two men who had enjoyed the fast ride leaped to the street, and, without pausing to thank their rescuers, or even to give their names, they turned about and ran away into the gathering darkness. So it was left to Phelan and Wood to disentangle the harness and get the horse on its feet. This done, they both climbed to the deserted driver's seat and started off to the Mercer Street Station. The wagon bore the inscription "Pinebrook Butter Company, 478 Grove Street, Jersey City," and they wanted to leave it at the station to be called for.

They had not gone far eastward on Fourth Street when an automobile passed, and that was too much for the horse's nerves. It started off again at full speed, and before Phelan and Wood had recovered their breath or could get any control of the frightened animal they found themselves being treated to an astonishing drive through Washington Place, unlike all the sacred traditions of drives in that part of town.

Hurling over grass and pavements, to say nothing of over benches, the horse took them headlong, with the park population scattering in every direction. It was at the fountain's edge that the two left the driver's seat, somewhat reluctantly. They were dumped there, and the horse had no sooner accomplished this than it started away again.

Fortunately, Edward J. McCormick, a fireman of Engine Company 38, happened to cross its path here, and that ended the chase. McCormick tied the shaking animal to a tree, and, with a glance at the condition of Phelan and Wood, sent an ambulance call to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Dr. Mann, who answered the call, found both men cut about the head and badly sprained. Wood was able to go home, but Phelan was taken to the hospital.

PART OF THE GARDEN MAY STAY A WHILE

NEW SITES ARE SUGGESTED

As it now seems certain that Madison Square Garden is entering upon its final months as a great amusement centre in New York, many suggestions have been made concerning the erection of a building having the characteristic features of the Garden. Several favorable sites have been mentioned, but it is not believed that any movement for a new amphitheatre will take definite form until it is clearly known just what disposition the prospective buyers of the Garden intend to make of the building.

It is barely possible that the Madison Avenue side, including the corner occupied by the Garden Theatre, might be improved with commercial structures, leaving the amphitheatre intact temporarily until the demand for additional business structures in the vicinity should make its demolition advisable.

At best it is giving but a short lease of life to the Garden. It was suggested yesterday, as meeting all the requirements of accessibility, that an amphitheatre might be built above the railroad tracks of the New York Central Railroad on Lexington Avenue, between the new Grand Central Station and Fiftieth Street.

President W. C. Brown of the New York Central was asked yesterday if, in view of a satisfactory proposal being made to erect a building containing all of the amphitheatre features of the Garden, it would be regarded favorably by the Directors. The New York Central Railroad has formulated a plan for the improvement of part of the terminal area with buildings that will be an ornament to the city.

"We would surely have no objection to the erection of a fine amphitheatre on the property, provided it would add to the architectural beauty of the locality, and I presume that any structure of such a character would be an artistic attraction to the city," said Mr. Brown. "Personally I do not see, in view of the financial failure of Madison Square Garden, who would come forward to build it. While I have not given the subject much thought, I should say that the chief promoters would be some large circus interests, like the Ringling Brothers, for example.

"I see no reason why New York could not support successfully a circus or hippodrome for several months in the year, and for the balance of the time it would be available for such affairs as the annual horse show, fancy balls, and other exhibits to which the attractions of a great amphitheatre add so much. New York surely needs such a building, but the erection and management of it is a financial problem, and the career of Madison Square Garden, in this respect, is not conducive to inspire optimism. For the general good of the city I sincerely hope such a building will be erected somewhere in the near future, and, studying the lessons of the past, such a building might be constructed so as to become a financial success."

In the New York Central track area there are four or five blocks which would answer the purposes of such a structure. The land could be leased to the syndicate erecting the building, subject to easements for tracks below the surface. The general plan of the railroad for improvement of this property is to make twenty-one-year leases, with privileges of renewals.

The New York Central is just completing one-half of a great thirteen-story manufacturers' building, which ultimately is to cover the two blocks between Forty-sixth and Forty-eighth Streets, between Lexington and Park Avenues. Forty-seventh Street will remain open, but there will be connections between the twin structures by bridges spanning the street. Two or three floors of this building have been especially constructed for large exhibits, such as the automobile show and other trade exhibits which have been held in the Garden, as well as in the Grand Central Palace, which will soon be torn down. The large exhibition hall will supply an area of 50,000 square feet, making it the largest exhibition room in the city. There are two blocks to the north of this building which are available for an amphitheatre, either wholly or in part, and frontages are also available on the Park and Madison Avenue blocks.

The possibility of utilizing the old Manhattan field, next to the Polo Grounds, at Eighth Avenue and 155th Street, as an amphitheatre site has also been suggested. Within the last few weeks several hundred cartloads of dirt have been dumped on the surface. The Coogan estate owns the property, but it has been impossible to ascertain for what purpose this improvement to the field is being made. There have been reports that the field might be utilized some day for open-air exhibits, but its distance from the centre of the city and also the fact that the ground would only be used for a few months in the year have prevented any definite steps toward establishing an open-air resort.

GETS DAMAGES FOR 'MUGGING'

Victory Over the Police, Though the Verdict Is for Only Six Cents.

The practice of "mugging" prisoners before they have been convicted was condemned by a jury in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday. An award of damages in the sum of 6 cents was made to a man who sued several police officials who had photographed and measured him for the police records before he had been tried on the charge against him.

The complainant was William Tracy and the defendants Detective W. L. Brosnan, Arthur Sheppard, the photographer at Brooklyn Police Headquarters, and Lieut. Walter Betts, in charge of the Bertillion Bureau. Tracy was arrested in January, 1909, by Brosnan, charged with a petty offense. He was taken to Headquarters and there photographed and measured. When arraigned in court Tracy was exonerated and discharged. He sued the defendants for $10,000 each, alleging that the act of "mugging" him constituted an assault. Tracy also sued Police Commissioner Bingham for $25,000, but this complaint was dismissed.

In charging the jury Justice Crane said that there was no legal authority for the "mugging" of a prisoner before conviction. When hands were laid upon a prisoner to have him measured or photographed before he was found guilty an assault was committed against his person.

Appeal for a Family's Dire Need.

The case of a man compelled by sickness to give up his work and without any savings with which to keep his consumptive wife and two delicate children from want has been brought to the attention of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. The youngest child is suffering from infantile paralysis. The condition of both husband and wife is now considered hopeful. Neither, however, is fit to take up the burden of wage-earner and provide even the necessities of life. The Bureau of Charities asks for $150, not only to keep these people from actual want, but to provide extra nourishment for them until their health is restored and the breadwinner can resume his work. Contributions may be sent to 69 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, marked 0129.

MEN RUSH TO SELL A QUART OF BLOOD

EIGHT CANDIDATES ELIGIBLE

Choice Came Down to Two—Successful One Said After the Operation That It Was Easily Earned Money.

More than 100 people answered the advertisement of Mount Moriah Hospital in East Second Street offering $25 to the one who would yield a quart of his blood in a transfusion operation on Mrs. Rosie Reisler of 293 Stone Avenue, Brooklyn. Although the advertisement plainly called for men only, there was one woman among the applicants. She said that she needed the money badly and that her physical condition was as good as that of any man.

When the porter of the hospital went out early in the morning to scrub the steps there was a long line of men waiting outside. Many of them were longshoremen, who said that by coming early they wouldn't miss a day's pay if their services were not needed. It was 2 o'clock in the afternoon, however, before Supt. Spector had made the last examination.

Selection was made on the basis of the physical condition of the man, and Supt. Spector said that he tried to select the applicant whose blood corresponds most nearly to that of the patient.

Eight men were found eligible, and were placed under examination a second time. Of these, two were found to be almost equally qualified. One was Julius Phillips of 263½ Penn Street, Brooklyn. He said that he was married and had two children, and had been out of work for two months. His wife, he said, had objected to his coming, but he had come nevertheless. The doctors declared him a perfect physical specimen, but still they feared the consequences to him. The other man said he was single and that he had no family responsibilities. He gave his name as George A. Allen of 107 Nassau Street, Brooklyn, a shipping clerk, and said that he had not earned a cent for almost three months. He was selected for the operation.

Nearly all of the applicants told stories of hard luck, and most of them, according to Supt. Spector, were Germans. Few of them would have been physically able to spare a quart of blood, some of them appearing as fit subjects for the hospital. One of them said that he had given a quart of blood to save the life of a dying woman in Mount Sinai Hospital three months ago, and that he was again out of funds. But the condition of his blood did not warrant a second transfusion. Another said that he simply wanted to get rid of an oversupply of blood, but an examination revealed evidences of serious kidney trouble, and this man left the hospital very much frightened.

When one of the Trustees of the hospital heard of the extraordinary rush of destitute men at the hospital he telephoned an order to give each applicant 50 cents as a reimbursement for car fare and time spent in waiting. A check for $25 was made out to Allen, the successful candidate, and this will await him when he is ready to leave the operation ward.

Allen was sent to sleep to rest his nerves until 4 o'clock. The operation, performed by Chief Surgeon A. V. Moschcowitz, assisted by Dr. Max Rosenberg of the hospital staff, was considered extremely delicate because of Mrs. Reisler's failing condition. A constant secretion of weak blood was flowing from the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, and the infusion of the healthy blood would tend to check this flow, it was said. The process was consequently slow, and it was nearly 8 o'clock before the patient was taken from the operating table. The transfusion was made from an artery in Allen's right wrist to a vein in the left arm of the patient. The patient, it was said at the hospital last night, had rallied almost immediately and probably would recover.

When Dr. Moschcowitz asked Allen how he was feeling an hour after the operation, he said: "I want to go home, doctor, I feel fine. The last time I lost a quart of blood was when some guy punched me up in Harlem. That hurt more than this. This is the easiest $25 I ever made in my life."

PASSOVER BEGINS TO-NIGHT.

Special Observances of the Jewish "Feast of Unleavened Bread."

The celebration of Pesach, the Jewish Feast of the Passover, will commence this evening and continue for eight days. This evening and to-morrow morning there will be special festival services in all the Jewish places of worship. In the orthodox synagogues there will also be services on Thursday evening and Friday morning. Although the festival continues for eight days, only the first two days and the last two are of special import to the Orthodox Jews, while with those who have accepted the modern, or reform dispensation, the first and the last day are the only ones celebrated.

Passover is the Spring festival of the Jews, and in ancient times was the first of the three great pilgrim feasts, when the people of Israel gathered from the remotest sections of the Holy Land and went up to Jerusalem to offer their thank offerings at the Temple. It begins on the fourteenth day of the month of Nissan, the first month of the secular year of the Hebrews, and was ordained to commemorate the redemption of the children of Israel from their bondage in the land of Egypt, where they had been held as slaves for more than 400 years. In the celebration of this event, of such importance to the ancient Jews, a special service known as the "Seder" takes place in the home of every orthodox Jew, and even in the homes of many reform Jews, on the first evening of the festival. This service is subsequent to and entirely independent of the synagogue service. Before this Seder service is begun the dwellings of the orthodox Jews are thoroughly cleaned and searched for any leaven bread, which, if found, is destroyed, for no orthodox Jew is permitted to eat any bread or other leavened food during the eight days set apart for the celebration of the Passover. The place of bread is taken by a specially prepared and baked cake known as "Matsos," consisting of flour and water only, without any leavening ingredient. From this usage the festival has also been termed "Hag-a-Matsos," or the Feast of Unleavened Bread, and the exclusive use of unleavened bread had its origin from an incident of the exodus from Egypt.

The departure of the Israelites from Egypt was so hurried that as the Bible says:

"And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt; for it was not leavened, because they were thrust out of Egypt, and could not tarry; neither had they prepared for themselves any victuals."

On the evening of the Seder celebration the entire household gathers about the table on which are displayed a dish of "Matsos," a roasted bone of a lamb commemorative of the sacrifice of the Paschal Lamb, and a dish of bitter herbs, to symbolize the bitter oppression inflicted upon the Jewish people by their Egyptian taskmasters. The "Hagada," containing a narrative of the captivity in Egypt and the miraculous deliverance of the Israelites from bondage under the leadership of Moses, is recited by the head of the household, after which the evening repast is disposed of.

A public Seder service will be given at the rooms of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Lexington Avenue and Ninety-second Street, this evening, and there will also be a special service for the Hebrew immigrants detained at the Immigrant depot on Ellis Island.

DISCUSS WOMEN POLICEMEN

But Woman's Republican Club Abandons the Question for Luncheon.

They talked about women police at the meeting of the Woman's Republican Club at Delmonico's yesterday. And if luncheon time had not come they would have had a letter with a hundred signatures to send to the city authorities asking that a woman with police authority be placed in every railroad station and at every ferry. Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, one of the speakers, suggested that this would be an excellent plan.

A Republican Club woman got up to say that she thought there should be a large force of women police in the city.

"I don't think that would be practical," said Mrs. Hewitt. "As a rule, a strong right arm is one of the most valuable assets of a policeman."

"The Travelers' Aid Society women have much unnecessary trouble because they have no authority," said the Republican woman. "They go to the railway and ferry stations to assist unprotected girls, and when they find one who has run away from home they cannot get her to return because they have no authority and they must send for a policeman."

"The Travelers' Aid Society is having troubles of its own just now," said Mrs. Hewitt. "They may not wish to be appointed anyway, but we certainly could ask to have women with police authority for railway and ferry stations."

"I move that we adjourn for luncheon," said Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, and the motion was carried unanimously, and the Mayor will not receive a demand for women policemen until after the next Republican Club meeting.

Auto Trunks at Saks'
18 models—8.50 to 60.00

To go at back of car and to accommodate all the paraphernalia of motor travel. Models containing one tray up to those containing three suit cases of considerable dimensions. Special sizes to order at short notice.

Women's Week-end Trunks at Saks'
5 models—19.75 to 55.00

Just what many a woman wants who is worried to death every time she tries to reconcile a picture hat with four gowns, three pairs of shoes and what-not else in the ordinary old-style trunk. These week-end trunks have partitioned trays and some have hangers for clothes. Finest possible assortment of these trunks is at Saks'.

English Leather Steamer Trunks at Saks'
6 models—50.00 to 115.00

The greatest Anglo-Saxon characteristic is stability. Stability means to "stay put." And an English leather steamer trunk is a concrete example. In appearance it looks like a threat. Defiance sticks out at its reinforced corners, and the leather thongs that girdle it stand out like biceps on a fighter's arms. Magnificently made and will stand the toughest usage in the world.

By John Pounds of London, especially for Saks'.

Women's Dress Trunks at Saks'
Over 50 models—11.75 to 100.00

¶Basswood or veneer, covered with duck or pegamoid. Contains from two to three trays, to hold two to three hats and from ten to fifteen gowns. Ideal for home travel. These trunks begin as low as 11.75 and pass through infinite gradations until they reach 100.00. Yet all of them, regardless of price, are trunks of quality and the finest obtainable at their respective prices.

¶Our object in assembling such an unusually large assortment of these trunks will be apparent. All her sweet young life, woman has her hands full finding room for her clothes, and her tribulations are increased tenfold when she travels. Moreover, she wants to enjoy just as wide a selection in trunks as she does in gowns, gloves and ginghams. She can hardly be expected to find what she wants in a beggarly assortment of a dozen models. And that is why the Saks Trunk and Bag Department carries more than fifty models, including that very model which Madam wants.

Voyageur Trunks at Saks'
4 models

A set of black fibre trunks, comprising dress, skirt, steamer and hat trunks, and one man's trunk. Reveals the ratio of man's unimportance! Interiors designed from our specifications. Exclusive with Saks'.

Dress Trunk	23.50 to 28.50
Skirt Trunk	28.50 to 31.50
Hat Trunk	18.75 to 25.00
Steamer Trunk	17.50 to 22.50
Man's Trunk	26.50 to 28.50

Saks'—the Commissariat of Travel.

¶ And New Yorkers at home are of necessity great travelers, accustomed to spectacular distances, and thinking little or nothing of a 1,000-mile trip overnight.

¶ It was such considerations as these which impelled us to establish a travel department on parallel lines—a department big enough, broad enough and resourceful enough to provide for every need of the traveler.

¶ That was nine years ago, and to-day the Saks Trunk and Bag Department is still without a peer in the extent and the diversity of its travel assortments.

¶ It carries every conceivable requisite of travel from "the harmless necessary" grip to the trunk that rides hell-bent into the steamer hold and comes out none the worse for wear.

¶ The Saks Trunk and Bag Department is a great commissariat of travel, and whether you are bound for Boston, intent on Indianapolis, called to Chicago, pointing for Paris, leaving for London or considering the circumnavigation of the globe, Saks can equip you thoroughly, economically and expeditiously.

Skirt Trunks

Basswood or veneer, covered with canvas, vulcanized fibre or pegamoid. Three to five trays. Top tray in all sizes arranged for retention of other articles of wearing apparel. A skirt trunk, Madam, is one of the things you must have this Spring.

19 to 28 inches deep,

Steamer Trunks
50 models—8.75 to 39.50

Made especially for us, for stateroom use. Is the regulation style trunk for that purpose, except that it is made to our specifications, which embody unusual features of durability. Contains one or two trays. Will give maximum wear.

32 to 44 inch extreme size.

Special Trunks for Men
12 models—15.50 to 75.00

A low, flat, veneer trunk, containing compartments for shirts, shoes, hats, collars, etc. Also has trays for suits of clothes. These features vary, of course, according to price, but in every trunk the value is exceptional.

Sizes 36 to 40 inch.

Mule-Back Trunks
6 models—30.00 to 50.00

All sorts of trunks are sold as mule-back trunks. But at Saks' you get the genuine thing. Made of sole leather and heavily copper-riveted. To hang from either end of a strap across the back of a mule. Particularly for South America. Tougher than the mules that carry them.

By John Pounds, of London, especially for Saks'.

Women's Hat Trunks
50 models—7.50 to 70.00

For the woman who carries just an extra hat or two, or the woman who counts her millinery treasures by the dozen. We carry the biggest and most varied assortment of Women's Hat Trunks to be found anywhere. You positively must see them.

Rattan Basket Trunks
5 models—29.50 to 39.50

Covered with enameled duck and sole leather bound. Contain from two to four trays. Are deep and roomy and specially suited to European travel. The most aristocratic looking member of the trunk family. Has a sort of old-world gentility about him.

36 to 44 inches.

Boot Trunks at Saks'
4 models—18.00 to 25.00

Ingenuity with a vengeance! Dandy little trunks that contain a separate compartment for the left and another for the right of each and every pair of shoes you own. Beautifully constructed in several sizes.

Berth-high Steamer Wardrobe Trunks at Saks'
5 models—37.50 to 57.50

Made of veneer and fibre, in sizes to fit under your steamer berth. Will carry six suits on hangers, two dozen shirts, four or five pairs of shoes and a number of other things in special compartments. The very thing you want under your berth where it is easily accessible.

Height 13 inches—length 43 inches.

Wardrobe Trunks at Saks'

¶Progress is seldom uniform. It goes on in spots. You may travel under ground and under water from Jersey to Long Island—but the Bleecker Street Crosstown horse car still holds the uneven tenor of its way! And in spite of the wonderful facilities of travel, it is only within the past two years that any notable improvement has taken place in the manufacture of Wardrobe Trunks. But such improvements as have been made in that time amply compensate for the delay in their appearance.

¶The Wardrobe Trunk to-day would seem to be at the very height of its development. Compact in its capaciousness, complex yet simple, every Wardrobe Trunk at Saks' offers, in varying degree, permanent relief from the worries usually attendant upon the packing of the wherewithal for a trip. And we speak with a knowledge of our subject, for we carry the largest and the most varied stock of Wardrobe Trunks in the world.

¶In listing the Wardrobe Trunks below we have satisfied ourselves with a brief mention of the many brands of Wardrobe Trunks we handle and the prices. The name behind the trunk is in every instance a sufficient guarantee as to its quality and durability or it would not be represented by us. But behind that guarantee is ours, to stand sponsor for the merit and value of whatever we sell.

¶The Mendel de Luxe is an incomparable value at 150.00. But we can with equal accuracy say the same thing of the Saks Special Wardrobe Trunk for men and women, at 27.00. Each is the best that the price of either can buy and so are they all without exception.

Mendel wardrobe trunks, for men or women, 40 models, 36.00, 45.00, 50.00, 55.00, 60.00, 65.00, 75.00, 85.00, 100.00, 110.00, 150.00.

RAID THE FARMERS WHERE THEY TRADE

STACKED UP AT CITY HALL

Walsh's Men Find Few That Were Full Measure—Two Protesting Agrarians Made Prisoners.

J. J. Walsh, Commissioner of Weights and Measures, descended with his entire staff on Gansevoort Market yesterday morning and after a raid very disturbing to the nerves of the farmers and speculators who sell from wagons there marched down to City Hall with two men in custody and 1,115 confiscated baskets.

"They were bushel baskets," explained one of the oldest inhabitants of the market place, "only they wasn't."

These bushel baskets that weren't bushel baskets were taken down, load after load, to City Hall, only to be confronted by the janitor who refused to have them brought in. This presented a problem, for the Commissioner's storeroom in West Forty-ninth Street is full to overflowing with just such plunder from previous market raids. It looked as if rooms must be rented for these baskets, but in the meantime they were stacked up against one of the railings in City Hall Park. They will all be burned in good time.

Gansevoort Market, down by Little West Twelfth Street, is an open square with miniature streets, each of them named, criss-crossing so that the farmers from Staten Island, Long Island, and New Jersey can drive in and dicker with the grocers and the hucksters. The speculators drive there, too, and try to look like the farmers from whom they buy the produce.

Walsh and his men drove up to the market soon after 9 o'clock. Their coming was not unexpected, for the market men knew of the raids in Harlem and Brooklyn. It wa staken no more gracefully on that account, and the men disturbed, more than half of them farmers or farmers' drivers, were many of them very ugly about it. There was more than one attempt to evade the consequences, too.

A few of the men who had already tied on their canvas covers and started to drive off, were persuaded with difficulty to stay a while and submit to an inspection. One farmer vowed he had no baskets at all in his wagon, but the Inspectors took twelve baskets from him. It was said at the Commissioner's office later that in the whole market they found only three or four baskets that were full measure.

Some of them were stowed away in stores and saloons that look upon the square. These did not escape the Inspectors, who swarmed through the neighborhood. Walsh himself, dove into a Washington Street cellar and found his burrowing rewarded by a pile of baskets. It was dark down there, and a lot of them tumbled over on him, spoiling his hat for future use. To add to his discomfiture, when he started to go out, he found that it had occurred to somebody to lock him in, and he was there for ten minutes before one of the Inspectors came to his rescue.

Many of the commission merchants with offices in the neighborhood expressed themselves as highly delighted with what had happened.

"It ought to have been done forty years ago," said one of them.

The two men arrested were Alec Baxter, driver for an Elmhurst, N. J., farmer, and John Wulfurst, driver for a Jamaica farmer. They were paroled until a hearing this morning, in the Jefferson Market Court.

Baxter was charged with offering for sale five bushel baskets of beets, each about five and a half quarts short of good measure. Wulfurst was charged with having six short baskets in his possession with intent to use them. He was very indignant when they were confiscated, and said that if they took the baskets, they ought to take him, too. Commissioner Walsh decided to accommodate him.

Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn and his men raided an innocent-looking house at 105 East 112th Street yesterday afternoon. They did their work with considerable relish, for they say that the place was "Kid" Benson's, and a renewal of his gambling activities which Flynn interrupted about two weeks ago in Park Avenue, near 116th Street.

The result of the earlier raid was far from satisfactory, for thereafter Flynn's agent and his chief witness disappeared. The police say that friends of the men arrested had made it pleasant and profitable for the chief witness to move to other parts. Only yesterday morning Magistrate House regretfully discharged the men taken in the first raid, and as they passed out of court they grinned at Flynn's secretary, Jack Hill, and taunted him with some rude messages for Flynn himself.

It was with much satisfaction, therefore, that the police dropped in on the 112th Street place later in the day. They say that Benson opened it two days after he was disturbed further uptown, but closed it again to await the disposition of the earlier case.

On the ground floor was what was called the Minot Club, but it was upstairs that Flynn's men found a surprise. They said it was in the "Kid's" apartment, and their only regret was caused by the fact that he did not appear to be at home.

Three rooms made up the apartment, and they were richly furnished. On a centre table a tempting supper was spread. It was a good supper, and the duck was steaming as the police intruded. From the wall the portrait of a police Captain in full uniform looked down upon them. To make the inspection thorough they glanced into the wardrobes, and were edified by the haberdashery and clothing display, which, according to one of them, looked as though it might belong to King George. They vowed there were all of forty suits of clothes hanging there nattily.

Back of this apartment was a large room, where the practical part of the raid was carried out, seventy-five men being lined up for identification. While they were searching their pockets for credentials that would bear out the names they gave the police saw a wealth of pawn-tickets which told of men patrons in hard straits and eager to amend their fortunes by radical measures. Of the seventy-five the police arrested five.

One of the suspects was on the roof. The police identified him as the man for whom the "John Sheethanger" warrant called, and they interrupted him in the interesting process of cutting a "pirate" telephone wire, which the police say ran to a neighboring saloon. Far along the roofs they found another man, whom they traced by following another wire, which ended in a bundle in his hand. His explanations were not illuminating.

It was with a certain ruminative pleasure that Secretary Hills pictured to himself last night the expression on the proprietor's face when he should return to his establishment and find, instead of a throng of patrons, two muscular policemen camping there for the night.

ACQUITTED AGAIN OF GRAFT.

Can't Convict Former Under Sheriff, as His Handwriting Isn't in Evidence.

As it is not of record that Under Sheriff John M. Phillips, who is a recognized power in Democratic politics in Queens, ever wrote a letter, all efforts on the part of the prosecution to convict him on any one of the nine graft indictments against him failed in two trials, and for the second time within a few days Justice Maddox directed Phillips's acquittal yesterday by a jury in the Queens County Supreme Court, Long Island City.

Two indictments returned against Phillips charged him with grand larceny and fraud, two have been dismissed by the court, two have been the basis of two trials, in which acquittal was ordered by the court.

In order to implicate Phillips it was necessary to prove his handwriting, and Justice Maddox ruled that in order to establish a standard for comparison Phillips's handwriting in some quantity must be produced in court. The prosecution could find only four words purporting to have been written by Phillips.

Lawyer Eugene N. L. Young, representing Phillips, asked to have the jury directed to render a verdict of acquittal and also to find that no crime had been committed. Justice Maddox directed the acquittal, but refused to have the jury find that no crime had been committed. It is probable that the five remaining indictments against Phillips will now be dismissed.

A. G. VANDERBILT HOUSE AFIRE

Hot Tar Starts a Blaze on the Roof of the Home He Has Leased.

Some excitement was caused yesterday afternoon when the fire engines rattled up to the residence leased by Alfred G. Vanderbilt at 11 East Sixty-second Street, to put out a fire caused by the burning of a pot of tar on the roof.

The house was leased from E. J. Fabry, who is now in Europe, and was undergoing some repairs to the roof. Mr. Vanderbilt has not yet moved into the house. When the workmen discovered the fire they sent in an alarm and the firemen made short work of the flames, after they had done about $20 damage.

Smith Gray & Co.
Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

Sixty six times has Easter, with all that it means for men, come and gone since the house of Smith Gray & Co. first opened its doors. Never in all those years has the assortment been so comprehensive or the values, due to our long experience, been so great as now.

READY-FOR-SERVICE

Smith Gray & Co. clothes, stamped with the approval of three generations of better dress New York, are offered in greater variety of both fabric and model than at any corresponding season in our entire history. The styles reflect the consensus of the world's best thoughts from all the better style producing centres, domestic and foreign. Smith Gray & Co. Spring and Summer Suits and Spring Overcoats range in price from 18.00 to 50.00 with special values at 15.50 and 18.50

22.50 BLUE SERGE SUITS 16.00

No finer evidence of the economic possibilities of the Smith Gray & Co. plant has ever been shown than these 22.50 suits at 16.00. The fabric is the product of one of America's foremost weavers, acquired very much underprice—the tailoring was used to keep our immense custom shops busy in moments that might otherwise have been slack, and profits have been sacrificed that the disposal may be immediate. There are six distinctive styles for men and young men—your saving is 6.50.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Smith Gray & Co. clothes for children were the first children's ready-for-service clothes ever made in America—today their supremacy in this particular field is admittedly as great as in those early days when they were the sole producers. The display of Spring, 1911, models is the most complete and exhaustive in all our history. Smith Gray & Co. children's Suits and Spring Coats range in price from 7.50 to 18.00, with boys' long trouser Suits and Spring Coats at 16.00 to 30.00.

Russian and Sailor Suits and Spring Reefers, all in blue serge and fancy mixed cheviots; regular 6.50 values........ 4.75

Russian and Sailor Suits, in blue serge, tan worsteds and fancy mixed cheviots; regular values 8.50........ 5.75

Norfolk and Double Breasted Suits, in blue serge and fancy mixed cheviots; regular values 8.50........ 6.75

BOYS' LONG TROUSER SUITS

Tailored in the Smith Gray & Co. shops, styled by the Smith Gray & Co. expert designers of Boys' clothing, made from excellent high grade velours and blue serges, sizes from 15 to 20 years; standard values at 16.00 and 18.00...... 13.50

SUITS and SPRING OVERCOATS 15.50 and 18.50 SPECIAL

New York has seen no values to compare with these—by every known standard they are 20.00 to 25.00 garments. All are tailored in our own custom shops and are in every respect the equal of those garments offered you for 4.50 to 7.00 more.

18.50 Suits include blue serges of all pure Australian yarn dyed worsteds and high grade velours—neat mixtures in exclusive Smith Gray & Co. designs—colorings in grounds of black, brown, gray and all the new Spring shades.

18.50 Spring Overcoats include smart new tweed weaves and designs, also velours and worsted finished cheviots in the correct shades of gray, brown and various mixtures.

Silk lined to edge Oxford and black vicuna finished thibet Spring Overcoats, an excess value that has to be seen to be appreciated 20.00

Despite our immense facilities, the supply has never been able to cope with the demand for these garments. The sizes are almost invariably broken. Now it happens that the size range is complete, and if you would participate, we urge that you act quickly.

FURNISHINGS

NEGLIGEE SHIRTS—percales, printed and woven madras in all the new correct Spring colors, in plain and plaited bosoms, coat style, attached cuffs, in every size and sleeve length—all are regular 1.50 and 2.00 values........ 1.15

UMBRELLAS—silk finished Venetian taffeta with handles trimmed in sterling silver, rolled plate and horn—plain natural wood in mission, composition, weichsel, Congo, furze and all the more desirable woods—sizes 26 and 28 inches; all are regular 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00 values...... 1.00

HATS

This particular Easter offering includes some 2,000 Derbies and Soft Hats—the assortment including samples, regular lines reduced and a few classed by the maker as slightly imperfect. All are in the new correct Spring, 1911, blocks—in the Derbies, the new low crowns and flat brims predominating—every correct style, shape, color and dimension is represented—all are regular 2.50 to 5.00 values........ 1.75

By painstaking, conscientious work get the facts, regardless of what it costs to get them.

Then give readers those facts, in so far as possible without color or bias.

Boards. 12mo. $1.00 net.

The title poem of this volume elicited the following letter from the late John Hay, then Secretary of State:

"I thank you very much for your poem, which I have read with great interest and enjoyment. I am old and tired, but still I take pleasure in the dreams of other men when they treat of noble things—and are well told. Lines like

'For Spring finds Summer trembling in the root,
And the March mists are melting into

and

'Only the seeker worthy of the quest
Shall find the perfect land,'

ASCRITTORE AGAIN HEARD AT VITERBO

RECESS FOR OVER EASTER

Documents Showing Connection of Vitozzi's Alleged Agent with the Police and How He Did His Work.

VITERBO, April 11.—To-day's session of the Camorra trial was occupied throughout with the cross-examination of Giacomo Ascrittore, at the conclusion of which an adjournment was taken until after Easter.

Ascrittore denounced Tommaso de Angelis and Gaetano Amedeo as the murderers of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife in order, the State alleges, to shield the real assassins. For two days the prisoner had been trying to convince the jury that he acted in good faith and was not in a conspiracy with the priest Ciro Vitozzi, who told the authorities that he had learned in the confessional of the guilt of the two men.

To-day Ascrittore insisted that he still believed de Angelis and Amedeo took part in the killing of the Cuocolos, and he posed as a martyr to the machinations of the Carabinieri and examining Judges. He said in substance:

"During the investigation of the murders I was forced to withdraw my evidence against de Angelis and Amedeo. The Carabinieri and the Judges prosecuted me for calumny and kept me in jail for nearly four years. Thus they made a martyr not only of me but of my poor mother, who in the eighty-third year of her life is crying her eyes out."

Ascrittore's reference to his mother drew a chorus of wails from the prisoners' steel cage, while his accusations against de Angelis and Amedeo provoked counter-demonstrations from the friends of the latter. The day was quite as fruitful of the melodramatic as have been earlier sittings.

The case of the ex-convicts, Tommaso de Angelis and Gaetano Amedeo, accused by Don Ciro Vitozzi, Giacomo Ascrittore, and Antonio Parlotl of murdering the Cuocolos—an accusation agitated and sustained by the local police and judiciary of Naples for over two years—should not be confounded in any way with the case of the men in the cage, who are now being tried on the same charge on evidence procured by the Reali Carabinieri or national military police.

There are two distinct periods of activity against de Angelis and Amedeo, which convinced the Carabinieri that their prosecution was the result of a plot to shield the guilty. One period began with the first arrest of the Alfanos, Ibelli, and Rapi on June 9, 1906, four days after the Cuocolo murders, and lasted until the Camera Consiglio of Naples, presided over by Cavaliere Silvio Petrone and comprised of Judges Romano and Colosimo, ordered their release on July 17 following. The other period began with the wholesale arrest of the Camorristi in February, 1907, due to the investigations of the Carabiniere detectives, Fabroni, Farris, and Capizzuti.

On being interrogated on Saturday and Monday last as to why he had denounced de Angelis and Amedeo, Ascrittore answered that he had done so in good faith because he believed them to be guilty, and that he had done so, uninfluenced by any one—not even by the priest Vitozzi, whom he did not know. He moreover charged the Carabinieri with having tried to bribe him to withdraw his charge.

There is evidence in the possession of the Carabinieri secured by Capt. Fabroni from the Neapolitan police and judiciary showing that the activities of Ascrittore were simultaneous with those of Vitozzi, and did not confine themselves to a mere denunciation before the examining Magistrate, Enrico Romano, any more than Vitozzi did. It was Vitozzi who suggested that Ascrittore be interrogated—first to Romano and then to Cavaliere Ciccaglione, who ultimately issued the warrants for the arrest of de Angelis, Amedeo, and Ciro Maresca, the last of whom was only detained a short while, on presenting an alibi.

It is easy to see why serious attention should be paid to a man of Vitozzi's position and influence before the police and judiciary, but the attention paid to Ascrittore is another matter.

Giacomo Ascrittore is 50 years of age, with a criminal record of small offenses. He has long been an informer unofficially connected with the Neapolitan police. A member of the Bassa or Lower Camorra, he knew sufficient secrets of the society to make him useful to the police, but he only utilized his information for the advancement of the Camorra. For example, a robbery would be committed and the heads of the society believed that they had not received their proper share of the booty. Thus it became necessary to discipline the delinquents, and Ascrittore would "tip off" the police. There was little danger of the arrested Camorristi in turn betraying the comrades who had betrayed them, and they usually took their medicine in silence, bound by the fatal "omertà," the breaking of which meant death.

Ascrittore, therefore, was in a position to be listened to when he made his first depositions in June and July, 1906, particularly as they were indorsed by a man like Don Ciro Vitozzi. Here are two letters from among many written by him at the periods of activity against de Angelis and Amedeo, (June-July, 1906, and February, 1907,) which were also signalized by great activity on the part of Vitozzi at Castellammare di Stabia, Bari, and Torre Annunziata, as revealed by the correspondence published in these columns on Sunday. The first is addressed to the Questore of the Police at Bari, Cavaliere Carmarino, who, it will be remembered, had, on June 14, 1906, sent a dispatch to the head of the police in Naples asking for an agent to whom he might make an important communication in regard to the Cuocolo murder, and reads:

> NAPLES, June 25, 1906.—Illustrissimo Sig. Cavaliere.—I write to you to-day in much haste. About nine o'clock this morning I saw de Angelis completely changed. He was no longer dressed like a coal heaver, but had a clean-shaven chin and trimmed mustache and wore a straw hat and dark clothes. He had a spot on his right cheek as large as a five-lire piece stained with nitrate of silver.
> I only caught a fleeting glimpse of him, but as it was at Vasto I believe that he is hiding somewhere near Poggio Reale. I beg you to preserve the utmost secrecy, because this fellow is capable of killing me, for he is capable of anything and would end it all—since he has said to those whom he has met that it would be difficult to capture him. I write you simply that you may be ready to recognize him. Yesterday I wrote you another letter. With the greatest esteem, I am your very devoted,
>
> (Signed) GIACOMO ASCRITTORE.
>
> Signor Cavaliere, this notice I send in regard to his stained face you should not let be known so that he might be recognized by some "reporter" before his arest, otherwise he might kill me, for I alone have seen him. You should transmit this information with the utmost secrecy. I can assure you that de Angelis is a second Musolino!

The second letter was received by Carmarino after it had begun to be whispered in police circles that the Carabinieri were making an investigation, but before Fabroni, as a disguised law clerk; Farris, as a gentleman of fashion, and Capizutti, as a Camorrista, had revealed their hands—before, in fact, the arrest of Salvi, Sortino, Murra, and others which drove Kapi to Paris and Alfano to New York.

> Naples, Feb. 13, 1907. Illustrissimo Sig. Cavaliere. After a long silence I am constrained to write herewith to tell you that Naples is the only city of Italy without justice, as you know full well on account of the preceding events to which I have referred. In regard to the assassination of the Cuocolo couple, after a long investigation nothing has resulted—just as nothing is expected to result from work done by the carabinieri.
> So I put myself upon the track of the "real murderer"; it is now more than a fortnight since I found him, and became intimate with him, and gave him something every day, so that I am 50 lire ($10) out. You know that the murderer and others are furnished with caps of the electric company, and hope to turn a good thing this very week.
>
> So I went to the police. After having declared all the facts they are now convinced that these (de Angelis and Anedeo) are the real murderers—for there are now two, as I made known to the police.
>
> Well, what do you think? The police have not the courage to order their arrest. Then the agent, Sig. Cav. Ippolito, repaired to the Public Prosecutor, using my name. But Signor Public Prosecutor did not wish to issue the order for arrest, since de Angelis was already under surveillance.
>
> But all the same, whatever the R. R. C. C. (Reali Carabinieri) have done is for the best, since the "reali rei" ("the real kings" meaning Alfano, Rapi, and the heads of the Camorra) are at liberty. But at any moment they may collect money and take flight; but this very morning I went to the Hon. Pasquale Placido and told everything.
>
> But the Hon. Placido told me that he could do nothing, as he had been retained to defend the Mandiere, ("the cattle driver," that is Gennaro de Marinis, who is now on trial charged with having planned the Cuocolo murder.) My fear is that to-morrow he may denounce me (to the Camorra) and that I face the fate of Cuocolo, although I have the consciousness of having told the simple truth.
>
> Therefore, I beg you, in nome di Dio, to occupy yourself with this matter that light may shine and that you shall have done justice a great service. I hope that you will want me to communicate with you by telegraph, otherwise my information may not be fresh and some day my letter may become a "document." Again I declare myself to be your most devoted servant.
> GIACOMO ASCRITTORE.

The prosecution believes from these and similar letters that Ascrittore was at first working for the arrest of de Angelis without knowing who the real murderers were, but that later he learned, and, fearing their arrest—the arrest of "the real kings"—he tried to precipitate the case aginst de Angelis and Amedeo, ("for there are now two," he writes,) and thus again divert attention from the real issue as he had in the Summer of 1906. Apparently, however, the plans of the carabinieri had been well laid.

EVERY WOMAN WAS DROWNED

Six Were Penned in Iroquois Deckhouse When the Sea Broke In.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 11.—Nearly every woman on board the wooden steamer Iroquois, which foundered yesterday near Sidney, Vancouver Island, was drowned.

Penned in the deckhouse of the boat, five or six women struggled while the sea broke in. One elderly woman was seen helplessly lying on the cushions of the saloon seat. Two others were beating against the glass of the saloon windows when the survivors clambered out to struggle up the side to the dock. Harry Hartnall, brother of the drowned steward, was seen adrift on a door, and was rescued by Indians. At Coal Island, the sea cast up the body of Miss Isabel Fenwick. She had no life preserver, and had tried to reach shore on a mattress, to which her hand still clung.

Harry S. Moss, a passenger, lay on the wreck of the house with Mate Isbister, John Bennett, and an unknown passenger, drifting about for two hours. The sea washed the broken deckhouse against Mary Island, and the mate jumped ashore with a rope and pulled Bennett and Moss ashore. They threw the rope to the fourth man, who was clinging, dazed and almost unconscious, to a davit fast to the wreckage.

The rope whirled around his neck, but he paid no attention. He still clung to the davit. Then a breaker came, turned the deck over, and he was not seen again. The total death list is twenty.

AMERICAN PLAN IN JAMAICA.

New York Concern Wants to Construct a Dock at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 11.—To-day's papers state that a New York business house has agreed to finance a plan for the construction of a floating dock in this harbor. A promoter is here negotiating with the local Government.

The company wishes to obtain the exclusive right to operate a floating dock for ninety-nine years and to obtain the necessary seafront for the plant, which is to cost $750,000.

BRANDRETH FREED; BELGIUM APOLOGIZES

New Yorker Released After Serving Twenty Days of a Two-Year Sentence.

COMPENSATION IS OFFERED

American and Companion Were Accused by a Hotel Keeper—Our Legation Takes Up the Case.

BRUSSELS, April 11.—Ralph C. Brandreth of New York and Auguste Mathias, who is described as Mr. Brandreth's secretary, have been released from prison through the intervention of the Minister of Justice, after serving twenty days of a two-year sentence.

Brandreth and Mathias were charged with having swindled the proprietor of a hotel, and were subsequently imprisoned as vagabonds. It is asserted that an investigation conducted by the Minister of Justice convinced him that Brandreth was an American millionaire.

Maître Revelard, counsel for Mr. Brandreth, says his client is senior partner in the Allcock Manufacturing Company of New York. He explains that Mr. Brandreth found himself temporarily without money and was unable to pay his bill at the hotel. The hotel keeper asked him to leave, which he did, stopping with a friend. The hotel keeper later denounced him to the police and charged that he had borrowed money under false pretenses.

Brandreth was arrested on March 17, and in spite of protests was sentenced to two years' imprisonment as a vagrant. The court proceedings passed unnoticed. In the meantime the Minister of Justice cabled to New York in order to verify Brandreth's identity, but received no reply until to-day. He then immediately ordered the release of Brandreth, with apologies.

It is understood, however, that the matter will not be allowed to rest there. The American Legation will begin an investigation of the case, considering it inadmissible that an American should lie twenty days in jail without the opportunity of justifying himself. The authorities are greatly annoyed over the affair, and announce their readiness to make ample official expression of regret, with pecuniary compensation if it be desired.

The Judge who had charge of the case asserts that the fault in the delay lies with the New York authorities. While waiting for confirmation of his identity, the Judge says, Mr. Brandreth was subjected to the most lenient rules of the prison.

The Brussels newspapers this evening comment on the affair in strong terms. The Etoile Belge says it is a shame that such an incident is possible in Belgium and that it is probable that it will lead to a reform of the law of vagrancy.

Inquiry at New York Police Headquarters last night brought the reply that there was no record of the receipt of any cablegram of inquiry from Belgium regarding Ralph C. Brandreth.

Brandreth, younger son of the late well-known manufacturer of medicine, has figured twice before in sensational stories. In 1907 he started what was announced to be a tour of the world in the ninety-foot auxiliary yacht Taormina. He came under the surveillance of the United States authorities, because it was believed that the real object of the expedition was to filibuster on the coast of Venezuela, which was then having troubles with Castro. Brandreth had to make an affidavit that he had no belligerent intentions before he was allowed to sail. His trip was brought to a sudden close by two collisions off the shore of Long Island, which nearly sank his yacht and forced him to return to New York, where a Deputy Sheriff seized the Taormina on a $300 grocer's judgment.

Brandreth and his fiancée, Miss Edith Hill Armstrong, were badly injured in an automobile accident in June, 1909, and were married while still suffering from their injuries at Monroe, N. Y., on June 15, 1909. The ceremony was preceded by the moving of the beds of the bride and bridegroom into the same room, followed by a bed in which lay another victim of the motor car accident, Mrs. Martha McKay of Sternbridge, Penn., an aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Brandreth, who is now living at Bretton Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street, said yesterday that she did not know her husband's wereabouts, and that she had been separated from him for several months. There were cable reports from him at Monte Carlo last January, and in February the executors of his father's estate in this city received a message from him at Genoa which read: "Broke; down and out. Robbed. Railroad wreck. Send $400 quick."

On April 1 there was filed with the Surrogate of Suffolk County, at Riverhead, L. I., the nineteenth assignment of a portion of Brandreth's interest in his father's estate. Brandreth's mother, who still occupies the family home at Bellport, L. I., had no news of her son yesterday, she said.

None of Brandreth's friends in this city could shed any light on the identity of the Auguste Mathias mentioned in the Brussels dispatch. When he started out on the ill-fated voyage of the Taormina, Brandreth was accompanied by a Dr. von Biederman, a tutor engaged by his mother, who also, it was said, represented scientific interests of the Universities of Chicago and Berlin. Brandreth was also accompanied by Capt. Lovelace, a well-known soldier of fortune who had taken part in a number of Latin-American revolutions, and at one time was Admiral of the navy of the Republic of Panama.

AMERICANS LIVE BETTER.

Cost Higher Here Than in Britain, but Wages Are Better.

LONDON, April 11.—Copies of a report on the cost of living in American cities, based on inquiries made in twenty-eight representative towns by officials of the British Board of Trade, were circulated in Parliament this evening.

The report makes a voluminous budget of 533 pages, and covers the questions of working-class rents, housing, retail prices of commodities, and rates of wages in the United States, compiled for purposes of comparison with the conditions of workers in the United Kingdom and other countries. The conclusions reached are:

"The cost of food and rent combined is 52 per cent. greater in the United States than in England and Wales, but these heavier relative charges on working-class incomes have been accompanied with weekly wages which are as 230 to 100."

The report adds that this ratio of money earnings, more than two and one-quarter times as great as in England and Wales, "makes possible a command of the necessaries, conveniences, and minor luxuries of life that is both nominally and really greater than that enjoyed by the corresponding class in this country, although the effective margin in practice is curtailed by a scale of expenditure to some extent necessarily, and to some extent voluntarily, adopted in accordance with the different and higher standard of material comfort."

CHICAGO, April 11.—Ice will cost more in Chicago this Summer than in 1910, according to an announcement made by leading dealers yesterday. A shortage in the ice crop and an increase in freight rates are responsible for ice being placed in the increased-cost-of-living column.

BALLOON FLIES 600 MILES.

Lieut. Honeywell Lands at Little Rock, Failing to Break Lahm Record.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 11.—Lieut. H. E. Honeywell of the Missouri Signal Corps, who with his aid, J. W. Tolland, started at 6:35 Monday night from San Antonio, Texas, in an effort to lift the Lahm Cup and break the world's long-distance balloon record, has descended safely at Little Rock, Ark., after traveling through the air over 600 miles. Thus he failed to break the Lahm record.

Lieut. Honeywell and Mr. Tolland sent the following dispatch to the Aero Club of St. Louis:

> Landed fifteen miles south of Little Rock, Ark., at 1:30 P. M. to-day.
>
> Throughout Tuesday we sailed through favorable air currents, but exhausted them at altitude of 10,000 feet. We headed south with thirty sacks of ballast. We left San Antonio with forty-seven.
>
> We encountered rain, thunder and lightning in the clouds all last night.

The balloon passed northward over Hot Springs, Ark., 582 miles from San Antonio, at 10 o'clock this morning, according to a dispatch to St. Louis. It then appeared to be 1,200 feet above the earth, and was traveling at about 40 miles an hour.

When the start was made in the rain at San Antonio on Monday evening the big gas bag shot off in fine shape, sailing to the west. The wind was then blowing 80 miles an hour. The balloon was so ballasted that it immediately arose to a height of 2,000 feet, where the experience of the two balloonists, Harman and Asman, had shown that the best currents north and northeast were to be found. Lieut. Honewell hoped to land somewhere in Canada.

LOSES SEAT BY ONE VOTE.

Another Liberal M. P. Replaced by a Unionist After Investigation.

LONDON, April 11.—As the result of a scrutiny of the votes cast in Exeter at the last election another Liberal member of the House of Commons, Richard Harold St. Maur, has been unseated. Henry Edward Duke, the former Unionist member, was declared elected by a majority of one.

A number of ballots on both sides were thrown out because of illegal payments in connection with campaign expenses.

The Deutschland II. at Duesseldorf.

DUESSELDORF, April 11.—Count Zeppelin's dirigible balloon Deutschland II. arrived to-day from Frankfort-on-the-Main and will be stationed here permanently to carry out the contract with the Municipality for passenger flights.

PATRICIAN Shoe

Easter Footwear

THIS is the time when every woman puts forth special effort to appear at her best. Easter is the season when mediocrity in dress is not to be considered. It is the season when gloves, hats, and shoes must be absolutely beyond reproach. We emphasize the word shoes, because a pair of stylish shoes adds tenfold to the effect of an exclusive costume, and we accent the word "PATRICIAN" because PATRICIAN SHOES are quintessence of refinement and elegance—the acknowledged aristocrats of feminine footwear.

DIX PREPARES PLAN FOR CONSERVATION

Wants a State Commissioner with an Advisory Board of Other Department Heads.

MERGER OF OTHER BRANCHES

Would Abolish Forest, Fish and Game and Water Supply Commissions—Confers on Other Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 11.—Plans for the establishment of the proposed new State Department of Conservation are well under way. A bill outlining the Governor's ideas with reference to this new factor in the State administration is being prepared by Thomas Mott Osborne, Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner, and G. P. Decker, counsel to the commission. It was learned to-day that the bill probably will be introduced shortly after the Legislature reconvenes next Monday.

The creation of this new department is part of the Governor's plan to inaugurate a more rigid economy in the administration of the State Government. But there is more to it. The Governor has a very keen appreciation of the need of conserving the natural resources of the State. He has given close study to this question, and has some very definite ideas on the subject, which will be incorporated in the bill.

If this proposed measure is enacted by the Legislature both the Forest, Fish and Game Commission and the State Water Supply Commission will cease to exist as independent administrative departments of the Government and be merged into the proposed State Department of Conservation. This new department, however, will have powers and duties beyond those now possessed and exercised by the two commissions.

It is planned to place a State Conservation Commissioner at the head of the new department. There is also to be an advisory commission, following the general idea of the Governor as worked out in the new Highway Commission bill. The advisory board is to be made up of the Conservation Commissioner, Attorney General Carmody, State Engineer Bensel, Supt. Treman of the State Department of Public Works, and Commissioner Porter of the State Health Department. The executive powers of the commission, however, are to be lodged with the Conservation Commissioner.

There will be several bureaus in the new department, such as the bureaus of marine fisheries, inland fisheries, protection of fish and game, forestry, water storage, water pollution, legal affairs, and administrative work.

Gov. Dix conferred to-day with Robert F. Wagner, President pro tem. of the Senate, and Speaker Frisbie with reference to forthcoming legislation and plans to expedite the work of the Legislature when that body reconvenes next week. The Governor is very anxious that the Legislature shall so arrange its work that final adjournment may be taken not later than May 19.

The legislative leaders propose to add one full legislative day every week by working on Friday, but with all the important legislation still pending and many measures embodying reforms which Gov. Dix has very much at heart not even presented to the lawmaking body as yet, the legislative leaders do not believe that the Governor's hope can be realized if anything like the ordinary time is to be allowed for the preparation of and debate on important bills pending or yet to be introduced.

In addition to the legislation that must be disposed of, another task awaits the Legislature which is likely to retard somewhat the final adjournment. Following the Federal census Congress has made a new allotment of Representatives in the House, materially increasing the representation in this State and making necessary a new apportionment of the Congressional districts.

It was announced to-day that in following out his programme of economy Gov. Dix will ask the Legislature to reduce from five to three the membership of the State Fair Commission. This body has supervision over the vast fair grounds at Syracuse, the maintenance of the fair structures and the erection of new buildings. Commissioner A. E. Perin, the acting member of the existing commission, has been at the capital for some time advising the Governor in connection with the proposed change, which is said to be in accord with his views.

Under the new law, if enacted, the State Commissioner of Agriculture will be an ex-officio member of the State Fair Commission. Gov. Dix is of the opinion, however, that the proposed change should not go into effect until after this year's fair has been held next September.

Although Dean Liberty H. Bailey of the State School of Agriculture of Cornell has declined appointment as Commissioner of Agriculture, Gov. Dix has asked for another conference in the hope of persuading Dean Bailey to accept.

DIX GETS STONE-THROWER.

Holds Cycle of Boy Who Threw Missile at Wife and Gets Apology.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 11.—Gov. Dix has a letter of apology, penned in the Executive Chamber yesterday, by a stone-thrower, William Huested, the twelve-year-old son of James E. Huested of Delmar, Albany County.

On Saturday afternoon Gov. and Mrs. Dix passed through Delmar in an automobile. They noticed two boys standing near the road, and one of them, young Huested, threw a stone which struck the Governor's wife in the back. Mrs. Dix, however, was uninjured. The Governor stopped the machine and pursued the boy, who vanished through an orchard.

In his flight young Huested had left his bicycle by the roadside, and near it stood the boy's companion. Gov. Dix ordered his chauffeur to put the bicycle into the automobile and drive to the nearest Deputy Sheriff, in whose possession it was left, with instructions to keep it until ordered to release it. Huested's companion took note of the number of the automobile, not knowing whose it was.

The boys notified Mr. Huested of the incident, and when he came to the city yesterday he inquired as to the owner of the automobile. He was surprised to learn it was the Governor who had seized the bicycle, and went to the Executive Chamber to claim it. Gov. Dix informed Mr. Huested that his son had been engaged in a dangerous practice, and that he desired that the boy make an apology. Mr. Huested left and returned with his son, who sat at the Governor's desk and wrote a letter expresing regret that he had thrown a stone, and promising to use his efforts to discourage the practice among his playmates.

Gov. Dix said the practice of throwing stones at automobiles was increasing, and he felt that something should be done to stop it. Young Huested left the Capitol with the Governor's order which restored his bicycle.

URGE LABOR INSURANCE FUND

Unions Want One Formed by State, Employers, and Workers.

ALBANY, April 11.—The Executive Committee of the State Federation of Labor voted to-day to ask the Legislature to pass an insurance act for the benefit of men in hazardous employments. It is proposed to have the State, employer, and employe contribute to a fund and have a State official designated as the custodian. In case of an accident money is to be paid to the injured employe, and if he dies his family is to receive an annuity.

It was also decided to draft a measure holding all corporations liable for compensation in case of accident. The committee feels that corporations can be made liable by a legislative act, but hopes to extend the liability to all employers through a constitutional amendment, in view of the recent decision of the Court of Appeals declaring unconstitutional the workmen's compulsory compensation law.

The committee also favors a so-called fellow-servant act for this State, to prohibit employers from attempting to place the blame on a fellow-workman when a man is injured.

HANDS OUT EXCISE PLUMS.

Farley Appoints Corscadden Albany Deputy and Nolan Attorney.

ALBANY, April 11.—State Excise Commissioner Farley to-day appointed John E. Corscadden of Albany as special Deputy Excise Commissioner for Albany County and James J. Nolan of Albany as attorney in the Albany office of the State Excise Department.

Mr. Corscadden was backed by State Committeeman P. E. McCabe, while it is understood that Mr. Nolan, who has been identified with the faction that is opposing McCabe's leadership, was recommended by Gov. Dix.

B. R. T. WOULD BUILD TRIBOROUGH SUBWAY

Officials Have So Assured City and Directors Are Expected to Give Their Approval To-day.

CONFERENCES COME TO HEAD

Definite Agreement on Demands for Changes in Interborough's Offer May Be Reached at Once.

The Public Service Commission and the Subway Committee of the Board of Estimate will receive to-day from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company definite assurance of the willingness of that corporation to operate a through subway route in Manhattan and the Bronx, laid out on the lines of the Triborough subway. The Directors of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company will meet early in the afternoon to act on the matter, and afterward Col. T. S. Williams, President of the company, and a committee of its Directors, will confer with the commission and the Board of Estimate Committee.

The city's conferrees already have received informal assurances from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's representatives that they would be willing to have the Triborough subway system, including the Fourth Avenue route, added to their Brooklyn extensions proposed several weeks ago, and enter into the competition for through traffic in Manhattan and the Bronx. The Executive Committee met on Monday and confirmed this assurance, and it is considered certain that the Directors will approve to-day the stand taken by the Executive Committee.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's willingness to annex the Triborough subway was expressed promptly, it was learned, after the city's subway conferrees had asked its representatives if they would be disposed to take over the Triborough in case negotiations with the Interborough were broken off. It was suggested at that time that a public announcement that such a stage had been reached in the negotiations should be made, but it appears that Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission requested that nothing be said.

The willingness of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to enter the field in Manhattan and the Bronx, it is understood, was held as a club over the Interborough to force concessions in the pending subway offer. How the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company feels in this situation could not be learned yesterday, but it is understood that representatives of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company are not at all pleased by it.

After to-day's conference with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, however, the commission and the McAneny Committee will meet again to-morrow, at which time it is fairly likely that a definite agreement will be reached on the modifications of the Interborough offer to be demanded by the city. Those members of the Public Service Commission who have been working to have the Interborough's offer accepted may possibly prolong the discussion further, but Borough President McAneny of Manhattan and Borough President Miller of the Bronx, who hold the balance of power in the Board of Estimate, are known to have determined that a definite conclusion be reached this week if there is any way of doing it.

The proposal put up to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, so far as an outline could be obtained of it yesterday, embraces the Broadway-Lexington Avenue Subway in Manhattan, with the Bronx extensions of the Triborough, and a new set of connections with Brooklyn, through the Manhattan Bridge end of the Fourth Avenue route, and an under-river tunnel from the lower end of Manhattan Island. It is probable that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, under these conditions, would be asked to give up the Broadway line to Fifty-ninth Street, as Broadway from Fourteenth Street to Central Park has always been more or less sentimentally connected with the moving-platform idea on account of character of the traffic.

However, the Triborough thus added to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's system would adapt itself to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's proposed connections in Queens Borough via the Queensboro Bridge, and the Fourth Avenue line has already been figured on by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company in connection with its Brooklyn extensions.

THROUGH A $350 WINDOW.

Strangely Behaved Man Beats Night Watchman and Makes Frantic Leap.

A supposed burglar entered the shop of the Albert Tailoring Company in the Fleishman Building, 49 West Forty-second Street, by the rear door early yesterday morning, and on finding the place in possession of a night watchman was so loath to tarry that he chose an exit by way of a 20 by 16 plate glass window in preference to the door, which the watchman, very much frightened, would gladly have opened for him. The window, which is said to have cost $350, was completely shattered.

A few minutes after the crash Patrolman Farrell of the East Fifty-first Street Police Station found a man stretched out on the steps of the new City Library, just across from the tailoring establishment, badly cut and apparently deranged in mind. He said he was William Townsend, a bookkeeper, 27 years old, of 19 Whittier Street, Melrose, Mass.

Peter Gritte, 45 years old, a stoutly built German, is employed in the shop in the double capacity of bushelman by day and watchman by night. He said that he heard a knock at the rear door a few hours before business usually begins and arose to open, thinking that it was Milford Simis, his employer. The stranger at the door, he says, bolted past him, and a fight ensued in which the German, to all appearances, was much worsted. Everything in the fitting and display rooms was turned topsy turvy, but there was no attempt to take any of the stock. Then the stranger suddenly jumped up into the display window facing on Forty-second Street, and without much ado plunged through it head foremost.

Townsend denied all knowledge of an attempted burglary. He was taken, a prisoner, to Flower Hospital, charged with being a suspicious person. Later he was transferred to Bellevue Hospital for examination. There the authorities would not allow Gritte to attempt to identify him. His condition, it was said, was serious.

MISSING BOOKS UNTRACED.

Former State Engineer Skene, Brother-in-Law of Bankrupt, Testifies.

Frederick Skene, former State Engineer, who was tried and acquitted on charges of corruption after leaving office, was a witness yesterday in the bankruptcy proceedings of the case of Frederick Simmons, a former Consolidated Exchange broker, before Commissioner Alexander, in the Federal Building. Simmons had testified concerning books and records that were missing to the effect that Skene, his brother-in-law, had taken them months ago and had not given them back.

Skene testified that Simmons & Co. owed him $17,000 when they closed out their business. He denied all knowledge of the whereabouts of the missing books.

SWOPE POISON CASE MUST BE RETRIED

LITTLE EVIDENCE OF POISON

Difficult to Prove, Says Decision, Without Dr. Vaughn's Testimony—Prisoner Confident of Acquittal.

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde, convicted after a sensational trial of the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, to-day won his appeal for a new trial, the Missouri Supreme Court, sitting at Jefferson City, handing down the decision. Dr. Hyde has been in the county jail at Kansas City nearly a year following a sentence to life imprisonment.

When news of the court's decision reached the county jail Dr. Hyde was taking his usual morning promenade in front of his cell on the third floor. His lawyers shouted up to him:

"You have been granted a new trial."

Hyde stopped a moment, smiled, and said: "Thank you, gentlemen," and proceeded on his walk.

When the other prisoners learned the import of the news a minute later they crowded around Dr. Hyde and congratulated him. For the first time since his incarceration he mingled with his fellow-prisoners.

Demonstration by Prisoners.

The news traveled quickly from tier to tier, and as the prisoners, men and women, on the different floors heard it, cheering that had started in Hyde's corridor spread throughout the entire prison. For fully five minutes the demonstration continued. Judge Ralph Latshaw, before whom Dr. Hyde was tried, was hearing a highway robbery case in the criminal court when the decision was announced to him.

"I shall read the opinion with interest," said the Judge, who went on with his case.

A coincidence in connection with the Hyde decision is that it comes on April 11, exactly one year from the date that his trial began here.

An important point in the decision remanding Hyde was that the court said Judge Latshaw's action in ordering Dr. Hyde locked up during the progress of his trial was "improper and unjustified."

Mrs. Hyde had been waiting anxiously this morning in the office of John A. Cleary, one of her attorneys. Ten minutes after the word had come from Jefferson City she appeared at the jail. She was admitted immediately to the cell room, and rushing to that occupied by her husband embraced and kissed him. Soon husband and wife were joined by Dr. Hyde's attorneys, Frank Walsh and Mr. Cleary, and a conference ensued.

The Supreme Court, in setting aside the verdict of the trial court, remands Hyde "to the custody of the Marshal of Jackson County without bail."

Hyde Is Confident.

Later Dr. Hyde gave out a statement in which he said:

"Of course, I am disappointed that my case was not reversed outright. I shall, however, struggle on with an unbroken spirit, confident that I will convince not only the officers of the law, but the world, of my complete innocence of the terrible charges laid against me. I look forward with confidence to my acquittal in my next trial. I have learned that a man can stand anything with a wife like mine believing in him and sustaining him."

To-day's decision was written by Judge Franklin Ferris, who pays particular attention to the typhoid fever epidemic and alleged use of strychnine and cyanide of potassium by Dr. Hyde. The court reviews how the State showed the deaths close together of Moss Hunton and Col. Swope and the epidemic of typhoid fever which in two months "brought to bed nine persons." These, the court says, were charged to Hyde partly to support a showing that the more Swope heirs died the larger would be the share of Mrs. Hyde, but the court does not treat the proof that Hyde had anything to do with these misfortunes as conclusive.

The court points to the evidence that Col. Swope was 82 years of age and that symptoms of his last sickness would justify the conclusion that he died from senile debility or uraemic poisoning.

"If," declares the court, "we were to lay aside the testimony of one witness for the State, Dr. Vaughn, we would find it difficult to reach a satisfactory conclusion that there is sufficient proof to make a prima facie case of death by poisoning. According to the authorities the symptoms as detailed in the evidence are not clearly and unmistakably of strychnine poisoning nor of cyanide."

Trial and Conviction.

The Missouri Supreme Court's decision to-day was on an appeal of Hyde's attorneys for a new trial. He was sentenced July 5, 1910, to life imprisonment by Judge Latshaw. On Sept. 23, 1910, his attorneys asked the highest court in the State for a new hearing, charging error in 255 points. These included the following allegations:

That the indictments were illegal and the evidence insufficient to support the allegation; that competent testimony was barred and incompetent testimony received; that prejudicial remarks were allowed by the prosecutor and by the court; that the court should not have revoked Hyde's bond during the trial, and that the verdict was the result of passion and prejudice.

The chief evidence attacked was that of the Chicago and Michigan toxicologists who examined the viscera of Col. Swope. An especial attack was made on Prof. Vaughn of Michigan, who testified that he found strychnine in the liver of Col. Swope.

Nature of the Charges.

Dr. Hyde was found guilty of murder on May 16, 1910. His inability properly to explain the purchase of capsules of potassium cyanide was chiefly responsible for his conviction. He said it was used to kill cockroaches; the prosecution said it was to kill members of the Swope family, and asked: "Does a man kill cockroaches with poison capsules?" Two days and a half after the arguments ended the verdict was returned.

The first of a series of deaths in the Swope family was the death of James Moss Hunton, on Oct. 1, 1909. The prosecution charged Hyde purposely bled the patient beyond the limit of recovery.

Two days later Col. Swope was stricken with convulsions and died. Witnesses testified that a few minutes before the convulsions Dr. Hyde had given Col. Swope a capsule—similar to the cyanide capsules it was shown he bought. The Colonel's will, leaving $1,600,000 to relatives, was filed, and then Miss Margaret Swope, a niece of Col. Swope, became ill with typhoid fever. Then Chrisman Swope and two other relatives mentioned in the will became ill of typhoid. On Dec. 6 Chrisman Swope died, having convulsions similar to those of his uncle, the Colonel.

Typhoid Strangely Spreads.

Two days later two more girls—legatees under the will—became ill with typhoid fever, and nurses at the trial testified Hyde had inoculated the sick persons with the fever germs. The repeated and continued illness and the two sudden deaths aroused suspicion and a secret autopcy was made of the exhumed body of Col. Swope and later that of Chrisman. On the toxicologists reports and the testimony of a druggist who sold Hyde the postassium, as well as that of nurses in the Swope home and of the typhoid patients, Hyde was convicted.

Mrs. Hyde, a niece of Col. Swope, stuck by her husband and against her relatives, and went on the stand in his behalf, but in vain. Hyde claimed the men had died of natural causes, said the cyanide was to exterminate vermin, and said he had purchased the typhoid fever cultures in order to experiment with them.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senator Reed of Missouri, leading counsel for the State in the Hyde prosecution, declined to-day to discuss the order of the Missouri Supreme Court for a new trial. He said he would not comment on the court's action until he had an apportunity to examine the grounds on which the trial court had been found to be in error.

TEACH THE YOUNG TO WORK.

Dr. J. L. Elliott Tells Federation for Child Study of Present Evils.

The dilettante spirit gives the most trouble in life, Dr. John Elliott told the Federation for Child Study at its meeting in the Ethical Culture Society Building yesterday afternoon.

"I asked a boy once," said Dr. Elliott, "what he considered a good job. He knew. 'One where you can sit down a good deal,' he answered. Now life is not one long holiday; it's a pretty serious kind of a thing, but what a great many people are looking for in it is a job where 'you can sit down a good deal.' You go up to Bellevue and see the alcoholic patients. Those are the people who have been sitting down a good deal. So are the people you will find in the insane ward over on the island. Go down to the midnight breadline some time. Those are not bad men; they were easy going. It is moral and physical sloth, the job at which you sit down.

"Children should be made to have a feeling of responsibility in the family, that they are a part of it, and should learn to understand the burdens their parents have to bear. That is where the children of the poor have the advantage over the children of the rich. To be sure, the children of the poor are exploited, made to bear too many burdens, but they do have a sense of responsibility, a feeling that they have a share in the life of the family. The parents of the children of to-day lie down and let their children walk over them. If Johnnie is studying his algebra grandmother must walk softly, and if Susie is getting her lesson let no dog bark. The children from private schools are impertinent, ill-bred, and bad mannered.

"Children have a right to their own personality, and are not to be questioned about everything they do; they have a right to their own rooms and to their own souls. They will be more appreciative if they are more appreciated.

"The public standard is the thing that its the most important for the youth and the child. He must get in touch with the right group and the right standard. They talk of people being saved; I don't believe they are saved individually, but saved in groups. What your child will learn and what he will do will not be what you say and what you are doing, but what the boys and girls he is with are doing. He will accept the public standard of the larger group of his friends. When he goes to work it is not the kind of work he does, but the kind of man he works under that is important. And let him put into everything that he does the best that is in him to the day of his death, that is the essential thing to teach; get away from the diletante will, that is the keynote of the new ethics, the new religion."

REPORTS A DEFICIT ON THE LONG ISLAND

President Peters Says Increase in Service and Wages Made Operating Expenses High.

TUNNEL SERVICE IS GOOD

But Opened Too Late in 1910 to Give Expected Increase in Earnings—General Business Satisfactory.

The report of the Long Island Railroad Company for '910, made public yesterday, shows a deficit of $328,562, as compared with a surplus of $316,780 in 1909. Operating revenues showed an increase of $818,720 and operating expenses of $1,021,420. The total net revenue was $3,112,295, a decrease of $333,558. Taxes increased $53,916 and rentals $35,028. The gross income was $2,470,273, a decrease of $428,060, and the fixed charges were $2,798,836, an increase of $217,282. President Ralph Peters says in his report:

"The large increase in operating expenses was due chiefly to the general advance in wages made during the year, also to the increased train service due to the opening of the Pennsylvania Station and extension of service into New York.

"The railroad property and equipment have been maintained in excellent condition, and the service shows continued improvement, notwithstanding the inconveniences incident to the reconstruction of the main line, the opening of the Glendale cut-off, the change of freight service from the main line to the Montauk division by the Montauk cut-off, the remodeling and changing of tracks through Jamaica, and between Valley Stream and Lynbrook.

"In pursuance of trackage rights granted by the Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Railroad Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which operates its railroad as agent, the trains of your company began running through the East River tunnels to the Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan Borough on Sept. 8, 1910. The train service consists of 101 trains in each direction, with direct service to the Far Rockaway branch, the Hempstead branch, and Long Beach, connecting at Jamaica with all steam trains running to various points on the island, and at Woodside with all Port Washington branch and Whitestone branch trains. The service has been very satisfactory, although the increased earnings expected from the opening of the tunnels were not appreciable in 1910, it being too late to benefit by the heavy Summer travel. Certain steam trains continue to run to Long Island City terminal, and this operation will be necessary until the Jamaica terminal is completed, and the electrification of the North Shore branch is sufficiently advanced to permit of other arrangements.

"The result obtained from the operation of your electrified lines continue satisfactory both from the standpoint of economy and increased business.

"The general business of your company shows a healthy condition. The average number of daily commuters per month shows an increase of from 6,387 in 1905 to 11,869 in 1910. Of the total number of passengers carried, amounting to 30,978,615, 28.8 per cent. were commuters, 17.6 per cent. local passengers on Atlantic Avenue, 4.4 per cent. Rockaway Beach passengers from Delancey Street, New York, and the balance general first-class business to and from all points on the island."

NOTABLE CONVICTION UPHELD

Federal Court of Appeals Affirms Sentence of Radin and Minsky.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the conviction of Matthias Radin, a lawyer, and Abraham Minsky, who were found guilty by a jury in October, 1909, of a conspiracy to conceal assets of Feinberg & Co., furriers, of 48 East Tenth Street. The trial attracted a good deal of attention on account of the methods employed to cheat the creditors of the firm. Judge Hough sentenced Radin to be imprisoned for one years and to pay a fine of $1,000 and Minsky to imprisonment of five months and a fine of $500.

There was an indictment against Isabelle Minsky, the wife of Abraham Minsky, which was dismissed at the time of the trial. Herman Feinberg and Samuel Medlin, who were also defendants, were found guilty and paid fines of $100 and $500 respectively. The only recourse for Radin and Minsky now remaining is to seek a writ of certiorari from the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme Court, however, grants that process very infrequently in criminal cases.

Frock Coat or Cutaway—The Proper Easter Attire for Men

Tailoring skill of the highest character is required to build Men's Clothing for formal occasions. The lines of style are drawn so finely that transgressions from them are pain fully apparent at a glance.

The man whose Easter wardrobe demands a new Frock Coat, or that recent favorite, a Cutaway, may choose it in the Gimbel Clothing Store with sublime confidence in the success of his investment. Exact in tailoring, perfect in detail, correct in fabric, these Coats and Waistcoats clearly betray the master hands that designed and tailored them.

Our assortment of these essential garments, for the man who would appear well dressed on Easter day, is admirable.

Prices start at $25 and run from there to $45, for the finest Coats and Waistcoats that expert tailors can turn out.

Of course, the new Coat demands new Trousers; and we show a fine assortment of striped worsted Trousers in handsome patterns, all cut on newest lines and journey-man tailored, at $5 to $8.50.

Spring Suits and Overcoats at $16.50

All are new Spring, 1911, models. The Overcoats are of all-wool materials, in dark Oxford gray and plain black, lined throughout and faced to the edge with pure-dye silk. The suits are in various smart new styles, in sizes for men and young men. Fabrics are of plain blue serges, blue pencil stripes and self stripes. Also plain and fancy mixed grays, browns and tans. Suits that would regularly sell for $25; at $16.50.

BANKERS APPRAISING THE CARNEGIE ASSETS

Doing It at Cheney's Request to See if a Sale Will Help Depositors.

OFFER OF ABOUT 50 PERCENT.

Samuel Untermyer Asks the Public to Keep an Open Mind with Regard to His Client, Hyde.

State Superintendent of Banks Orion H. Cheney has appointed a committee of five well-known bankers to appraise the assets of the Carnegie Trust Company in order to ascertain whether or not the interests of depositors can best be protected by turning the trust company's affairs over to the Assets Realization Company or any other agency which may see fit to bid for the Carnegie's property.

This committee is composed of President James R. Wallace of the Central Trust Company, President Walter E. Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank, President A. H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank, President C. H. Kelsey of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and Vice President J. T. Talbert of the National City Bank. Although these bankers consented to act several days ago, the fact was not made public until yesterday. They have not as yet reached a decision as to the value of the Carnegie's assets. A decision is expected, however, by the end of the week.

It was learned yesterday that the offer of the Assets Realization Company, if accepted by the Superintendent of Banks, would guarantee the depositors of the Carnegie about 50 cents on the dollar.

The Grand Jury heard yesterday four witnesses in regard to loans made to William J. Cummins by various banks and trust companies which received city deposits. They were Joseph J. Bach, cashier of the Public Bank; L. C. Haynes, Vice President and Secretary of the Guardian Trust Company; William A. Barber, a Director of the Guardian Trust Company, and Zoneth S. Freeman, Vice President of the Liberty National Bank.

Cashier Bach of the Public Bank was supposed to be able to testify concerning a $100,000 loan to the Cummins syndicate. The city's deposit in the Public Bank was only $25,000. The Guardian Trust Company officials were to tell as to the manner in which that institution obtained its city deposit of $125,000. The Cummins loans by the Guardian Trust amounted to $75,000.

The Liberty National Bank was another city depository which loaned to the Cummins group. Its Cummins loan is understood to have been $200,000; its city deposit was $100,000.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, had a few remarks to make yesterday concerning what he terms a newspaper trial of his client. Mr. Untermyer said:

> In the interest of fair play and common decency, this grotesque ex-parte trial in the newspapers of a public official whose acts are under investigation should cease at once. It is hoped that the public will have the justice and common sense to absolutely suspend judgment until the facts can be known in the ordinary process of judicial inquiry.
>
> The procedure in this case is disgraceful and humiliating to those who have faith in the Grand Jury system and in trial by jury. It has reached the proportions of a serious public scandal when reputable and conservative newspapers that generally evidence a sense of responsibility in public affairs have come to the point at which, without apology or explanation, they undertake to discuss editorially and express opinions upon the supposed evidence that is being given before a Grand Jury in a case then under investigation, as though the facts were authentically before them. Is there not evidence of real danger to our institutions, and is it not high time to call a halt?
>
> The seriousness of that situation, to my mind, far transcends the case of any particular individual. We hear constant complaints of our cumbersome methods of securing a jury. How is it possible even to obtain impartial juries under such conditions? It must be manifest to every thinking man that the so-called "facts" which leak out in this irregular and improper way are misleading and likely to be garbled or partisaned. Unless we are to substitute trial by newspaper for trial by jury, this thing must stop.
>
> How and from where do the newspapers know, and on what do they base the following confident editorial assertion of one of the most trustworthy and conservative of them all, which is reproduced to-day in another paper, as follows:
>
> > The point that Mr. Hyde has curiously overlooked is that the alleged coincidences were not merely of date but of amount. The multitude of deposits being made might account for nineteen deposits being made on nineteen days immediately following nineteen Cummins loans; but what was it that determined that the amount of the alleged deposits should in each case be the same as the amount of the alleged loan?
>
> Our information is (and we believe that our sources of information are quite as reliable as those of the papers in question) that each and every one of these statements is untrue and unfounded in every particular.
>
> And yet I have no doubt that the author of the article wrote it in good faith, believing it to be true, but his information was taken from sources that he ought to have known were irregular and therefore untrustworthy.
>
> The lists of banks and trust companies as published and which are charged with being parties to these "coincidences" and with having corruptly agreed to loan money to Cummins and his associates in consideration of city deposits includes some of the greatest and most powerful and reputable institutions in this country, such, for instance, as the Central Trust Company, the Liberty National Bank, and others quite as reputable and conservative, though not so powerful.
>
> Have these gentlemen, who are doubtless honest in their ill-formed beliefs but who would not ordinarily condemn a cat upon that sort of "evidence," ever stopped to consider that all of these depositories except one were city depositories before Mr. Hyde became Chamberlain?
> I instance these few facts not with any desire to try or argue the questions involved in this investigation, but merely to remind the public that we are sanctioning and establishing dangerous precedents. In the interest of the decent administration of justice it should be unlawful to print anything purporting to emanate from the Grand Jury room. I sincerely hope, therefore, that the public will reject all these illicit rumors and will keep an open mind.

When District Attorney Whitman was shown Mr. Untermyer's statement he he said:

"I can only repeat what I have said time and time again, and that is that if the proceedings of the Grand Jury are leaking out it is not through this office. There is no law to prevent witnesses summoned before the Grand Jury from talking, and you cannot expect them to remain silent. There is a great mass of documentary evidence before me that has not appeared in the newspapers, and that ought to speak for itself."

Big Mosaic Window to be Unveiled.

A fine specimen of American glass mosaic work, and probably the largest in the country, is to be unveiled on Easter Sunday at the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, Washington and Gates Avenues, Brooklyn, in the form of a threefold colored panel window, the gift of the late Sarah Adele Dickinson. The designing and building of the mosaic is the work of Frances White and her brother, Walter Janes, who own the Walter Janes Studios. The first panel of the window is set just back of the pulpit, and shows a lifesize figure of Christ, under a scroll containing the words: "Come unto Me." The panel to the right of the pulpit shows a figure of St. Peter, and that to the left a figure of St. Paul.

POLICEMAN SHERRY UP AGAIN

Admits Writing Letter to Newspaper Criticising His Superiors.

Policeman William Sherry, who caused a stir in police circles not long ago by telling Commissioner Cropsey that his severity toward the force was making cowards of them all, admitted to Deputy Commissioner Walsh at the Brooklyn Police Headquarters yesterday that he was the author of a letter printed in a Brooklyn newspaper recently which criticised the Police Department and some of its officials.

An adjournment of his trial was granted twice at his request yesterday because his counsel had not appeared. Then Attorney John Hill, representing ex-Assistant District Attorney Robert H. Roy, counsel for the policeman, got an adjournment until Tuesday.

In his letter to the newspapers Sherry asserted that it was a pity that a patrolman had to witness the commission of a crime before he could make an arrest, and that it was a disgrace that the women of this city could not depend upon the police for protection. He also stated, in substance, that the police force had become demoralized under its present heads.

Of Mayor Gaynor, Sherry had this to say: "His Honor the Mayor, in a report to the Board of Aldermen very recently, referred to the great decrease in the number of arrests in 1910, but said absolutely nothing about the great increase in the number of hold-ups during the last year."

Chief Inspector Schmittberger is the complainant.

SPECULATOR FINED

For Selling Tickets in a Cigar Store and Sassing Complaining Citizen.

Barney Warfield of 65 West 140th Street, who says he has been for seven years a speculator in theatre tickets, was fined $10 by Magistrate House in the Night Court last evening for violation of the new ordinance forbidding the plying of his trade upon the street. He was also fined $3 for disorderly conduct involved in his remarks to the citizen who appeared as the complaining witness.

The citizen was Charles F. Guyon of 134 West Forty-eighth Street, Treasurer of the Industrial Storage Battery Company. He says he remembered Warfield of old, and that last evening as he was standing in front of the Broadway Theatre he saw Warfield speak to three persons, take them into a neighboring cigar store, and sell them tickets.

He told Policeman Collins to ask the man for his name and address, so that he could get a warrant, but in the course of the inquiries Warfield spoke in such caustic terms of Mr. Guyon that Mr. Guyon demanded his immediate arrest.

Before the Magistrate, Warfield said that he had established a regular trade with customers who came to him and asked him for tickets, and that he paid rent to the cigar store for the privilege of selling tickets there. Magistrate House did not regard this as a valid defense.

$40,000 FOR BRIDGE WORKERS

Verdicts of $20,000 each, awarded to Orlavus Juve, who lost four fingers on his right hand, and John J. McGlynn, who lost his left hand by holding back an iron girder which threatened to fall and crush out the lives of half a dozen of their fellow-workmen on the new Queensboro Bridge, have been affirmed by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. There is no chance of a further appeal, and the injured workmen will get the award, with interest and costs, from their employers, the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

Each man is about 30 years old. Juve lives in Manhattan and McGlynn is a resident of Chester, Penn. The accident occurred Dec. 11, 1907, when a big iron girder was being hoisted into place on one of the birdge towers. It began slipping and was caught by Juve and McGlynn, who held on to it despite the fact that it was carrying them inch by inch to a point where their hands would be caught. They retarded the moving mass long enough for other workmen to come to their aid.

METROPOLITAN LIFE'S BOARD.

Sir William McKenzie and Robert W. de Forest Added to Directorate.

Sir William McKenzie of Toronto, Canada, and Robert W. de Forest of this city were added to the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company at the annual meeting yesterday, at which all of the retiring Directors were re-elected.

It was said after the meeting that the election of Sir William McKenzie was, because of the growth of the company's Canadian business, making it desirable to allow the policy holders in the Dominion a direct voice in the management. Sir William McKenzie is President of the Canadian Northern Railway.

The other new Director, Robert W. de Forest, was formerly State Tenement House Commissioner, and was the first Tenement House Commissioner for Greater New York. He is President of the Charity Organization Society and of the Russell Sage Foundation.

CROTON SUSPECT IS DYING.

Still Insists He Was Going to Help the Murdered Conklin When Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, April 11.—George Williams, the negro suspect, who was arrested, badly wounded, after the murder of Charles H. Conklin, the station agent at Croton Lake, last Saturday, is probably dying in the jail hospital here. The negro is scarcely able to move, and appears not to recognize any one.

Since his arrest Williams has persisted in his assertion that he was shot as he was entering the station at Croton, and that he had no hand in the shooting of Conklin, but was running to the help of the agent when he was shot.

GRAPE-NUTS.

A man does not count as wasted the time he spends in thinking over his business, but he seems loth to give the same sort of careful attention to himself and to his health. And yet his business would be worth little without good health to care for it. A business man tells how he did himself good by carefully thinking over his physical condition, investigating to find out what was needed, and then changing to the right food.

"For some years I had been bothered a great deal after meals. My food seemed to lay like lead in my stomach, producing heaviness and dullness, and sometimes positive pain. Of course this rendered me more or less unfit for business, and I made up my mind that something would have to be done.

"Reflection led me to the conclusion that over-eating, filling the stomach with indigestible food, was responsible for many of the ills that human flesh endures, and that I was punishing myself in that way—that was what was making me so dull, heavy and uncomfortable, and unfit for business after meals. I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food to see what it could do for me.

"I have been using it for some months now, and am glad to say that I do not suffer any longer after meals; my food seems to assimilate easily and perfectly and to do the work for which it was intended.

"I have regained my normal weight, and find that business is a pleasure once more—can take more interest in it, and my mind is clearer and more alert."

FIND FIRE PERIL IN THE COURT HOUSE

PAINT SHOP DOWNSTAIRS

Just Below Floor Where Invaluable Records Are Kept—Better Fire-Fighting Equipment Demanded.

An order to Borough President McAneny to remove from the basement of the County Court House inflammable materials which threaten the valuable public records of New York County and the lives of all persons whose business requires them to frequent the building was issued yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Leonard A. Giegerich, Chairman of the Court House Committee of the County Judiciary.

The order also directs that the Borough President shall at once provide the Court House with adequate fire-fighting facilities, in which the Judges found, after a searching investigation, it is dangerously lacking.

On the floor below which are kept public records which could not be replaced in case of fire Supreme Court Justice McCall, who made a tour of the building on Monday, found a paint shop, an oil room, a carpenter's shop, and a storage warehouse filled with all sorts of combustible materials. In the oil room were kegs of oil, varnish, paint, benzine, and turpentine, and oil barrels were found also in the corridors. In the wooden corridors oil-soaked mops also were found hung on lines, and in the carpenter's shop the floor was covered with shavings.

All the legal papers and judgment rolls of litigation involving tens of millions of dollars' worth of property, and the loss of which would plunge the business community into disastrous confusion, are housed directly above this magazine of combustibles. Workmen were observed smoking pipes and dropping matches in close proximity to piles of shavings and kegs of turpentine.

No fire extinguishers could be found in any of the courtrooms or the chambers of the Judges, and no fire hose was attached to any of the Court House pipes for use. No chemical apparatus was provided to fight the rapid spread of an oil fire, in case of an explosion of this store of turpentine, paint, and oil, and alarm was expressed for the safety of even those on the first floor of the Court House in case a fire should start.

In view of the danger revealed by these conditions, the judicial order directed President McAneny to give the situation his immediate attention. He was reminded that the Court House was erected for the storing of public records and for court purposes and that his appropriation of so large a part of it for such purposes as carpenter and paint shops amounted practically to usurpation.

What brought the situation to a head and caused the investigation, it was stated yesterday, was the determination of the Commissioner of Public Works, an appointee of President McAneny, to install a blacksmith's shop below the Judges' dining room.

When asked what he intended to do about the Judge's order, Borough President McAneny said he had referred it to the Commissioner of Public Works, who had, he said, the necessary technical knowledge to deal properly with the situation. Mr. McAneny said the shops in the basement of the Court House had been there for several years and that since he took office there had been removed 120 loads of inflammable material from the Court House basement. It was said at the Court House that the inflammable material to which he referred was nothing more nor less than the court records, which had been removed from the basement to the fifth floor of the Court House and to the Hall of Records.

Reporters who went through the basement late yesterday afternoon found, in addition to the inflammable material mentioned by the Judges, rolls of paper and bales of various material used in public buildings throughout the borough.

ESTAB. OVER HALF A CENTURY

MRS. CURTISS IN CONTEMPT.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 11.—The long legal fight of Mrs. Julia Watts Morris Curtiss of New York and Fairfield to be released from the control of her conservator, Judge Elmore S. Banks, and to be restored to the full control of her property, has been denied by the Probate Court of Fairfield. Not only is her petition denied, but she is held in contempt of court and adjudged incompetent to manage either her person or her property.

During the past six months there have been several hearings before Judge E. P. Nobbs at the Probate Court in Fairfield on the application of Mrs. Curtiss. The testimony showed her uncontrollable extravagance in money matters, and her refusal to live either at her own house in New York City or her Summer home on Susco Hill in Fairfield. Instead she contracted large bills at hotels and purchased millinery that she never wore.

The plaintiff was ordered repeatedly to appear at the hearings, but she refused because she was afraid that if she came within the probate district she might be held in restraint. She was represented at the hearing by State's Attorney Stiles Judson of Fairfield County.

In his decision to-day Judge Nobbs says:

> First, that said petitioner has willfully and continuously disobeyed the orders of said court and has been and now is in contempt of said court.
> Second, that said incompetent at the date of her application and at all times since that date has been incompetent to care for, manage or control either her person or property.
> Wherefore the said petition of said incompetent to be restored to her former capacity is denied and dismissed.

The petition to have Mrs. Curtiss placed under restraint of a conservator was filed by Louis Morris, her son, on behalf of himself, his sister Hilda, and his brother Keith.

William H. Olin Critically Ill.

BOSTON, Mass., April 11.—The condition of Secretary of State William H. Olin was announced to-day to be extremely critical. A severe cold, which the family believe was contracted at the recent Grand Army encampment, developed Sunday into pneumonia, and to-day his physician stated that both lungs were affected. Secretary Olin has held office for nearly twenty years, and has been prominent in the Massachusetts department of the Grand Army of the Republic since its organization.

That Secret Recipe

We can't reveal it to you.

Only three men know it. It has never been written down.

The dish is so popular—so amazingly liked—that the recipe for it has become an asset, almost beyond a price.

But you can always get it ready-cooked for less than it would cost you to make it.

You can have it on hand, always ready to serve simply by heating or baking.

Let our chefs make it, for there are 17 ingredients. And they have spent two years in getting this harmony of taste.

Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

Italy, whose chefs are famed for spaghetti, has never produced a recipe like this.

Nobody who comes to your table will ever have tasted any other spaghetti comparable with this.

You'll want to serve it three times a week, and your folks will want to have you.

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

The Rug Drama

The drama begins on the sand hills of Khorassan—or in a sheep fold in far Samarakand, on the Chinese border.

An old woman chanting as the girls weave by hand: so many words to this color—so many words to that.

Tying the knots by song.

That is truly HAND work, and it is HEART work.

Then the caravan. Perhaps bandits and a "hold-up." Last year a whole caravan of rugs destined to an American importer was stolen.

After that, the dust-infested markets of Persian cities—or over the bridge of the Golden Horn in Constantinople.

Great PILES of Oriental rugs.

Some of them the BEST RUGS IN THE WORLD, exquisitely woven—marvelously colored — the kind YOU want, showing all the strength and feeling and individualism of the best Oriental work.

Others of them—simply junk.

Most foreign buyers have to buy these rugs A PILE AT A TIME—not a single rug at a time.

Do you see how much depends on WHERE YOU BUY YOUR ORIENTAL RUG?

Wild's Orientals, meaning EVERY Oriental rug in the Wild establishment, are carefully selected. They are not from indiscriminate bales of rugs.

They have gone through the RUG DRAMA from curtain to curtain as true delineations — characters without a flaw.

They are not the "Rug Sale" kind nor the auction kind.

Half a century traveling the beaten path of rug selection has taught us that when you have collected a lot of UNUSUALLY GOOD Oriental rugs you CAN'T AFFORD TO PUT THEM IN A SALE. Their value is staple as that of diamonds.

WILD'S ORIENTALS are of this variety—the largest and best collection of Eastern rugs in America, and at legitimate market prices.

Send for booklet "WILD'S SUMMER RUGS," giving sizes and prices of attractive Seaside and Country House Rugs.

BATTLE IN CHARGE OF CRIME INQUIRY

POLICE WITNESSES TO-DAY

Grand Jury Will Investigate Burglary Records—Haberdashers Tell of Losses by Theft.

The special Grand Jury which has been investigating crime conditions in conjunction with the Washington Place fire will begin to-day to give its entire attention to the crime inquiry. To-day will be spent in going over the records of burglaries, hold-ups, and other crimes, many of which have been dealt with in the regular police reports and many more of which have been entered only in the secret books at Police Headquarters.

It was decided yesterday to put George Gordon Battle, Special Assistant District Attorney, in entire charge of this case, and he will present the evidence to the Grand Jury. Mr. Battle denied yesterday that there was any truth in the reports of friction between himself and Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss.

"I am working in perfect harmony with the District Attorney's office," said Mr. Battle, "and I cannot imagine how such a report originated. Why, District Attorney Whitman complimented me last week on the progress that has been made. The O'Brien case will be taken up in good time, and it will be thoroughly investigated. This investigation will be thorough in every particular."

Numerous police witnesses will be called to-day, including Lieut. Henry Frank of the Central Office, who has charge of the statistics of the Detective Bureau. He will be questioned about the number of arrests as compared with the number of complaints, and along any other line that the statistics he has been subpoenaed to bring may suggest. It is the intention of Mr. Moss to find out whether the citizens are receiving proper police protection. If they are not he proposes to find out why.

The so-called crime wave received the attention of the Aldermen yesterday. William D. Brush of the Nineteenth District introduced a resolution calling for the assignment of at least two policemen to patrol Morningside Park and for additional lights. The resolution stated that the park is unsafe at all hours of the day and night. Two women, it was set forth, had been attacked and robbed while walking in the park recently, and a petition signed by 2,000 persons had been presented to the Mayor asking for adequate police protection. The resolution was passed.

A resolution presented by Alderman Becker calling upon the Police Commissioner to exercise more energy in enforcing the recent ordinance adopted by the board forbidding the sale of tickets by speculators in front of the theatres war also adopted.

The Haberdashers' League of New York decided at a meeting yesterday to engage private detectives to assist in solving burglaries and robberies. The league is composed of the principal haberdashers of the city, and they met at the Hotel Brevoort. Joseph W. Gibson, publisher of The Haberdasher, presided. Hiram A. Grosner reported that he had investigated many complaints of burglaries and found that goods valued at thousands of dollars had been stolen. Much of these, he said, he had traced to the east side and obtained proof that a well-organized gang of men and women thieves was at work in the city. Silk ties and shirts, he said, had been offered for sale in Chicago three days after being stolen from a downtown firm. A store owned by Matt Lewis n Forty-second Street, had been robbed three times recently, and the crooks had boasted that they had thoroughly cleaned the place out.

E. E. Turlington of the Hackett Carhart Company told of many thefts that had occurred in that firm's store, and Milton Weber of Browning, King & Co. had a similar tale to relate. Others told of how a gang of burglars is operating in the vicinity of Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue. One man said he had discovered that many of the thieves lived in Twenty-ninth Street and that he was ready to acquaint the police with many of their names.

A committee, of Which Louis Heilbroner is Chairman, was appointed to draw up plans for engaging a detective agency similar to that employed by the bankers and jewelers of the city, which would investigate all complaints and help the police to run down the criminals. It was also decided to formulate a plan whereby better references could be obtained from employes.

Two burglars early yesterday morning invaded the home of Zeno Bochinsky of 347 East Thirty-first Street. Bochinsky was awakened by a noise in his room, and when he jumped up he was struck on the head several times with a blunt instrument. After a struggle the intruder got away by climbing up the fire escape. While this was going on Bochinsky's two sons, Walter and Edward, were struggling in the kitchen with a second burglar, who was also armed with a club. The two young men fell upon the burglar, but he beat them off and started up the stairs. Here the burglar encountered the father, who put up a weak resistance. The burglar had no trouble in escaping.

Weak from the beating he had received, the elder Bochinsky fell in the hall. His sons went for a policeman. None could be found, and the two men carried their father to Bellevue Hospital, where surgeons took four stitches in one wound in his head and dressed several others. When the police investigated later $121 was found under the elder Bochinsky's pillow. The second burglar's club was found in the kitchen. The police were able to get only a slight description of the men.

Alfred Smith and James Gallagher of Newark and Victor G. MacLarnon of East Orange, who were indicted in East Orange for the robbery of Henry Schaefer of East Orange in Gramercy Park, while the four were riding in a taxicab on the evening of March 4, were extradited on a Governor's warrant yesterday, and will be arraigned in the Court of General Sessions to-day. Schaefer told the Grand Jury that he met the men at Cortlandt and West Streets, and after taking several drinks the party went for a taxi ride. His companions took all his money, he said, and threw him out of the machine without even stopping it.

Yeddo November, who was arrested in a raid made by Deputy Flynn on a house in Allen Street, following the charges made by Magistrate Corrigan, was arraigned before the Justices in Special Sessions yesterday and pleaded not guilty to a charge of impairing the morals of a child. It is alleged that November had a fourteen-year-old boy named Morris Levey working in his poolroom, and that he gave the boy intoxicating drinks. Henry K. Rosenberg appeared for the prisoner, and urged that the trial be adjourned for a long period, as his client was charged with perjury and gambling, and he would like an adjournment until that case was settled. Justice Wyatt granted the request.

BOOKING AGENTS LOSE SUIT.

Federal Court Declines to Issue Injunction Easing Application of Law.

Judge Lacombe in the Federal Court yesterday refused to grant a temporary injunction restraining Mayor Gaynor and Herman Robinson, Commissioner of the Bureau of Licenses, from enforcing the new employment agency law against the United Booking Offices of America. The law was passed by the Legislature in 1910 and provided that all theatrical booking agencies should come under some rules of a regular employment agency, particularly in regard to statements being filed, contracts, and fees charged.

Judge Lacombe said that he was not persuaded that the complainant's business would sustain substantial or irreparable loss by complying with the terms of the statute until its validity could be determined at a final hearing.

"When the various employers, actors, and vaudeville shows," said he, "find that they cannot obtain the services of complainant or of any other agency in this State except upon furnishing the information which Section 180 not unreasonably requires, they will probably be willing to do so. There may be some temporary shrinkage in the complainant's business, but its extent is problematical." Henry W. Taft appeared as counsel for the United Booking Company.

Denis F. O'Brien and M. L. Malevinsky, attorneys for the White Rats of America and many individual theatrical and vaudeville performers, have filed charges against Commissioner Robinson with the Mayor for not enforcing the provisions of the employment agency law and ask that he be removed.

Lawyer Malevinsky said yesterday that he expected the Mayor to act upon the charges, now that Judge Lacombe has decided that the provisions of the law must stand.

WHAT YOU CAN BRING IN FREE

Treasury Department Issues a Circular for All Incoming Passengers.

A new circular has just been issued by the United States Treasury Department at Washington, telling what articles can be brought in free of duty by tourists to the amount of $100 and what are dutiable under the new ruling. These circulars will be issued shortly to the various steamship agents in this city for distribution on board the Atlantic liners, and the customs authorities hope this to save a lot of trouble. The circular says:

> Residents of the United States must declare all goods bought abroad whether used or unused and their foreign value when purchased, in United States currency. The following goods are free under $100 when not for sale or for other persons outside the immediate relatives of the passenger: Clothing, toilet articles, personal adornments, jewelry, cameras, canes, field, opera, and marine glasses; golf sticks, guns, musical instruments, smokers' articles, rugs, shawls, toys, trunks, valises, photographs, and parasols.

Dutiable goods include pictures, books, plate, linen, unless used by the owner abroad for a year or more. Goods in the piece are dutiable, but a suit or dress length of material is allowed free to each passenger. This is the first time the Treasury Department has definitely stated the articles which are included in the $100 free allowance.

All cigars and cigarettes must be declared. Each passenger over 18 (this is said to include women) may bring in free of duty 50 cigars or 300 cigarettes if for the bona fide use of such passenger. Such cigars and cigarettes will be in addition to the articles included within the $100 exemption. Now residents, as before, will not be entitled to any exemption, but will be allowed to bring in their own personal wearing apparel and toilet articles regardless of their value.

Smallness of the ex-Sheriff's Fortune Due to Loss in Union Bank Failure.

Friends of the late William J. Buttling, ex-Sheriff of Kings County, were surprised yesterday when they learned that the estate which he left did not amount to more than $100,000. It had been supposed that Mr. Buttling possessed a fortune of at least $500,000. Emanuel Newman, who was Mr. Buttling's lawyer, said that the latter had suffered a heavy loss in the collapse of the Union Bank of Brooklyn, in which he was a stockholder. Mr. Buttling left no will, and his estate will go to his widow and daughters.

Presbyterian Hospital to Get Legacy.

The Presbyterian Hospital won a legacy of $120,000 yesterday through a jury verdict, reported to Justice Bischoff in the Supreme Court. The jury decided that the will of Edward O. Kindberg, dated Oct. 27, 1908, and leaving the bequest to the hospital, was valid, while a second will of March 25, 1909, omitting the bequest, was invalid because of lack of testamentary capacity.

Collins L. Balch, the banker, who died Sept. 25 last, left an estate valued at $205,630, according to an appraisal filed yesterday in the Transfer Tax Office by Deputy Controller Julius Harburger. Under the will an income of $2,500 a year is provided for Mr. Balch's widow, Mrs. Georgia B. Balch, who was recently released from Bloomingdale Asylum. The remainder interest in the property, which goes to a daughter, Grace C. Balch, is appraised at $118,549.

Witnesses Testify Against Katzenstein

Six witnesses testified yesterday in the trial of Simon Katzenstein, the Bronx bone and fat dealer, who is on trial before Justice Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, charged with receiving 100,000 pounds of stolen meat from the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island. All the witnesses were called by the prosecution.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Rev. Father Figgis, who has come from England to lecture at Harvard and Columbia, will preach in St. Mary's Church, Jersey City, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Father Figgis has been invited to preach at Trinity Church here in Holy Week.

Prof. Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia University spoke last night in the chapel of Teachers College, in West 120th Street, on "Education and Training in Social Work."

Edward C. Sweeney, Superintendent of the French Telegraph Cable Company, has been appointed Traffic Manager of that company and General Manager of the United States and Haiti Telegraph and Cable Company, to succeed the late Louis A. Lurienne. Mr. Sweeney has been thirty-two years in the French company's service.

Following an attack of heart trouble, after which he took an overdose of medicine, a man who said he was John L. Hale, a lumber merchant of Pembroke, Ontario, staying at the Belmont, was taken unconscious early yesterday to New York Hospital from the Hotel Mumm, Thirty-ninth Street and Sixth Avenue. He will recover.

The special committee of the Board of Estimate, which is considering various plans for the removal of the New York Central west side tracks from grade will hold a public hearing at City Hall to-day.

Ernest Oliver, a negro living at 533 West Fiftieth Street, pleaded guilty before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday to holding up and robbing Nelson Beckman of 654 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, a messenger employed by the Texas Oil Company, at Eleventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, on Feb. 17. He will be sentenced on Friday.

SAYS X-SCIENTISTS HAVE BROKEN FAITH

RETORT FROM THEIR LAWYERS

They Contend in a Letter That the Medical Society Is Going to the Point of Persecution.

Recriminations were in order yesterday between the County Medical Society and the Christian Scientists as to the method of procedure by which the Scientist practitioners are being prosecuted at the instance of the physicians. In a statement outlining the position of the Medical Society in regard to the prosecutions Almuth C. Vandiver, its counsel, accuses the Christian Scientists of bad faith.

"When Willis Vernon Cole was arrested," says Mr. Vandiver, "his counsel stated in court that he would co-operate with the Medical Society in obtaining a judicial interpretation of the words relating to the religious practices as set out in the statute. Despite this statement, the prosecution was removed from the jurisdiction of the Court of Special Sessions, which is held by three Justices without a jury, to the Court of General Sessions, where all trials are before juries.

"Juries are judges of facts; questions of law may be determined only by Judges. In the Cole case there was no controversy as to the facts. The question was submitted to Magistrate Freschi solely on the law, and he determined the matter adversely to the defendant.

"The Court of Special Sessions for many years has tried and determined cases involving a construction of the medical statutes, and it is before this court that the Medical Society is desirous of obtaining as speedily as possible a determination of the legality of mental healing practices. Removals of such cases from the Court of Special Sessions to courts where trials are had exclusively before juries will not expedite the determination of legal questions, but, on the contrary, on account of more congested calendars, will result in a considerable delay. Appeals from determinations of the Court of Special Sessions are taken directly to the Appellate Division."

Although there was no reply by the Christian Scientists to Mr. Vandiver's charge that Mr. Cole and his counsel had broken faith, Samuel Untermyer and Henry D. Eastbrook, counsel for the Christian Science Church, made public a letter they sent yesterday to Chief Magistrate McAdoo of the First Division and Chief Magistrate Kempner of the Second Division of Magistrates' Courts, requesting that the Magistrates refrain from issuing any more warants for Christian Science practitioners until a test has been made.

The letter begins by saying that the Medical Society contends that the authorized practitioners of the Christian Science Church do not come within the class of persons who are exempted from the operations of the law as being "engaged in the practice of the religious tenets of a church," while the Christian Science Church contends that its practitioners are so engaged, and therefore directly within the exception of the public health law.

The letter recites how in order to test the law Cole was arrested in January. His case is now awaiting trial in the Court of General Sessions. It recites also that Cole is anxious to go to trial at once but that the Medical Society has filed another complaint, and a warrant was issued by Magistrate House upon which Winthrop Byron Winslow has been arrested.

"In answer to our appeal to the counsel for the Medical Society," says the letter, "to cease making these arrests until a test of the law and its application to practitioners of the Christian Science Church can be had in accordance with the expressed wish of the society, we are told by the counsel for the Medical Society (1) that it is not willing to have a test of the law in the Cole case now pending in General Sessions, and (2) that it will continue making these arrests until some court can be found that will disagree with Judge Foster and will refuse to grant the defendant a jury trial.

"While the New York Medical Society includes in its membership many of the best and most public-spirited men in the community, its action in this case in attempting to interfere with religious liberty adds another to the many illustrations of the unwisdom of permitting private individuals or associations to act as prosecutors in the enforcement of the criminal laws of the State. Such private prosecutors are likely to become unconsciously fanatics and persecutors.

"We herewith appeal and protest to you and through you to the Magistrates in the First and Second Divisions against permitting the proposed test of this law to be used as an instrument of persecution. We accordingly ask that the Magistrates be requested to issue no further warrants in these cases until such a test has been made. The idea of attempting to force us to waive a jury trial is intolerable."

CALLS BROTHER, ENDS LIFE.

Martin Stein, Summoned to Hotel Manhattan, Finds Simon Dead.

Simon Stein, an insurance agent, with offices at 320 Broadway, went to the Hotel Manhattan about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and asked for a room in which he could meet several men he expected to call upon him. He got Room 109 on the second floor.

When he was left alone Stein telephoned his brother, Martin Stein, a shirtwaist manufacturer, in business at Broadway and Bleecker Street, to come at once to the hotel, as he wanted to see him on business.

Martin Stein arrived at the hotel about 5:30 o'clock and went at once to Room 109. There was no response to his knocking, and as he pushed open the door he stumbled over the body of his brother. Simon had taken a dose of cyanide of potassium. Coroner Feinberg was notified, and after an examination allowed the body to be removed to the dead man's home, 3,100 Broadway.

Martin Stein told the Coroner that he knew no reason why his brother should commit suicide. He said his business was prosperous, and his home life happy. He had been married about a year.

ALIMONY FOR MRS. G. C. HUFF.

Edith M. Huff obtained an award of $500 for counsel fee and $50 a week alimony yesterday to be paid by her husband, George C. Huff, also known as Ernest B. Dennison, by order of Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum. She is suing Huff for absolute divorce.

The Huffs were married in St. Louis Nov. 24, 1908, and Huff assumed the name of Dennison, she says, at Denver in March, 1909.

The wife's principal charge is that her husband is living with another woman, known as Mrs. Dennison, at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. She says that she learned this from an anonymous letter signed "A Sympathetic Friend," which she received on Feb. 16 last.

TO SUCCEED IN POLITICS.

Mr. Metz Fears the Way Is Barred to Truth Speakers—Ananias Outshone.

The long-hidden secret of success in politics was revealed yesterday. It was laid bare by ex-Controller Herman A. Metz of Brooklyn. To be a successful politician one must be a natural-born and talented liar. Mr. Metz gloomily admitted that he was not a successful politician. He lacked this necessary qualification. The secret came out when the ex-Controller was asked if there was any truth in a rumor that he was ambitious to supplant John H. McCooey as Democratic leader of Brooklyn.

"Pure flapdoodle," said he. "If I saw anything resembling a leadership coming my way I'd holler for a cop or jump for a cab. I'm sick and tired of politics. I haven't any idea of holding office, and I can't see where I would come in if I did. At an early age I contracted the nasty habit of telling the truth, and any one with such a failing can't shine in politics to-day."

It was suggested that Ananias, with his rare talent, might become leader, say, of Tammany Hall should he return to this world and aspire to the honor. Mr. Metz had his doubts on that score. He feared the old fellow would find himself hopelessly outclassed.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS HERE TO-DAY

MAYOR GAYNOR TO ATTEND

The official baseball season opens to-day. The atmosphere in the vicinity of eight cities on the National and American League circuits will be churned up when several tons of excitement are turned loose simultaneously with the scoring of the first runs. The baseball fan this morning awoke from a long Winter's sleep, stretched his arms, yawned, and frightened the neighborhood trying out the rusty pipes of his vocal register.

Greater New York has one eye on its business and the other squinted toward the Polo Grounds, where at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Giants and Philadelphias will play in the first game of the championship season. If the weather is favorable there's no telling how many citizens will neglect their most sacred duties for a chance to sit cramped next to a stranger in the bleachers and hug him like a brother when Larry Doyle annihilates the ball for a brace of cushions.

The weather outlook is not encouraging. Only one city out of eight has a promise of a clear sky. That is Boston. Why don't the sun choose a good team to smile down upon? you ask. Just let it dare to rain on Manhattan Island! Perish the thought!

The gloomy tidings from the Weather Bureau last night predicted increasing cloudiness with rain by night or Thursday, and moderate to brisk east to southeast winds. Detroit, Cincinnati, Chicago, Washington, St. Louis, and Philadelphia have been warned that there is a possibility of light showers or cloudiness.

Here's a few truths about the opening at the Polo Grounds. Many, many tickets have been sold. The gates will swing open at 12 o'clock. If the crowd rages without before that hour, perhaps they will open sooner. At 3 o'clock Humphrey's Seventh Regiment Band will burst into harmony. At about 3:55 two umpires, "Jim" Johnstone and "Mal" Eason, will take their lives in their hands and appear before the roaring populace.

Mayor Gaynor Will Attend.

Secretary W. M. Gray announces that Mayor Gaynor will attend, and will enter the grounds shortly after 3 o'clock. He will officially open the season by throwing out the first ball.

New York starts the baseball season with rosy hopes. Manager McGraw will present a team to chase the pennant which will be much the same as last year. It will be richer in experience, and the pitching staff will be strengthened by a few now players, who look promising. And Matthewson is still with the team. "Red" Ames is likely to pitch this afternoon. He's a good cold-weather pitcher. Meyers will catch. The infield will be the same as last year, Merkle, Doyle, Bridwell, and Devlin. In the outfield will be Murray, Devore, and Snodgrass. Many weeks in the South have put these men in fine physical condition. They are expected to go in and win. Earl Moore and Dooin will likely be the Phillies' battery.

While the Giants are battling with Philadelphia here the Yankees will have a harder task. They open in Philadelphia against the world champion Athletics. Hal Chase will be at the helm, starting his first full season as a major league manager. He says his team is 20 per cent. better than last season. The left wing of the infield is still unsettled, but the final line-up will be decided on before many games are played. "Jim" Vaughn will probably pitch and Sweeney will catch. Chase will be at first base, and either Knight or Gardner will play second base. Knight's arm is still sore and he may rest for a while. At short this afternoon Roy Hartzell will probably make his début as a Yankee, and at third base will be either Otis Johnson or Gene Elliott, two promising infielders. Wolter, Cree, and Hemphill will play in the outfield. There is a wealth of good substitute material, and many of these may get a chance before night falls on the battle field.

Brooklyn Team Opens in Boston.

In cultured Boston, Bill Dahlen's Brooklyn team will open the season with Fred Tenney's rejuvenated troop. The Dodgers look so good this season that even conservative critics expect them to land in the first division. Dahlen has new men in the infield, Tooley at short stop and Zimmerman at third. Both were fast in the Eastern League last season. With Hummel at second and Daubert at first the infield looks strong. The outfield has three fast men and three good hitters—Wheat, Davidson, and Coulson. The pitching staff looks excellent with Rucker, Bell, Barger, Schardt, Ragon, Ryan, and possibly "Doc" Scanlon. Bergin, Erwin, Miller, and Smith are a formidable corps of catchers. So Brooklyn has reason to feel encouraged over the team President Ebbets is presenting.

With all these happenings in store, there is no need of expecting any other topic of gossip to-day but baseball. The town doffs its hat to the Giants and hopes they'll win.

Both the Fifth Avenue and Globe Theatres have invited the New York and Philadelphia players to be their guests to-night. Baseball is in the air.

The assignment of umpires for other games, as announced by President Lynch, are: At Boston, William J. Klem and John J. Doyle; at Cincinnati, Henry O'Day and William Brennan, and at Chicago, Charles Rigler and W. F. Finneran.

Washington is the only team of the two big leagues which opens the season with a handicap. The wooden stands at the ball park were burned down recently, and the season opens there with the new stand only partly built.

President Taft and Walter Johnson will be there, and the incompleted plant will not be conspicuous.

The American Association, the strong Class A A league of the Middle West, will also open its season to-day with games in Indianapolis, Louisville, Columbus, and Toledo. This organization, like the Eastern League, has many former major league players in its ranks, and has a 168-game schedule.

GIANTS DEFEAT NEWARK.

McGraw's Men Win, but Do Little Batting Against Eastern Leaguers.

The Giants held their final rehearsal before the opening of the championship season by defeating Newark of the Eastern League at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. The score would imply that the New Yorks had an easy time winning, but they had far from it. They were blanked until the sixth inning, and then a few disastrous errors by McGinnity's men let down the barriers, which allowed them to pile up enough runs to win. Lee, the Newark slabman, who first faced the Giants, held them off with his clever pitching. In five innings McGraw's men made only two hits, and there was not a run in sight.

When Lee gave way to Flater in the sixth, the bottom was kicked out of the bucket. He was not as effective as Lee, and the first man up, Wilson, lined to centre field. Wiltse laid down a grounder, which would have forced Wilson out, but Nee at second juggled the ball. Devore advanced the two men along a base on a sacrifice hit, and Doyle flied out to left field. Snodgrass got a base on balls and filled the cushions. A wild pitch by Flater let Wilson come home, and then Jack Murray slammed a long three-base hit to right field, which scored Wiltse and Snodgrass. Meyer made a good throw from right field to hold Murray at third base. The ball, however, got away from Frick and Murray scored. Another run came in the next inning, after Wilson beat out an infield hopper, and he scored on two measly errors, contributed by Nee and Frick. The Giants played a fast, snappy game in the field and displayed a lot of ginger for a cold day.

Newark played a fine defensive game until the infield went to smash in the sixth inning. Wiltse did some tiptop pitching for the first five innings, and the four hits corraled during this period were widely scattered and harmless. In the sixth inning Louden sent a double to left field, and Meyer sacrificed him along a base. Cady produced a timely single to right, which scored Louden with the first tally of the game. Drucke pitched the last two innings and gave only a single hit.

Joe McGinnity was there with his automobile-wrecked arm in a sling, and indulged in a snappy tilt at repartee with Arlie Latham. McGinnity told Latham that he ought to be in the Old Soldiers' Home. The line-up:

Young Giants Win on Errors.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., April 11.—The New York National colts defeated Wilkesbarre of the New York State League here to-day largely owing to Wilkesbarre's costly errors, nine of them being made and almost all figuring in the run getting. The Barons started off by hitting Shontz for four singles and a double and getting four runs, but after that they were unable to do much with either Shontz or with Jenkins, who pitched the last three innings. The colts got three hits off Girard in three innings, but fast base running and the locals' errors netted five runs from these. After that until the ninth inning the colts got no runs. Then three straight hits off McCloskey and Cranston's error gave them two more runs and the game. The work of Manush at short stop and Fletcher at third base were the features, while the whole team played fast, snappy ball. The score:

Brooklyn Helps Dedicate Park.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 11.—The Brooklyn Nationals assisted in dedicating the new Riverside Park ball grounds here to-day by administering a whitewash to the Lawrence New England League team, 9 to 0. Previously Mayor John T. Cahill broke a bottle of wine over the home plate to christen the grounds and the teams and a band paraded about the diamond. Hummel, second baseman for the visitors, was the star, getting a home run in the first inning and another in the second. The score by innings:

CHASE SEES VICTORY AHEAD FOR YANKEES

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., April 11.—After a brisk final practice on the grounds of the Wilkesbarre Baseball Club, Hal Chase and his Yankees left here late this afternoon for Philadelphia, where they will open the season with the Athletics to-morrow. The cold weather which has followed the Yankees ever since they started North changed to-day to warm, sunny weather, giving the players the first chance they have had in some time to let themselves out. They did so during three hours of brisk practice. The entire team was out, and Chase made them work hard, thinking they would benefit by the hot weather. The infield and outfield worked smoothly and did fast work, while the pitchers let out a few kinks.

Special attention was paid to Vaughn, the big left-hander, whom Chase expects to use against the Athletics to-morrow, and to Fisher, who will relieve Vaughn if the Athletics hit him too hard. Sweeney, who has recovered from his slight cold, will work behind the bat. Chase will be on first base, Knight on second, Johnson at short, and either Elliott or Hartzell on third base, while Birdie Cree will be in left field, Hemphill in centre, and Wolter in right. Manager Chase believes that this line-up will make a strong batting and fielding combination. The men are full of confidence and eager for the season to open. Chase said before the team left here:

"The men are in fine condition and full of go and are delighted to have the season open and get a chance to test their strength against the best teams in the league. We have, I believe, the best pitching staff in the league, a fast fielding, and a hard hitting team, and I expect we will finish either first or second. I know that the Athletics are strong, but nevertheless we hope to take the first series from them or, at the worst, break even."

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Shibe Park has been put in spick and span condition for the opening of the American League's championship season with a game between the Athetics and New York to-morrow afternoon. Capt. Davis led a number of players to Baltimore to-day for the game this afternoon with the Baltimore Eastern League team, the proceeds which will be given to the family of the late short stop of the Orioles, "Si" Nicholls.

For fear of injuring his regulars, Manager Mack did not send all of his stars to Baltimore, Bender, Coombs, Collins, Baker, and Oldring being among those who remained at home. These men practiced at Shibe Park this morning and again this afternoon.

The usual programme of a band concert, a parade across the field, and a flag raising, with a countermarch back to the home plate, will precede the opening game to-morrow. In addition, Eddie Collins will be presented with a Chalmers "30" automobile, and this part of the programme will be one of the biggest features of the occasion.

Oldring, who was spiked in his right hand in yesterday's game, was able to handle a bat to-day, and the chances are that he will be found in centre field in the game against the New York Yankees. Manager Mack is also expected to use Hogan, his young giant from California, in left field. Otherwise the team will be the same as that which won the American League pennant and the world's championship last year, with Bender and Thomas as the battery. Manager Chase and his New York players are not expected here until to-morrow morning.

YANKEE COLTS EASY VICTORS

Duke Farrell's Yankee Yannigans, with three or four of Chase's regulars in the line-up, had an easy time with the Manhattan College team at American League Park yesterday, winning by the score of 16 to 1. The lone tally that saved the collegians from a whitewash was delayed as long as it possibly could be, not arriving until two of the college boys had been retired in the ninth inning. With Connolly, the Manhattan catcher, on second base, as the result of an error by Roach and an infield out, Donahue and Hesterburg beat out infield hits and Connolly scored. In no other inning did the collegians threaten to score, and only two of them reached second base.

Sykes pitched the full game for the Yankees, and held the Manhattan boys safe at all times. He allowed only two clean hits and two scratches, fanned eight men, and gave only one pass. Only five balls were batted past the Yankee infield during the game—the two clean bingles, two flies to Jube, and one to Kauff. On the other hand, the Yankee Yannigans landed on both Manhattan pitchers at will, and the fourteen hits, coupled with as many stolen bases, seven passes, four hit batsmen, and six errors, made the procession of Yankees around the paths seem almost endless. Farrell's men ran wild on the bases, Roach getting four steals and Gardner three.

The feature was the work of Bailey at third base for the Yankees. He made the most spectacular play of the day on a hard-hit grounder, figured in a double play, and took care of six chances with only one misplay, a low throw to Knight. He also got the longest hit of the game, a triple to the scoreboard; scored two runs, and drove in four more. The score:

TAFT TO THROW OUT BALL.

President to Participate in Opening Game of Season at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Taft will open the baseball season to-morrow by tossing the ball from his box in the new American League Park grand stand here for the game between the Boston and Washington teams.

The President's interest in the National game will draw him to many games this season, but he still is a stronger devotee of golf, and on Saturday will play his first game over the new Chevy Chase links.

SANDERSON TO LEAD AUTO CLUB AGAIN

Henry Sanderson was honored with re-election to the Presidency of the Automobile Club of America last night at the annual meting of the organization in the Assembly Room of the clubhouse, 247 West Fifty-fourth Street. It was a well-attended meeting, and the re-election of President Sanderson was unanimous. George W. Perkins was elected first Vice President and Robert Lee Morrell was selected for another term as Second Vice President.

The past year marks an epoch in the history of the organization. Although only twelve years in existence, the club buildings are now nearly as large as the Waldorf-Astoria, where the organization was created, while the garage floor space covers 130,000 square feet. The social side of the club has gained year by year a higher plane, not only in America, but throughout Europe, where it is recognized as the American body having to do with automobiling and motor boating.

During the past year the annex has been completed and is now open to the members. Several other important changes have been effected, until the combined buildings form the largest automobile clubhouse in the world, while a membership of over 2,000 attests the popularity of the organization.

The election was carried out without a dissenting voice, and at the close of the meeting an entertainment was held and followed by a supper. President Sanderson presided at the meeting. The full ticket follows:

President, Henry Sanderson; Vice President, George W. Perkins; Second Vice President, Robert Lee Morrell; Third Vice President, Edward Shearson; Treasurer, Dudley Olcott, 2d; three Governors to serve four years, from April, 1911—Henry Evans, Henry R. Taylor, and Frederick D. Underwood; Governor, to serve in place of A. R. Shattuck, resigned, until April, 1914, George F. Baker, Jr.

Curtis, 7; De Witt Clinton, 1.

The Curtis High School baseball team defeated the De Witt Clinton nine in a onesided game yesterday afternoon on the Public Schools Athletic League field at Staten Island by the score of 7 to 1. The De Witt Clinton nine displayed poor form and was outclassed by their opponents at every stage of the contest. Christgau and Shea, the twirlers of De Witt Clinton High School, displayed speed and control, but they did not receive the support of the entire team in the field. Hitting was the strong point of the De Witt Clinton nine, they getting 10 hits, one a two-bagger made by Sullivan. The feature was the work of Doyle and Kiernan of the Curtis team. Doyle pitched half of the game for the Curtis School team and displayed excellent form. He also gave a good account of himself with the willow, once getting a two-bagger. Kiernan, also of the Curtis team, showed up fine in the field, also getting a two-base hit. The score by innings:

Stuyvesant Chess Players Lead.

With the individual championship of the Interscholastic Chess League at stake, six players representing the De Witt Clinton High School, the Stuyvesant High School, and the Commercial High School of Brooklyn, began play in the annual series at the Rice Chess Club yesterday. The entries were E. Lehman, captain of De Witt Clinton; J. Grossman, captain, Julius Jokel, and B. Hirschberg, Stuyvesant, and E. Taylor, Commercial. Six games were contested. In the first round Grossman won from Hirschberg, Jokel defeated Taylor, and Lehman scored at the expense of Pearlman. In the second round Grossman won against Taylor and Jokel against Hirschberg. Hirschberg and Taylor played in their third game, which resulted in favor of Hirschberg. At the end of the day's play Grossman and Jokel of Stuyvesant were leading with clean scores of two victories apiece. Pearlman of Commercial came next with a score of 1-0, and Hirschberg of Stuyvesant was fourth with 1-3. Five rounds in all comprised the schedule of games. B. Altman of De Witt Clinton was the winner last year.

DE PALMA WINS RACE.

Auto Driver Defeats Chevrolet and Disbrow at Spaghetti Eating.

Ralph de Palma won his first race at the the East last night, when he defeated Louis Disbrow, A. Chevrolet, and Paul Snutsel in a contest at the Bridge Club. De Palma was an added starter by request, and completely outclassed the three other contestants. The event was a spaghetti race promoted by Andrew Cuneo, whose wife is the champion woman automobile driver of the United States, and Frank Zunnino, and was attended by nearly fifty prominent automobilists, the outside racing pilots being represented by Joe Matson.

After the hors d'oeuvres, to which the contestants did full justice, a large dish of spaghetti was placed before each of the four men. Andrew Cuneo was the referee. De Palma ate his dish in the most artistic manner in 3:47 21-100. A second plate followed the first. Snutzel was the first to quit, with but half his spaghetti eaten. Chevrolet cleaned up his dish and declined to be tempted with more. Disbrow plodded along and finished his first dish in 17:46, and had enough. Half a minute later the referee held up de Palma's second dish, which was also empty. The time for the winner's two dishes was 17:46 63-100, and is said to be a record. As Chevrolet and Disbrow each eat no dish the referee ordered the pair to eat another to determine the tie, but they both refused.

DANIELS BREAKS RECORD.

Charles M. Daniels of the New York Athletic Club, champion swimmer at many distance and record holder at all distances from forty yards to one mile, added to his already long collection yesterday in the New York Athletic Club pool when he swam 200 meters in 2:28, thereby displacing the former best mark of 2:28 2-5 made by himself.

In view of the fact that Daniels has a 220-yard mark of 2:25 2-5, a really better performance than the 2:26 for the 200 meters—218.7 yards—it was fancied that he would have no trouble in getting inside the 2:25 mark. Two of the entries, N. Nerich and J. H. Reilly, dodged the issue, however, and with Bud Goodwin as his only opponent the champion was compelled to make practically an exhibition swim of his attempt, as Goodwin failed to keep up with the pace set by Daniels and quit the tank after the 100-yard mark had been reached.

After the race Daniels announced that he would at once leave for Montreal, where he will take part in the Canadian championship races at 40 yards, 100 yards, 220 yards, and 440 yards on Friday and Saturday of this week in the pool of the Montreal Athletic Association.

GISSING GETS HIS RELEASE.

Middle Distance Champion Runner Resigns from New York A. C.

Action taken last night on the resignation of Harry Gissing by the Athletic Committee of the New York A. C. resulted in the acceptance of it, with the further boon of a release, which will enable him to join and run for any organization he sees fit. The famous runner gave no other reason for his desire to leave the Winged Foot club than that he had a position in sight which would involve his quitting the club and possibly athletics for good.

All kinds of rumors have gained ground that the half-mile champion, who has gained all his honors on the cinder path in the colors of the New York A. C. simply intends to desert the club in order to join another organization. In commenting on this phase of the defection, an officer of the club admitted that that might be so, but that it was up to Gissing to change his mind and run for whatever club he chose if he saw fit. There is a strong feeling among the New York A. C. boys that Eddie Frick will more than fill his place as the club's mainstay in middle-distance running.

Three More Cups for Harlem Regatta.

A meeting of the Regatta Committee of the Harlem Regatta Association was held on Monday night at which several plans were completed for the Memorial Day regatta on the Hudson. Representatives from several local rowing clubs were present and passed on all the details which now make the event complete. From the interest in the race shown by all the delegates present it is expected that large entries will be received from the clubs, and most all the visiting representatives promised to have crews on hand to compete for the prizes. The association has received several new cups which will act as an incentive for the oarsmen, and the honors will be closely contested. Three new cups have been presented: the Stephens cup, for junior four-oared shells, presented by Olin J. Stephens; Sturke cup, for junior four-oared gigs, presented by Richard Sturke of the Waverly Boat Club, and the new Kock cup for junior eight-oared shells, to take the place of the one won at the last regatta. Crews will also row for the Harlem challenge cup, for senior eight-oared shells, ladies' challenge plate, Columbia 1904 crew cup, for senior four-oared shells, and the diamond challenge scull medal for senior single sculls.

Edgewater Motor Boat Club Opening.

The Edgewater Motor Boat Club will formally open the season on Decoration Day with a regatta, when the new club pennant, a white diamond with two triangles, red and blue, will fly for the first time. The club's members and friends will be entertained at the annual dance to be given April 21, at the Edgewater Casino.

Labour IV. Wins Motor Boat Race.

MONTE CARLO, April 11.—Labor IV. won the Prix Mediterranee in to-day's programme of the motor boat regatta. There were twelve starters. The event was for cruisers from 6.5 to 8 meters in length, over a course of 50 kilometers, (31.05 miles.) Labour IV.'s time was 1:04:32 4-5. The prize was $1,200.

The Prix Cote d'Azur, $1,400, for cruisers of from eight to twelve meters, with four-cylinder engines, was won by the German boat Lurshen Daimler, which covered the fifty kilometers in 1:03:02.

The Locomobile Six

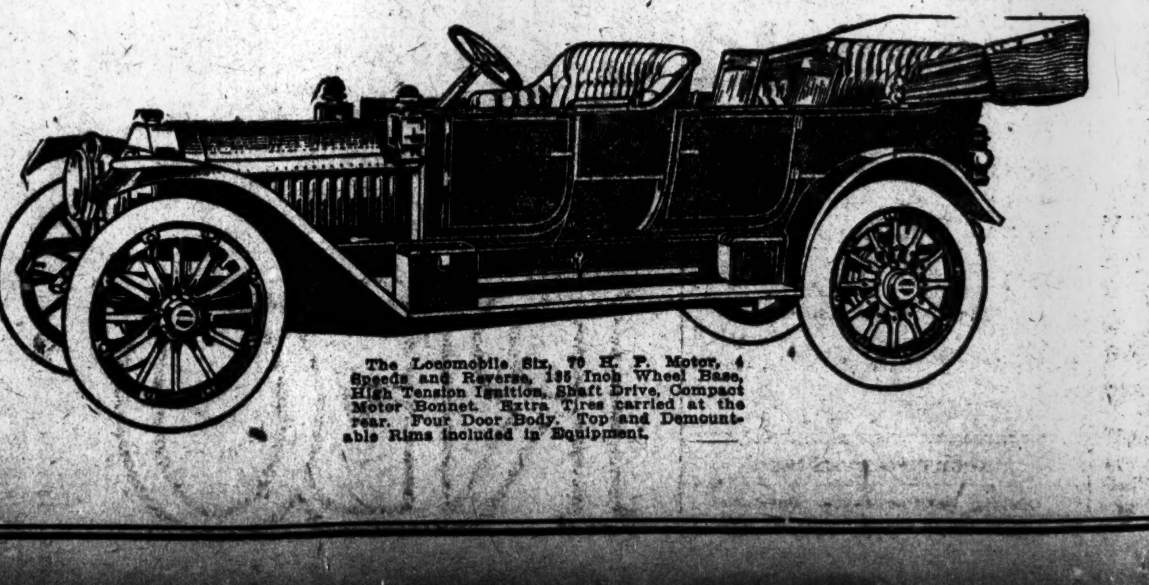
THE Locomobile is highly esteemed everywhere on account of its strength, safety and splendid wearing qualities. Consequently it gives great satisfaction to the owner as long as he uses it. "You may be interested to hear that I am still running the 1905 Locomobile that you sold me that year," writes a prominent New York yachtsman. "It continues to give the same excellent service as in the beginning. As a matter of interest I shall keep this car to see how many more years it will do efficient work."

We know that the Locomobile has a fine reputation for giving reliable service and for standing up under hard work year after year. We believe that such qualities count for the most in the long run, and being of the greatest importance to the purchaser they should receive the most careful consideration.

In the Locomobile SIX we have combined our ruggedness of construction with the smooth running qualities, ease of control and luxury of operation that distinguish the six cylinder type. Furthermore, we have developed an economical Six. Excessive tire wear is eliminated. Our seven passenger SIX can cover twelve miles on a gallon of fuel with full load. Simplicity of design, careful construction and thorough inspection make the car so reliable that it is economical to maintain. It requires no more time and expense for maintenance than a four cylinder car of the same size and power.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a powerful, seven passenger car it is illogical not to examine the Locomobile SIX.

We also direct attention to our "30" Locomobile, a four cylinder model of proven reliability. This is a very convenient car and is widely popular. High Tension Ignition, Shaft Drive and Four Speeds are used on all Locomobile cars.



The Locomobile Six, 70 H. P. Motor, 4 Speeds and Reverse, 136 Inch Wheel Base, High Tension Ignition, Shaft Drive, Compact Motor Bonnet. Extra Tires carried at the rear. Four Door Body. Top and Demountable Rims included in Equipment.

Locomobile "Fours" and "Sixes" are fully illustrated and described in the Locomobile Book. This is in library form, containing 258 pages and 80 illustrations. A request for this book entails no obligation. Our methods are free of insistent salesmanship.

POLO STARS SHOW FAST FORM IN GAME

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 11.—Determined to get the best results from the polo practice now going on here in preparation for the matches to defend the international cup, the managers of the local tournament continued to-day the plan which was put into practice last Saturday and separated the members of the Meadow Brook team. The two Waterburys played on the Whites, Harry Payne Whitney was out of the game because of the death of H. F. Dimmick and D. Milburn did not play with his teammates. As a result, the teams which opposed each other were tied at the end of the game, and as it was very cold on the field it was decided that it would be better not to try to play off the tie. The score was 6 to 6.

Foxhall Keene, J. M. Waterbury, and L. E. Stoddard carried off the honors. Keene seemed to be nearer to perfect form than any of the others, and he was in every scrimmage, fighting for a chance at the ball, seeming to hesitate at nothing. "Monty" Waterbury scored three of the six goals for the Whites.

L. E. Stoddard, who has been playing as consistently as any one in the tournament, was frequently in a position to ride into the game at critical times, and his playing was of a character that attracted more than passing attention from the small crowd which braved the winds blowing across the big field.

In only one period was there brilliant work on the part of all in the game. The periods were supposed to last six minutes, but in the fourth period it took seven and a quarter minutes before a goal was scored for the Whites by J. M. Waterbury. Both sides played excellent polo, and the ball seldom left the centre of the field, the blocking and passing being splendid. The Whites finally worked their opponents toward the latters' goal, and Mr. Waterbury, by a well-directed shot, put the ball between the posts. The line-up and summary:

WHITES.	GREENS.
1—L. Waterbury.	1—L. E. Stoddard.

POLO STANDS FOR 30,000.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., April 11.—Despite the fact that interest in polo affairs now centres around Lakewood, plans are under way at the Meadow Brook Club in anticipation of the international polo match to be played the latter part of May and the first part of June. It is planned to take the old stand, which is now situated on the big field, and place it on the edge of the small field and in its place erect a large building to contain shower baths and dressing rooms.

Two large grand stands to accommodate 30,000 people will be built on either side of this, and arrangements for parking spaces will be made. Arrangements will also be made to have a small station built near the clubhouse and a spur on the Long Island Railroad will connect with this station. A large fence will be built around the club grounds.

MULDAUR AND BAXTER WIN.

Running off the necessary 300 points in 47 innings, Mark Muldaur of New York scored an easy victory over J. M. S. Millette of Brooklyn in the National Class B billiard tournament at Paul's Riverside Academy, 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, last night. Millette got his high run of the game, 43, in the fifth inning, and this gave him a commanding lead, which he held until the twenty-sixth inning, when Muldaur forged ahead with a collection of 55, his high run. From this point to the end of the game Muldaur gradually drew away from his opponent and finished with an advantage of 118 points. He had other runs of 36 and 23 and an average of 6 38-47, the best yet made in the tournament. Millette's high runs were 43, 21, and 13, and his average 3 41-47. A good-sized gallery witnessed the match.

Muldaur's play was far more consistent than that of his opponent, who was brilliant at intervals but for the most part far below his regular form. Muldaur's work during his runs of 55 and 36 was easily the feature of the match, and but for an excusable miss he would undoubtedly have finished up with an average of seven. In his last twenty-two innings Muldaur failed only once to score at least one point. Millette did not show as strongly after he was passed as he had in the early innings. The score by innings:

M. Muldaur—0 0 6 4 2 23 1 3 10 8 0 2 1 11 2 0 2 2 0 1 4 4 1 1 0 3 55 2 5 5 22 11 2 2 10 0 15 1 7 10 8 36 1 6 1 9 1—300.

J. M. S. Millette—1 0 1 0 43 12 0 6 12 8 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 2 1 0 5 0 0 4 3 4 0 1 13 1 0 5 1 1 0 0 1 4 7 3 4 5 2 4 6 0 0 0—182.

G. G. Baxter opposed Dr. E. C. Beck in the afternoon game, and Baxter won in sixty-three innings, 300 to 249. Beck's playing was of the spasmodic order, being in turns overbrilliant and less than mediocre. Beck jumped ahead in the fourth inning with a run of 15, and held the lead to the tenth inning, when Baxter ran off 15 and tied the score at 38. In the next inning, after Beck scored 3, Baxter collected 17 and held the advantage to the finish.

Beck scored the high run of the game, and of the tournament to date, in his forty-fourth inning, gathering a total of 61 by some high-class billiards. Several times the position of the object balls threatened to end his run, but he solved the difficulty by pretty draw or bank shots. He also made runs of 22 and 15, and had an average of 3 60-63. Baxter played a more steady game than his opponent, and drew very few blanks in comparison to the large number drawn by Beck. His position play was principally responsible for his victory. He had high runs of 25 and 24, made in his last ten innings, also a run of 17. He averaged 4 48-63. The score by innings:

G. G. Baxter—0 0 0 2 3 5 9 3 1 15 17 1 15 0 1 15 8 15 0 0 4 1 2 2 4 2 2 1 0 0 0 0 3 6 1 13 12 3 0 5 2 18 8 0 10 1 7 0 10 2 5 0 2 11 1 25 0 0 1 5 1 3 24. Total—300.

Dr. E. C. Beck—0 0 1 15 5 9 0 1 0 6 3 4 1 0 1 4 5 0 1 1 0 10 1 6 4 1 1 0 4 0 2 7 1 2 3 7 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 61 7 1 2 2 0 2 7 0 0 13 2 8 3 1 7 22 0 0 2. Total—249.

C. D. Conway and G. G. Baxter will be the opponents in this afternoon's game, beginning at 3 o'clock, and C. E. White will oppose J. M. S. Millette to-night at 8 o'clock.

ZBYSZKO WINS ON MAT.

Polish Mat Expert Throws Joe Rogers in Two Straight Falls.

Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, succeeded in throwing Joe Rogers last night in a catch-as-catch-can match at the St. Nichols Rink under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Athletic Club. He obtained two falls in 1:14:37 and 14:50, respectively. There was a fair crowd in attendance, and most of them were almost frost bitten by the freezing exhibition. Neither man showed any semblance of knowledge of the game, Rogers refusing absolutely to try for a hold or do anything other than wiggle out of positions which appeared likely to result in falls.

The winner was outweighed by his bulky opponent by at least forty pounds, Rogers scaling at least 280 pounds. All the latter knew was how to sprawl about the mat. When the Pole had a chance to get a hold he was in the main apparently unable to find in his wrestling book anything which would show him how to bring about his man's downfall.

The opening bout called out Lex Bersen and Young Monday, who were scheduled to wrestle best two in three, catch-as-catch-can. Young Monday gained the first fall with a bar hold and hammer lock in 11:33. Bersen obtained the second fall by the aid of a head lock and a roll in 7:36. The third bout saw the disqualification of Monday for foul work, the contest going to Bersen.

The next "go" proved to be a burlesque on wrestling, which showed Andy Kandratt, a Lithuanian, and Jim Galvin of Ireland. Kandratt engaged to throw the Irishman within fifteen minutes, but failed. Each attempted to toss the other out of the ring, Kandratt finally succeeding in his try. To the most casual observer it appeared that Galvin could have thrown Kandratt had he half tried.

Metropolitan Boxing at I. A. A. C.

The Irish-American Athletic Club has just selected to hold the Metropolitan boxing championships at its clubhouse, 110 East Fifty-ninth Street, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, April 25 and 27. The entire championship list of classes will be contested, bantam to heavyweight.

New Boxing Club Opens To-night.

Jimmy Carter and Young Evans, both clever lightweights, have been engaged to come together to-night in the main bout of ten rounds at the opening stag of the White Athletic Club, a newly organized club situated at 39 Spring Street. In the six-round semi-final bout Jimmy Murray will oppose Young Leroy. There will also be three four-round preliminaries.

Boxing in Los Angeles in Abeyance.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 11.—The fate of boxing in Los Angeles is still in abeyance. Thomas J. McCarey, manager of the Pacific Athletic Club, who is charged jointly with Ad Wolgast, George Memsic, and Referee Charley Eyton with having promoted and participated in a prizefight at Vernon, March 17 last, appeared before Judge Willis yesterday, accompanied by an attorney, who argued on the application of McCarey for a writ of habeas corpus. After listening to long arguments on McCarey's application, Judge Willis continued the matter for twenty-five days.

Fighter Indicted for Manslaughter.

HOULTON, Me., April 11.—Jack Leon, a Chicago boxer, was indicted on charges of manslaughter and engaging in an illegal fight by the Grand Jury, which reported to the Supreme Court to-day. Leon arrived here last night, and is in readiness for his trial, which will be held soon. The manslaughter charge is for the death of Billy Dunning, who died twenty-four hours after having been knocked out by Leon in the fifth round of a boxing match at Presque Island last November.

Jamestown Racing Men Indicted.

NORFOLK, Va., April 11.—The Norfolk County Grand Jury at Portsmouth late to-day returned ten indictments for a further test of the alleged violation on the Jamestown Jockey Club's race track of the Virginia anti-betting statutes. The indictments were not made public. It was not announced what disposition will be made of the indictments, but under the law those being remanded for alleged misdemeanors must be remanded by the court to a Magistrate for original trial. Whether they will be sent to Justice K. Q. Backus, who has dismissed two other Jamestown test cases, is not known. It may be, however, that the cases cannot be remanded until the close of the current term of court. This would obviate an ending of the present meeting until its schedule closing on April 26.

Brokaw Road Four Sold at Auction.

The Austrian road four of William G. Brokaw were offered at auction last night at the Easter combination sale at Durland's. The auctioneer, Alfred De Cernea, after the horses had been exhibited around the ring, gave a complete description of their performances, explaining that they had captured the yellow ribbon at the National Horse Show of 1910 for road fours. This did not make a very great impression upon those present at the sale, and after slow bidding the four were "knocked down" in pairs at $900 and $925 for the leaders and wheelers respectively. The wheelers, consisting of a paid of geldings, were offered first and were bid in by W. Oakley for his price of $925. The purchaser only desired one horse and had the choice of the pair again offered for sale and it was secured at $250. The leaders did not attract any more atttention than their teammates, and were purchased by J. E. Gerken for $900. Mr. Brokaw paid $8,000 for the four horses at Vienna, where they captured many honors before being brought to America.

Two Riders Fall Following Hounds.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., April 11.—After following the Meadow Brook hounds over one of the stiffest runs that can be found on the north side of Long Island, and finishing in front of the field, David Dowes fell at the last jump to-day, and it was feared that he had been injured, but he quickly got on his feet, bespattered with mud, and walked his hunter to the finish, which was not a hundred feet away. Mr. H. Schwartz also came a cropper just before the check, but, like Mr. Dowes was able to go on to the finish. The meet was at Glen Head, in the hilly section of the hunting country. Those who rode through the eight miles of ploughed fields were Douglas Campbell, W. Carroll, the M. F. H. of White Plains Hunt, McPherson Kennedy, Henry Bull, David Dowes, H. Schwartz, and C. Cummings, Acting M. F. H.

Four-Mile Race Open to World.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 11.—Announcement was made here this afternoon of plans for one of the greatest racing events ever known in Kentucky. It will be a four-mile race for running horses over the Kentucky course that bids the most money for it. Major F. A. Daingerfield, manager of James R. Keene's Castleton stud here, is in charge of the race and will issue entry blanks. The event will be open to the world and entries will be sought in every State in the Union and in every European country which produces racers. Each nomination fee will be $100, with the privilege to name three horses, but only one may start, at a $250 fee. Barney Schreiber, J. N. Camden, August Belmont, Irving H. Wheatcroft, James R. Keene, and other leading breeders have promised entries for the race, which will be run this Fall.

Rosenthal Billiard Victor.

In the game of the Class B Amateur 18.2 Balk Line Billiard Tournament last night at Doyle's Billiard Academy G. Rosenthal defeated J. Cortelyou by the score of 100 to 79. The winner was playing at a handicap of 55 points, only having to tally 45 points to win the game, while Cortelyou was playing at scratch, 100 points. The high run of 15 was made by Cortelyou, while Rosenthal's best efforts netted him a high run of 6.

NEW YORK BOXERS WIN THREE TITLES

BOSTON, Mass., April 11.—Before 6,000 persons the semi-final and final bouts in the National amateur boxing championship, held under the direction of the Boston Athletic Association, were decided at Mechanics Building to-night. The boxing was much better than on the opening night.

Warren Barbour, last year's National heavyweight champion, occupied a ringside seat and was the first to congratulate Joe Burke of Boston, whom he defeated a year ago in the final bout in the same ring, after Burke had won his way to the final bout to-night.

The first New Yorker to annex a championship was Frank Hufnagel of the National A. C. of Brooklyn, winning from A. Kaufman, another of New York's clever boxers, by default. Kaufman injured his hand in his semi-final bout.

Boston boxers won the next two championships, the 105 and 115 pound classes. Johnny Fallon won the 105-pound class and Thomas Regan the 115-pound.

The final bout in the 135-pound class brought together two New Yorkers, William Jarvis and Frank McGarry. Both boys had won their semi-finals after hard contests, and appeared tired in the final. Jarvis won in three rounds after a great bout.

New York and Boston boys fought in the final bout in the 145-pound class. John Fisher of the Avonia A. C. of New York faced Ted Hodgdon, the New England champion. Fisher was too good for the Boston man and won by a knockout in the second round. The summaries:

SEMI-FINAL BOUTS.

Heavyweight Class.—J. Burke Cox, Boston, defeated Edmund Beley, Jr., Newton, three rounds, knockout. John Severino, Boston, defeated T. J. Dorsey, Irish-American A. C., New York, two rounds, knockout.

FINAL BOUTS.

Klaus Defeats Gardner in Pittsburg.

MOORE READY FOR WELSH.

English Lightweight Tackles American Boy at National Club To-night.

Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, will go into the ring at the National Sporting Club to-night prepared for a fast ten-round fight when he faces Pal Moore of Philadelphia. Welsh has in mind the contest between Jem Driscoll, another clever English boxer, and Moore in Philadelphia some time ago, in which the Quaker tore loose and outpointed the Briton in six fast rounds. Welsh recently lost the championship belt in England in a bout with Matt Wells on points. Yet many critics believe that Welsh is the cleverest fighter among the British lightweights to-day. He has had a notable ring career, and holds decisions over such clever fighters as Abe Attell, Jem Driscoll, Maurice Sayer, Young Erne, Young Joseph, Johnny Summers, and many others. He also knocked out the American lightweight, Ray Bronson, in thirteen rounds.

Pal Moore has shown in his last few fights that he is fast acquiring all the speed and cleverness as a lightweight boxer that he displayed as a bantam. When he was fighting in the bantam class Moore was a sensation. He was only a mere boy at the time, and yet showed great form against the best boxers of his class. About the time he advanced to the lightweight division Moore had reached the awkward age, and for a time the great promise he showed in the lighter class was in doubt. But constant work, training, and instruction has brought Moore up to top form again, and his recent bouts against the rugged Bert Keyes and Young Sammy Smith showed him to be as clever a lightweight as he was a bantam.

Nelson Knocks Out Walsh.

Fighting Dick Nelson of this city knocked out Johnny Walsh of Jersey City in the third round of their scheduled ten-round bout at Brown's gymnasium last night. This was the third meeting of the pair, and both boys were out to win decisively, which was indicated from the start. In the first contest the Jerseyite gained a ten-round decision over the New Yorker, and the second bout resulted in a draw, but before entering the ring last night Nelson said that he would surely even up matters by a victory as soon as possible, which he succeeded in doing in the third round, with a left and right to the point of the jaw that sent Walsh to the mat on his face, and after he tried to get up twice he rolled over and was counted out.

Magistrate Discharges Boxers.

Magistrate Krotel, in the Morrisania Court yesterday, discharged the officials, boxers and doorkeepers of the Metropolitan Athletic Club who were arrested last week when Inspector McCloskey raided the organization's weekly boxing show. The Magistrate stated after hearing the evidence of three Central Office men that the information was insufficient to hold the prisoners. Jimmy West and Jerry Lewis were the boxers discharged, also Charles and Vincent Salerno, the Treasurer and Secretary of the club; Joe Merino, Fred Sareco and George Fredericks, doorkeepers. The raid was made last Thursday night, Inspector McClosky and several policemen and Central Office men stopping the show after the West-Lewis bout. They seized the boxing gloves, towels and other articles they found in the ring. The management of the club announced last night that the weekly show would be given on Thursday evening as usual.

Shakespeare in Fight Argument.

If a match is made between Owen Moran and "Knockout" Brown, blame it on Shakespeare! With the help of the immortal bard, Charley Harvey, Moran's manager, says:

"Upon what meat doth this mighty 'Knockout' feed that maketh him so wonderful?"

Harvey furthermore says without anybody's help:

"Abuse is no argument, but it is the only excuse or argument advanced by Dan Morgan apparently for his refusal to put 'Knockout' Brown into the ring with Owen Moran.

"He reverts to a decision which Tommy Murphy got over Moran at San Francisco. I am simply stating facts when I say that the majority of newspapers of that city condemned the decision as unjust and unfair.

"As for the question of superiority, it might not be amiss to mention that Moran defeated Tommy Murphy here three times, twice in New York and once in Boston.

"Might I venture to ask who has he knocked out?

"Is Brown afraid to face Moran in the ring?"

In the meantime who is the fall guy who is shouldering the match between Ad Wolgast and Moran in San Francisco for July 4, with both fighters breaking their necks to grab all the coin in sight between now and then. Times have changed!

THE HATTERS' CASE REVERSAL.

The review and reversal by the Circuit Court of Appeals, on a writ of error, of the judgment of the Connecticut District Court in the Danbury Hatters' case affords an admirable illustration of the solicitude of the Judges of our courts to protect the rights of litigants against the results of possible error on the part of their brethren of the bench. Judge LACOMBE's opinion, in which Judges COX and NOYES concur, is sufficient to refute reams of railing at the courts as tribunals ever ready to extend their protection over privilege, but indifferent to the pleading of the humble litigant. It is an ancient right, the right to have a cause passed upon by a jury of twelve men, that the Circuit Court sets up as a shield over the defendant labor union, although in this case it happens that the labor union appears to be guilty as charged in the complaint. The history of this case is well worthy the study of those professional friends of man who insist that no political idea or institution antedating the coming of BRYAN or the coming of ROOSEVELT is worth preserving.

When LOEWE, the Danbury hat manufacturer, found that the boycott of the Hatters' Union against his shop, because he had refused to unionize it, was, in fact, ruining his trade, he brought suit under the Anti-Trust law to punish the boycotters as conspirators and to put an end to their efforts to ruin him. Judge PLATT of the District Court, feeling some uncertainty as to the applicability of the Sherman act to the boycott, took steps which caused the suit to be certified to the Supreme Court of the United States for the determination of that question. The Supreme Court, in an opinion delivered by the late Chief Justice FULLER, found that the combination described in the complaint was, in fact, a combination in restraint of trade in the sense in which those words were used in the act. "We think a case within the statute was set up," said the court, "and that the demurrer should have been overruled." The case was accordingly remanded for trial, with the result that the Hatters' Union was found guilty of the offenses charged, and ordered to pay damages amounting to $222,000, being triple the actual damages assessed, as provided for in the act.

The reversal of this judgment by the Circuit Court of Appeals is not a victory on the merits for the labor union—far from it. In his opinion Judge LACOMBE finds that Judge PLATT of the District Court erred "in taking the case from the jury and himself deciding every question except the amount of damages." By pursuing this course the court, as was contended, "assumed the function of the jury in passing upon the credibility of witnesses, and weighing the conflicting testimony." The Circuit Court, also, finds itself unable to sustain the contention that by the payment of his dues to the union every individual member thereof became a principal responsible for the acts of officers or agents who were actively concerned in the illegal boycott. It would be unreasonable to assume that any individual joining a union of which the constitution provides that its officers shall use all means to bring shops in the trade under union regulations must therefore be held responsible for the unlawful acts of those officers. Judge LACOMBE, also, feels constrained to reject as hearsay evidence the testimony of salesmen of the plaintiff that customers had told him that they had ceased to buy the plaintiff's hats because of the union's threats that they would get into trouble if they did not cease buying them.

In this case the facts set forth in LOEWE's complaint were conceded in the demurrer, and, so far as appears, not controverted by the defendant union. Judge LACOMBE sets forth at length many of the facts "conceded by the demurrer." Justice FULLER in his opinion referring to the complaint, speaks of "the facts therein averred and admitted by the demurrer." The facts were admitted, of course, pro forma, for the purposes of the demurrer, not for the purposes of the trial. But on the trial the evidence was so convincing to the mind of Judge PLATT that he thought it unnecessary to ask the jury to pass upon them. The union did employ agents to visit wholesale dealers and threaten them with loss of business if they should buy or handle the hats of the plaintiff, and did thereby prevent them from buying his hats. By votes of various labor unions or councils dealers who continued to purchase the complainant's hats were placed on the unfair list and boycotted. The result of these acts was that the hat manufacturer's business was practically ruined, evidence of which is found in the verdict of the jury of the court below that he had suffered actual damages to the amount of $74,000.

It is difficult to see how the boycotters can hope on a retrial, with all these facts submitted to the jury, to escape the punitive consequences of their acts. It is of the greatest importance that as a result of this litigation we have secured from the highest court a decision that boycotting is an unlawful restraint of trade.

OPERA PRICES.

The increase of the price of the 1,000 seats in the orchestra and orchestra circle of the Metropolitan Opera House should, if the same operatic conditions prevail next year, increase the season's receipts by considerably more than $100,000. This money the Directors propose to expend on the betterment of the opera. Few if any subscribers will object to paying the extra dollar for a seat if the performances are all of the highest standard or near it. Second-rate performances they are not willing to pay for at all. By second rate we mean not necessarily those which do not meet the requirements of fastidious critics of music, but those in which two or more very high priced and very popular singers are not concerned.

We infer that the Directors hope, with their additional fund, to satisfy the demands of subscribers and occasional operagoers next season even better than in the season now closing. Sudden and prolonged indisposition of famous singers may play havoc in any opera season, but with the assured receipts so largely increased the Metropolitan Opera House next Winter should be able to meet any emergency.

Opera is not too dear if it costs no more than its supporters are willing to pay for it. There will be no trouble about the $6 seats. In the past this public has eagerly paid $7 to hear performances no better than many that have been given for a smaller charge this season. There are plenty of cheap seats in the Opera House, and their occupants are enabled, at a small cost, to hear better performances than they could hear for the money in any other opera house in the world.

THE CLEARING HOUSE NEGOTIATIONS.

It is understood that the discussion of the plan for unifying the financial institutions of this city by enlarging the membership of the Clearing House is sticking where it did before, on the reserve question. The banks dominating the Clearing House are willing to admit the trust companies on their legal 15 per cent. reserve in cash, but want them to keep 10 per cent. more in bank deposits, bringing their reserves to an equality with the banks' reserves. It is natural enough for the banks to wish to equalize the conditions of competition, but the proposal is not attractive to the trust companies. They are able to utilize the banks' clearing facilities by keeping bank accounts, but it is clear that they would have no use for such accounts as members of the Clearing House, doing their own clearing. Neither can the trust companies understand why after admission to the Clearing House their deposits should strengthen their competitors. A possible compromise might be that the banks should admit strict trust companies with their legal 15 per cent. reserve, and should exact the full 25 per cent. only from trust companies doing a banking business.

We speak as a well-wisher of the Clearing House in the cause of the metropolis when we say that it does not conduct this discussion upon the high plane which is desirable. The interests of the community are superior to the business rivalries disclosed in a debate which has nothing to say about elevating and safeguarding the banking standards of the city. The Clearing House of New York is not representative in the same degree as are the Clearing Houses of several other cities. There is more money outside it than within it, and there is no monopoly of brains or integrity among the banks. The Clearing House can recall when although solicited it has taken no interest in a bank on a Monday, has certified its soundness on a Tuesday, and has seen it succumb on a Wednesday. The run of the banks on the trust companies for cash during the panic is not to be imputed to either party for a fault under the conditions, but each owes it to the other to prevent the recurrence of the conditions. If ever such times recur New York should speak with a single voice, and should not be perplexed by divisions of counsels among the foremost institutions.

The Clearing House of New York City in particular should not be conducted on trades unions principles. There should be no "closed shop" idea about its management. Every institution of a certain standard should be eligible, and the Clearing House should set the standard. It should not be so extravagantly high as to be too exclusive, and yet it should be so high that membership would be a certificate of soundness, and that any institution electing to stay out should be put on explanation. The matter may be said to be urgent because the conditions are so good that no better time can be found for pressing it. The conditions of 1907 should not be allowed ever to happen again. Or if they are imposed by irresistible forces at a time too distant to be foreseen they should not catch New York in a state of disorganization not creditable to it, and not to be found in any other financial centre. Whoever possesses any influence should exert it upon both sides to the controversy.

"FAVORED NATIONS."

There is nothing especially new in the doctrine of the decision of the Customs Court as to the effect of the "favored nation" clause on concessions under the reciprocity provision of the Tariff act of 1897. The United States has always held that where a duty was lowered for a nation that gave us a corresponding reduction, the rights of other nations, granting no such reduction, were not in the least affected. The position seems quite impregnable, and though it has not formally been accepted by all foreign Governments, it has never seriously been contested in practice, or led to any reprisals. It was a matter in which the court was in a way bound by the attitude of the Executive branch. It declared time-honored usage.

Nor is there any reasonable ground for thinking that this doctrine would not apply to the provisions of the reciprocity agreement with Canada. The cases, as the lawyers say, are on all fours with each other. In the case of Canada we give and receive specific and substantial advantages, and these influence the action of each party. They are the consideration in a bargain which the two nations make with each other. They cannot be cited by other nations with whom we make no bargain and who accord us no advantages. Nor is the situation affected by the fact that the agreement with Canada requires legislation on the one hand and on the other to give it complete effect. The legislation is based on the agreement, and the consideration for the modification of the statutes of each nation is the corresponding modification of the statutes of the other. Indeed, in this country no change could be made in customs duties without legislation, either after an agreement, as in the case of Canada, or in anticipation of an agreement, as in the cases covered by the reciprocity clauses in the Dingley act.

It is not so clear, however, that tariff legislation adding to the concessions to Canada would not give a substantial basis to the claims of other nations. For such concessions there would have to be a definite consideration not now existing. Our bargain with Canada is made. Each item of it is reciprocal. The balance is struck and the account closed. If we were, as some of the insurgents suggest, to add to our concessions, the added ones would be "favors," and the nations to whom we have promised the treatment of the "most favored" might logically lay claim to them. It is a grave question whether such concessions would not necessarily be disapproved by the Executive, whose duty it is to see that all treaties are fairly observed.

ART AND GOVERNMENT.

The exhibition of municipal art possibilities arranged by the Municipal Art Society is interesting and instructive, and valuable as a stimulus to local pride. Whether or not any one of these plans now on exhibition is likely to be executed makes no difference. The big city is growing rapidly, and its growth needs regulation. Material requirements in the future should not be met in the old haphazard way. Beauty, fitness, as well as utility, should be considered. Consideration of these things, however, is all but impossible when a city's affairs are administered in a clumsy, extravagant, inefficient way. We are troubled now by the bad management of the police, the loose conduct of the city's finances, the need of continual watching and expostulating to keep our few parks from invasion and destruction.

Mr. MCCLURE's judgment of the clumsiness and ineffectiveness of our form of City Government in his speech of Monday night was well grounded on the facts, though in pointing a way out of the difficulty he perhaps verged too closely on the ideal. We can strive for the ideal, however. The commission plan of City Government has worked well in many smaller cities. Senator LAFAYETTE YOUNG's exposition of the working of this plan in Des Moines, before the United States Senate, is uncommonly interesting. The plan, however, would have to be modified to suit the requirements of this enormous city. Senator YOUNG is probably right in saying that 90 per cent. of all municipal functions are executive. We waste money and time with our huge legislative branch, not to speak of temper. We need fewer officers of a high personal character and executive skill, a concentration of power, and clearly fixed responsibility. We must have a simpler, more coherent, and more economical City Government before we can do much for the municipality in an artistic way.

PROFANITY.

Dr. CLARENCE ANDREWS, who teaches English literature to the undergraduates at Amherst, is reported to have delivered to them this bit of philosophy upon the subject of profanity:

> Swearing is, and always will be, the universal language of man. Even though the exact meaning of a phrase be not known to a foreigner, still he can comprehend the nature of an expletive through its force, appropriateness and innate expressiveness.

A burned finger, Dr. ANDREWS asserts or asseverates, is not a subject for deliberate consideration and careful choice of language. "It is natural," he says, "to break out with some swear word, some oath which has served mankind for many ages." He believes that "swear words" are a necessary mode of expressing startled and violent emotion. Persons who are learning to play golf, and some even who are rather advanced in the technique of that sport, may be constrained to admit the force of his remarks. But we would, at once, draw a distinction between the "cuss words" that are employed by way of objurgation and those used with intent to blaspheme the Deity. The word "expletive" has, indeed, no blasphemous significance; it implies a "filling out," a mere ejaculation of vexed or angered or alarmed surprise.

Of course, he who has most perfect control of his moods is least given to expletives, and possesses a distinct advantage over his less self-contained brother in moments of emergency. The habitual surrender of reason and intelligence to one's emotions, of which the employment of oaths is symptomatic, not only violates the canons of good taste, but is demoralizing and even debilitating, as physical trainers have testified. A swearing athlete is not a winner of contests. He lacks "control." The expletive is never appropriate. It has no innate expressiveness—quite the contrary. It is not necessary, or it would not be an expletive. It may be inevitable in certain circumstances, but it always denotes bewilderment, inability to cope with the situation, or to express properly its significance. Oaths are round, redundant, mouth-filling, not mind-serving. But they are not always sinful.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Science Hates Secrets. In past years our manufacturers were often criticised for their failure to utilize as they might the services which scientists could render in the way of devising new methods of production and improving old ones. The business man of those times had more or less contempt for the man of science as unpractical and visionary, seeking knowledge for its own sake and indifferent to whether it could be made a source of profit or not.

Evidently a good many of the manufacturers are wiser than that, now. The present complaint against them, as voiced by Prof. WALKER, who teaches industrial chemistry in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is that the discoveries made in the many laboratories maintained by the larger business corporations are treated as trade secrets and carefully concealed from other scientists, as well as from business rivals and competitors.

Of course, this habit, if it has come to be generally followed in the industrial world, is a serious obstacle to the general advancement of pure science, so called. It necessitates an enormous duplication of effort, in that several or many investigators have to grope through the dark toward an end which another has already reached. Were it revealed to them their energies could be otherwise used, greatly to the common advantage.

That is the true scientific view, without a doubt, and Prof. WALKER says that it should be the business view also. To prove this contention, he says, first, that many of the carefully guarded secrets are already possessed by more than one owner, having been independently acquired, and, second, that if every possessor of one of these secrets were to contribute it to the common stock of knowledge his small apparent loss would be much more than made up by the privilege of using that coming in from all other sources.

That sounds like straight logic and good argument, too, but it may not convince the man whose one trade secret is a considerable part of his capital that he could get a greater, or even as great, benefit from the knowledge of secrets not in his "line."

Not Starting on a General War. Our recent condemnation of the smokers who light their cigarettes in the lobbies of theatres—and, we might have added, on the sidewalk just outside—should not have been interpreted as the beginning of a general campaign against tobacco in any or all its forms. A correspondent, whose letter we printed yesterday, evidently did so, and as evidently expects our assistance in her well-intentioned but somewhat immoderate warfare on "the weed."

Whether tobacco does more harm than good to the human race, everything considered, we are not prepared to decide, for ourselves or for anybody else, but that its effects are not wholly bad is obvious to the reasonable observer, and its merits should not be denied merely because it can be and often is abused. Even the much-criticised cigarette smoker can be consistently and constantly courteous, if he will, and certainly he can abstain from indulgence at times and in places where he is both dangerous and obnoxious.

Probably the ideal man wouldn't smoke, but then the ideal man wouldn't have irritable nerves to soothe, tedious hours to beguile, or choices between evils to make. Say what the tobacco-haters may, there are worse things than smoking—so many and so much worse that it is hardly necessary to get very much excited about tobacco until lots and lots of other reforms are effected.

Color Lines Not Easy to Obliterate. President SCHURMAN of Cornell has decided that the negro girl students there can have rooms in Sage Hall, in spite of the protests that have been made against their presence there. Of course he could hardly make any other ruling, but there is something of exaggeration in the statement that this amounts to an announcement that at Cornell no color line is to be drawn.

None is, by the university officials, but there is more to the university than the officials, and the mere putting of the negro girls in the same building with the white ones will not lead to an obliteration of the color line. It may, on the contrary, make that line a firmer barrier between the two races, and, by compelling a closeness of physical association that one of them considers objectionable, lead to a psychical separation much wider than would otherwise be the case.

There is as little likelihood of happiness for negroes as for other people when they go where they are not wanted, and there is such a thing as insisting too strongly on rights, even when they are unquestionable. Rights are valuable, but so are voluntarily granted privileges, and sensible people, whatever their color, do a good deal of balancing before they make a choice between the two.

Negroes in Northern colleges, especially when their number is small, are usually very well treated by their white fellow-students, as well as by the Faculty, and almost always full allowances are made for the difficulties which they have to encounter before going to college and after getting there. That they have some humiliations and embarrassments to endure, even where the conditions are most favorable, is true, but this is due rather to the obstinate Nature of Things than to any special prejudice or ill will.

Probably Cornell's colored girls were unwise in forcing themselves into Sage Hall, but possibly, now they are there, they can so carry themselves as to overcome the present antagonism to them as near neighbors. And the other girls might well be more than commonly kind and considerate to these intruders, since it is not so many years ago that they were themselves viewed with fear and dislike in all institutions of higher learning, and they are not yet quite secure in them.

GOOD CROPS IN SIGHT.

Business Needs Now Only to Get Under Headway Toward Prosperity.

THE TIMES has received the following letter, bearing a Texas date, from a gentleman whose high responsibilities in the railroad world have made him a careful and competent observer of crop and business conditions throughout the country. The letter is significant of the more hopeful view of those who are looking beyond some of the unfavorable nearby conditions to the reassuring promise of great prosperity to come:

> I have traveled several thousand miles in the country west and southwest of the Mississippi, every section of which within the past two weeks has had splendid rains. Well-posted farmers tell me that while rains in May will mature the wheat to better advantage, they regard a good crop as now in sight. Missouri, Oklahoma, and North Texas are increasing their grain production, and the wheat crops are made in these Southern States.
>
> Corn is up, strong and healthy. In the southern portion cotton is up in some places, and general planting is going on, which, with the excellent condition of the soil, will certainly start it along in perfect condition.
>
> The Supreme Court decisions yet unrendered may cause temporary hesitation, but the country never presented stronger possibilities, with a greater number of people out of debt, with more money in the country banks and financial centres, than exist at present.
> We cannot fully realize the high standard of development and prosperity that this country will see when we again get under good headway, compared with what we have experienced heretofore. Our rapid advancement within the last fifteen years had reached a point through too great extension of credit and expansion of many business manufacturing concerns where, by the change from the old business methods to new business methods, business uncertainties resulted, causing the bottom to give way, while under existing conditions, with all business adjusted to new methods, which we are now working under, and with the railroads and other business interests working on a cash basis, and not overburdened by extensions and future obligations, our next big step forward will be upon an entirely more substantial basis than was the case when we pushed so rapidly ahead during our big boom and prosperous days.

A TRAFFIC WARNING.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Somebody is going to be killed at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second Street, and before that sad event happens I want to do what little I can to prevent its happening at all by calling the attention of the public to the matter.

We all know the traffic regulations and that when the policeman whistles the traffic stops going in one direction until it is started again by another whistle. In going north on Broadway immediately after the whistle sounds the cars and automobiles make a rush for the north. The result of this is that there are usually two lines of automobiles running at high speed between the sidewalk and the car; conductors are busily engaged at something else than looking for the passengers coming from the sidewalk, and the passengers must dodge these automobiles, at the risk of their lives, to get on the cars, or else wait an indefinite length of time until there are very few or no automobiles coming.

In an endeavor to reach the car from the sidewalk somebody is going to lose his life by being run over, and when this happens, if it should be a prominent citizen, there will be a great outcry about the bad management. Is it not wiser to start the outcry before the accident happens?

The mixture of humus with other soil for our parks is, in itself, proper but not complete. The same would be true of barnyard manure. Although the latter contains all the elements of plant food, those elements are not properly proportioned for any one particular plant.

By analyzing grass it is found to contain about 50 per cent. more potash than any of the other elements. When growing it, should the soil contain only 25 per cent. of soluble potash the yield would be approximately one-half of a crop, even though all the other necessary available fertilizers in the soil were sufficient for a full crop. For successful farming all plant foods must be in proportion to the plant's requirements, for the value of a crop is in proportion to its least available fertilizing element.

New York, April 10, 1911.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Unless something is done, and done speedily, for the entire rehabilitation of every square foot of Central Park, from Fifty-ninth to 110th Street and Fifth Avenue to Eighth Avenue, we shall soon have nothing but a barren waste there. It is about time to decide, and now, whether this once beautiful park is to be turned over to the hoodlum element for destruction, or to be restored as a park. By actual statistics New York City spends annually for the upkeep of its parks but four-fifths of 1 per cent. of the value of its park plant; Chicago 6 per cent., Philadelphia 2¾ per cent., St. Louis 2½ per cent., Pittsburg 2 per cent., Boston 1 3-5 per cent., and Cleveland 1⅛ per cent. Cannot New York afford to be a little more liberal?

THE SPHINX'S RIDDLE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me in the columns of your important paper to challenge the alleged assertion of Prof. Reisner of Boston, which appears in your paper to-day, that the "Riddle of the Sphinx" is solved by a fancied resemblance in either countenance or "millinery" to any Egyptian King. Neither does its proximity to any temple, pyramid, or other monument account for its salient characteristics.

The Sphinx headdress is that found on the statues of numerous Egyptian Kings and Queens, and that because of the very ancient custom of embodying in ceremonial dress the insignia or attributes of gods or divinity in general.

I could show Prof. Reisner many instances where not only the characteristic headdress of the Sphinx, but other features of that monument, are studiously embodied in the poses of bygone Egyptian rulers. The question is, therefore, less where the Egyptian Kings got these decorative features than "Where did the Sphinx get them?" and "What was the Sphinx?"

I am prepared to demonstrate to the satisfaction of Prof. Reisner or any one else that the Sphinx idea is older than any recorded Egyptian dynasty, and that it is not, in fact, of Egyptian origin at all, but the product of the Chaldaean Magi and more probably inherited by them from the more ancient Medes.

Like all of the ancient divinities and symbolisms of divine nature, it was derived from astronomy, and more particularly in this case from the combination of the signs of Leo and Virgo in the Zodiacal Circle. This combination of two Zodiacal signs into one, possibly to express a month over which both preside, is found in many instances. For instance, where Virgo and Leo would blend into a woman-headed lion Virgo and Libra (on the other side) would become the figure with the scales, of which our modern expression is the figure of "Justice." Sagittarius and Scorpio appear as a combined figure on Assyrian monuments and on coins of the Seljouk Turks. This matter might be pursued much further. The Sphinx type was adopted by the Phoenicians, Cretans, and Hellenes generally, among whom it is more often winged and the head is always that of a woman. The Egyptian type, however, is the oldest of all, the proof being along a line of reasoning and demonstration which has no bearing upon any particular monarch having given his own countenance to a figure of the Sphinx, for which there exists absolutely no reason why he should not have done so if he wanted to. There is a still greater "Riddle of the Sphinx," and it is older than the oldest Egyptian Pharaoh.

Captain Who Lost Three Ships.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your article of the 9th inst., entitled "Losing a Ship Ends a Captain's Career," is found a curious oppositeness in the experience of Capt. Edward F. Lakeman during my old whaling days in the middle of the last century.

His first voyage as a commander was in the ship Malay of Salem, Mass. He sailed March 26, 1842, and lost his vessel in the Mozambique Channel in July of the same year. His owners, however, gave him another ship, the Emerald of Salem, which sailed in September, 1843, and which was wrecked off Port Dauphin in March, 1845. He then was given still another ship, the Alto of New Bedford, and sailed in her Sept. 14, 1847, arriving safely home with a good cargo Aug. 16, 1851. The owners then built him a new ship, the Lancer of New Bedford, in which he sailed for his old cruising grounds June 15, 1852, arriving home May 11, 1856, with a record voyage—full, chock-a-block—with 2,200 barrels of sperm oil.

His next voyage was in the Cortes of New Bedford, sailing July 3, 1857. She was burned by the crew off Cape Crusade, in March, 1858.

His next and final voyage was in the Mercury of New Bedford, sailing June 28, 1859, and returning in October, 1862, with a fair catch.

Thus it will be seen that as master for twenty years he had lost three ships and brought safely home the same number. He always went sperm whaling and to the Indian Ocean grounds, and was best known in the fleet by the title of "Bully" Lakeman, from his drastic discipline aboard ship, and on returning home from his various voyages was usually made answerable to the courts for his severities when afloat, such as "tricing up in the rigging" and similar amiable peculiarities in vogue during those days. His Quaker owners, however, always stood ready to foot those bills.

Easter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Easter had been observed as a pagan festival hundreds of years before Christ. Like many other of our festivals, Easter is of very great antiquity. It was at the same season as our Lent that the noblest ladies of Phoenician and pagan Sevilla bore on their shoulders the golden effigy of Venus, while the people followed weeping and clad in mourning in remembrance of the death of Adonis.

The Romans also celebrated their Hilaria on the 25th of March. The Greeks sang their Jouloi, or song of gratitude, to Mother Earth at this season. The ancient Jews had their Paisack or Passover, which in many languages is the name Pascua still given to Easter. Also, the Persian festivals of Spring and the ancient Houli of Hindustan, all celebrated at this same time. Even China had its festival of "Gratitude of Tien."

Among the many symbols which have been employed to mark this festival few are more interesting than the sacred Egg. It was Pope Paul V. who first introduced this symbol into the ritual of Easter, which began: "Bless, O Lord, we beseech Thee, this Thy creature of eggs." When Bishop James Gillis of Rome and Edinburgh washed the feet of twelve poor Irishmen some years ago on Easter Day he presented each one of them with an egg and an orange. Eggs are used in many countries to mark the Spring festival.

Place Easter Decorations Saturday.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The placing of the Easter decorations in our churches is work, and hard work, and if it is not accomplished on Saturday it is plain that large numbers must be employed on Sunday morning, thus losing their own day of rest and worship after a week more than usually arduous—and for what reason?

No church will be less beautiful, or have less of the joyful spirit of the day, in which Easter morning has dawned on a scene of complete preparation, quiet, and beauty, instead of labor, noise, and rush. Since the law does not take under its protection and insure a day of rest to this special class of workers, are not the churches doubly bound to show consideration and to insist that work done for them shall be done on working days, and shall not interfere with the "inalienable rights" of those whom they employ!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

C. A. C.'s answer to my question, "What is the measure by which it may be determined whether an individual has attained the highest form of general knowledge attainable by man?" is fine, and shows he knows "a few"; but what I am after is the gauge or measure by which we can determine the degree of philosophy to which the individual has attained. What particular task shall we set for him to solve that will prove to us that he has attained the highest form of general knowledge attainable?

CITY EVILS NOT DUE TO CHARTER FAULTS

NO LACK OF POWER NOW

Trouble Is with City Officials Who Lack the Courage or Ability to Use It, Says Mr. Allen.

The Directors of the Bureau of Municipal Research have taken issue with S. S. McClure on the Colonel's assertion that New York City's Charter puts a premium on lawlessness, that its chief officers lack power, that its servants lack permanency of tenure, that it has too many officials, and that it would be better off under a commission form of government. The attention of the bureau's Directors was called yesterday to Col. McClure's charges, which were made before the Advertising Forum of the West Side Y. M. C. A. on Monday night.

William H. Allen said that Col. McClure was wrong with respect to practically every declaration in his address of Monday night. The chief obstacles to efficient government here, said Mr. Allen, are presented not by the Charter, but by unwillingness, inability, and lack of courage to use the present Charter powers.

"It is one of the phenomena of journalism and political theory," said Mr. Allen, "that a leading publisher could be found to-day who does not realize that New York City already has for 98 per cent. of its public business a commission form of government, consisting of seven elective administrative officers and one Controller, each officer in his own field given practically autocratic powers. Even where there is conflict of authority it is in most instances between departments subordinate to the same head—the Mayor. No greater mistake was ever published than that New York City's present Charter favors lawlessness and withholds power.

"On the contrary, it would be difficult to find in the civilized world one official who has more sweeping and more direct power than that of New York City's Mayor. He can appoint and remove the officials who spend 95 per cent. of the city's money and manage 99 per cent. of the city's business. This power of removal and appointment includes not only police, health, fire, and water Commissioners, but the Commissioners of Education, Trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, and Commissioners of the Board of Water Supply. All of these may be removed not only for dishonesty or malfeasance, but for any incompetence or neglect of duty which can be proved. If in any division of New York City's government, outside of the very limited powers of the borough Presidents, there is incompetence or dishonesty to-day, it is not the fault of the Charter or any lack of power on the part of the Mayor to enforce honesty, responsibility, and efficiency.

So far as the recall is concerned, advocates of this remedy, which sounds so attractive on the Pacific Coast, seem to forget that as many elective officials have been recalled in New York City in the last four years as in all the other cities of the United States put together. They were recalled on evidence of incompetence. Other officials can be recalled to-morrow if anybody obtains similar evidence. Those same uncertainties which would make it difficult to secure the removal of any city official on presentation of evidence to Gov. Dix would also make it practically impossible to arouse the public to demand, through an election, the removal of such an official.

"The trouble with city government in America is not lack of power, but that very lack of understanding as to how government should be run which characterized Mr. McClure's address. Just so long as editors, journalists, and publicists make a scapegoat of charters and of theories of government, just so long will public officials fail to use powers which clearly lodge in them now, and just so long will the general public jump from the frying pan into the fire as each new theorist catches its ear.

"What thing that Mr. McClure in his wildest dreams of government efficiency would ask for this town, and what thing which any contributor to his magazine has ever suggested for an American city to do, cannot now be readily accomplished for this city by any Mayor who wants to use powers already in his hands?

"He suggests J. P. Morgan as one Commissioner. The last thing that Mr. Morgan would ask is to have the Charter of the City of New York revised. He has been fairly successful under a banking law which has ten defects for every defect in New York City's Charter. What he would do would be to utilize existing means of finding out where government breaks down and of putting out either those who misled him or failed to represent him efficiently.

"I once had the privilege of explaining to Mr. Morgan that the financiering capacity did not exist which could run the Police Department efficiently without using different business methods. He evidently agreed, because he gave the Bureau of Municipal Research $10,000 to be used toward revising the business methods under the present Charter, so that the Mayor and the public could learn what was going on.

"Every time this country gets a glimmer of intelligence with respect to government efficiency somebody comes along and says that what we need is to change our charters. The public is then confused and sidetracked. No town which fails to use the powers given in its present charter needs charter revision any more than mansions in the sky need fire escapes. The energy that should go into holding officials accountable for the use of their present power is dissipated in listening to talk about Charter revision. Had even Mayor Gaynor given 10 per cent. of the time to reading and improving accounts of stewardship that should have been going to him from his various appointees and from other elective officers which he has given to Charter revision, he and the town, too, would have by this time been almost indifferent to the need for a new Charter.

"The subway delays are due to officers, not Charter. Officers not Charter tolerated the sale of 'rots and spots' and violation of the law regarding slaughter houses. Officers not Charter overlooked backward school children. Of ten scandals or near-scandals that have concerned citizens of New York these last fifteen months, not even the Washington Place fire can be attributed to the Charter. New York City's present Charter needs amendment, but not for the reasons assigned by Mr. McClure. Instead of being the best device for encouraging lawlessness which could be conceived by 'the devil himself and all of his angels,' it lends itself readily to giving the kind of government more efficiency than has ever been seen in any American city. To make the Charter a scapegoat for official delay or incompetence proves our own incompetence to suggest worth while Charter changes."

COMES OVER TO STUDY ART.

German Educator Says the Best Spanish Paintings Are Now in America.

Dr. von Loga, Professor of History and Art at the Berlin University and Department Chief at the Royal Museum, arrived here yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. to spend some weeks studying art in this country.

He said that the best of specimens of Spanish art and etchings were now in America, and he had come more especially to see El Greco's painting of Mary Magdalene, now in Chicago.

MASQUE OF DAYS IN AID OF CHARITY

DANCES TO BE A FEATURE

Lincoln's Birthday, April Fool's Day, Easter, and Fourth of July Among the Days to be Illustrated.

One of the largest and most ambitious entertainments of the season for charity is the Masque of Days to be presented on Wednesday afternoon and evening, April 19, in the large ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria for the benefit of the Jewell Day Nursery.

In the caste and the dances more than 130 young people will appear, and many of them will make their first appearance before the public. Four professionals are coaching the amateurs, and a number of the girls will not make their début in society for several years yet.

The entertainment is under fashionable patronage, and all the boxes but three have been sold. Mrs. Arthur Murray Dodge and others have it in charge.

The cast for the Masque of Days is as follows: Billikins, M. C. Hannah; Father Time, Stephen D. Thaw; Miss Canada, Miss Anne Eastman; Uncle Sam, William Innes, Jr.; Sallie, Miss Elizabeth Reed; Susie, Miss Adeline Townsend; Mamie, Miss Constance McCall; Jimmie, Thomas Eastman; Shortie, Stuart Dodge; Mike, Meade Minnigerode. The first scene is laid in New York and the second in Billikin's palace.

The days to be illustrated are Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, April Fool's Day, Easter, Rainy Day, Sunshiny Day, St. Patrick's Day, Fourth of July, All Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving, and Christmas Day, each with appropriate music and setting.

The dances will include a rainbow dance, Irish jigs, clogs, a witches' dance, with Miss Natalie Kelley as the head witch; a plantation dance, Baru, Pierrot, military dances, and fancy waltzes.

There will also be incidental dances by the Misses Margery Shannon, Justine Ingersoll, and the Messrs. Breese and Edward L. Tinker. Francis Rogers and Lawrance Butler will sing between the first and second parts of the entertainment.

Among those who will take part in the dances are the Misses Margaret Wagstaff, Anita Merle Smith, Dorothea Darlington, Charlotte Delafield, May Vogel, Isabel Hoyt, Rosalie Coe, Julia Dick, Helen Eggleston, Mildred Holmes, Dorothy Wells, Grace Ely, Mercedes de Acosta, Elizabeth Thompson, Nathalie Slocum, Ruth Moller, Winifred Chisholm, Frances Wueth, and the Misses Kelley, Flagg, Hinton, and Force; also Harold Pardee, Alfred Ely, William Boulton, Jr., Horton Ijams, Howland Davis, Kenneth Lasker, Charles Hunt, Worth Howard, Sidney McCall, Francis Murray, Edward Bogart, William Bowers, Norton Miller, Charles S. Brown, Jr., Pemberton Sturgis, and Colgate Hoyt.

Boxes and reserved seats may be had from Mrs. A. M. Dodge, 563 Park Avenue, and unreserved tickets may be bought at the Waldorf-Astoria.

GOV. FOSS'S SON TO WED.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—The engagement of Benjamin Foss of Boston, son of the Governor of Massachusetts, to Miss Dorothy Chapman of this city is announced by the parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfried B. Chapman.

BOSTON, Mass., April 11.—Neither the Governor nor Mrs. Foss has ever seen their daughter-in-law to be, Miss Dorothy Chapman of San Francisco. The news of the engagement of their eldest son, Benjamin, to Miss Champman came as a surprise. It became known to them when Mrs. Foss received the following telegram:

> Miss Dorothy Chapman has consented to be your daughter-in-law. I am very happy over this. Hope you are. BEN.

Benjamin Foss is 24 years of age. Two years ago he took a trip around the world, and while in Europe met Miss Chapman. The two young people became very friendly, but there was no engagement, and they did not even correspond for the last two years.

On Feb. 1 young Mr. Foss was sent to San Francisco on business connected with his father's firm. During his stay he renewed his acquaintance with Miss Chapman.

The wedding of Miss Minnie Lebowitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Lebowitz of 854 West End Avenue, and Harry Anderson, son of Solomon Anderson, took place at 6 o'clock last evening at the Temple Shearith Israel, in Central Park West. The Rev. Dr. S. D. Pool performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Essie Lebowitz, wore a gown of white satin, trimmed in duchesse lace, and her tulle veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She wore a diamond collar, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried lilies of the valley and orchids. Her sister wore a costume of yellow satin, veiled with violet-colored chiffon, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Milton Anderson acted as best man, and the ushers were Theodore Nussbaum, Maurice Schoen, Abraham Morgen, and Jerome Anderson.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the church ceremony, following which a wedding collation was served. There was dancing afterward.

ASHLEY-MILLER WEDDING.

Ceremony in All Angels' Church on April 27—The Attendants.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Elsie Miller, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tennent Rodgers Miller of 326 West Eighty-third Street, to the Rev. Morgan Ashley of All Angels' Church, West End Avenue and Eighty-first Street.

The ceremony will take place at All Angels' Church at 4 P. M. on April 27, and the reception will be held at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. J. Averbeck, 425 West End Avenue.

Miss Miller will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Almy Rodgers Miller, whose engagement to Clement Griscom Randle of Philadelphia was announced some time since.

The bridesmaids will be the Misses Virginia Rodgers Squier, daughter of William C. Squier, and Carolyn Rodgers Averbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Averbeck, both cousins of the bride.

Mr. Ashley's best man will be Lot M. Hamlin of Detroit, and the ushers are to be the Rev. George S. A. Moore, Clement Griscom Randle and H. Raymond Loder of New York; Winfield Newton Burdick, Eugene Magee, and Walter Sill of Orange, N. J.; Francis B. Shepard of Ridgefield, Conn.; Thomas S. Willets of Flushing, L. I.; Henri de Brigard of Plainfield, N. J., and Newell Guernsey of Philadelphia.

Columbia Musical Clubs' Concerts.

Under the auspices of the Free Industrial School for Crippled Children, of which Mrs. A. E. Fish is President, the Columbia Glee and Mandolin Clubs will give their annual concert in the grand ballroom of the Plaza Hotel on Monday evening, April 24. Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. Edwin Gould, and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie are among the patronesses of the affair. The Columbia musical clubs will also be heard at Montclair, N. J., on April 18 and at Yonkers on April 21.

Miss Avery to Wed L. H. Tucker, Jr.

Mrs. Henry Newell Avery of this city announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Fowler Avery, to Luther Henry Tucker, Jr., of Albany, N. Y.

SOCIAL NOTES.

J. Augustus Barnard, whose marriage to Miss Margaret Ruth Lawrence Walsh, daughter of Mrs. James W. Walsh, is set for April 25, will give his farewell bachelor dinner on Saturday, April 22, at the University Club.

Capt. Hardress Lloyd of the Fourth Dragoon Guards and his team of English polo players, who will arrive here on the Lusitania to-morrow, will spend the week-end at Georgian Court, Lakewood, N. J., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould.

Mrs. John F. Harris of Tuxedo Park is at the Plaza, and will remain until after Easter.

The wedding of Miss Emma Seward, daughter of the late George F. Seward, and Charles Royal Woods, will take place this evening at the home of the bride's mother, 136 West Seventy-third Street. On account of mourning only members of the immediate families will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Karrick Riggs and Miss Pauline Riggs, who have been spending the Winter at the Hotel Gotham, are sailing for Paris to-morrow, to remain until Fall.

Mrs. George Albert Mohlman of 35 West Twelfth Street is giving a small luncheon to-day, followed by bridge, for her house guest, Miss Sally Searles Allen of Dorchester, Mass.

Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Benjamin Quinness, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. Richard Gambrill, Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. M. Lawrence Keene, and Mrs. George G. Haven, Jr., are among the patronesses for the musical tea which is to be given to-morrow afternoon from 4 to 6 at the Plaza in aid of the Night Camp in East Fifty-seventh Street. Tickets, including tea, are $2, and may be had at the Plaza.

HAT TRIMMING PRIZES GIVEN.

The great charity hat-trimming contest by New York society women was decided last night at the residence of Mrs. George Kemp, 640 Madison Avenue. Julius C. Kurzman, the judge, with the assistance of a young woman milliner, awarded the first prize to Mrs. Cazenope Jones, Jr., Mrs. Kemp's daughter. The first prize is a full-length portrait of the receiver, to be painted by Paradiso di Santeramo.

Signor di Santeramo was present and met the subject of the portrait and said in French that he knew the picture would be successful because the subject could not fail to make a beautiful picture.

Several of the women contestants did not seem content with the award.

The judges after examining the hats after the prizes had been awarded were interested in details of ribbon wiring which had a professional appearance. Mrs. Kemp told them later that her daughter had had a little assistance in that part of the work.

"I have trimmed my own hats for years," said young Mrs. Jones. "Hats are a special fad of mine. I am always buying them and looking in the shop windows to see how they are made."

The other prizes awarded were: Second prize, $1,500, bust portrait by Prince Paleologue, Miss Violet Vivian Elliott; third, portrait in oil by Milton H. Bancroft, Mrs. George Wilson Smith; fourth, portrait in oil by A. L. Kroll, Mrs. Stillman; fifth, pastel portrait by Leo Mielziner, Mrs. Bradley-Jones; sixth, portrait statuette by Doland Hinton Perry, Mrs. Harvey Spencer; seventh, small pastel portrait by Douglas Crane, Mrs. Berry; eighth, statuette of Indian by Edward F. Stanford, Jr., Mrs. Wharton. There was a special hostess prize, which went to Mrs. Kemp for her courtesy in allowing the contestants to turn her house into a charity millinery shop, an oil portrait by Antonio Barone, and a special hat went to the woman who had done the most work in hat trimming, Mrs. Doscher.

Mrs. Hetty Green who has been a resident of the house in which Mrs. Kemp has her apartment has visited the charity exhibition and offered as her criticism that most of the hats were too much trimmed.

"I like simple hats for children," said Mrs. Green. "I wouldn't like to send children out into the streets with all those filigree things on them."

"Ladies," said Mr. Kursman after the awards had been announced, "I first judged hats for you two years ago, and I can tell you that you have improved very much, and if you were in my establishment that would mean that you would have a raise of salary."

This is the eighth annual charity hat trimming contest for the Sunday Kindergarten Association arranged by De Lyon Nichols. The hats—101 of them—will be given the children to-morrow afternoon at Mrs. Kemp's residence.

RECEPTION FOR DR. JOWETT.

Pastor and His Wife Welcomed by Members of His Congregation.

The congregation of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church gave a hearty welcome last night to their new pastor, the Rev. John H. Jowett, and his wife. In the chapel of the church Dr. and Mrs. Jowett stood for nearly two hours beneath festoons of flowers and ferns while the church members filed past, shaking hands.

A few words of welcome were said by Charles B. Alexander, and Dr. Jowett replied briefly by saying how much he appreciated the many kindnesses that had already been shown to him and his wife by the congregation, and expressing the hope that his usefulness in the new field might be far-reaching.

The Reception Committee was composed of the Elders, Deacons, and Trustees of the church and their wives. The Committee of Arrangements was composed of Silas B. Brownell, Senior Elder; James H. Schmelzel, President of the Board of Trustees; Charles Wheeler Barnes, Robert E. Bonner, James E. Edwards, James Anderson Hawes, C. R. Agnew, John J. McCook, Henry W. Jessup, Frederick A. Wallis, and Dr. Silas F. Hallock.

After the reception refreshments were served.

MARC KLAW BACK; HITS TICKET VENDORS

Marc Klaw, who returned from Europe yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II., said that he went to the other side on March 22 especially to make arrangements with George Edwardes and Charles Frohman for the production of "The Pink Lady" in Europe, and it probably would be produced in London in the Fall. He said that the law against the ticket speculators should be enforced, and it was for the city officials to see that the law was obeyed.

"Ticket speculators," said Mr. Klaw, "are a very tough lot of people, and since Mayor Gaynor took away the badges and clubs from our special policemen they no longer fear us. Mr. Erlanger sent me a cable just before I sailed telling me not to talk too much, so I must be careful."

In regard to the plays he had seen abroad, Mr. Klaw said that "Passers By," by Haddon Chambers, was the best play he had written since "The Idler" and "The Tyranny of Tears."

As to the stopping of the French play, "Apres Moi," Mr. Klaw said: "The play has only been pigeonholed, and will be produced again later. The average Frenchman has only a spoonful of brains and that is in his bump of combativeness. I do not know how good the play is, but it would have probably been a failure if it had not been suppressed.

"Americans take after the French in their hysterical manner of attacking plays, and 'Mrs. Warren's Profession' was a sample of this. While the case was before the courts and in the newspapers the theatre was crowded, but directly the decision was given in favor of the play the audiences had vanished."

Mr. Klaw was suffering from a sore throat and a cold in his eyes, which he contracted on leaving the other side. He said the weather was fine in London up to the day he sailed, when the boat train to Southampton traveled through a series of snowstorms which made it intensely cold. The cars were heated with small stoves, which were not hot enough to warm any one if he took one bodily in his arms. Another passenger confirmed this, and said that it was so cold on the journey from London to Southampton that the passengers had to stand up and stamp their feet so hard that the train swayed.

SHRINERS AT THE CIRCUS.

Bulbuls sang and houris danced and smiled upon the Nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine of Mecca Temple as they rested last evening in their pilgrimage across the desert at the oasis in Madison Square Garden. That is, it was the annual Shriners' night at the Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Some 1,500 Shriners with their wives and children paid their compliments to the Ringling Brothers, proprietors of the show, who are all members of the order. Some of the chief dignitaries of the Masonic order of the State were there, including William Homans, Deputy of the State of New York and the Imperial Council of the thirty-third degree Masons; James Belknap, Secretary of all the higher orders; Saram R. Ellison, Recorder of Mecca Temple; William J. Mathews, Illustrious Potentate of Mecca Temple; William E. Duncan, Chief of the Arab Patrol, and Col. E. M. L. Ehlers, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons.

The clowns performed a number of stunts that were Greek to themselves but intelligible to the Shriners, and were received with shrieks of laughter and shouts of encouragement and participation by the mery visitors. The red fezzes worn by the Shriners added to the brilliancy of the usual spectacle and the general gayety.

$10,000 FOR FIRE SUFFERERS.

Mrs. Fiske Makes Address at Metropolitan Benefit—A Long Programme.

The Metropolitan Opera House was filled almost to its capacity yesterday afternoon at the benefit given in aid of the Washington Place fire sufferers. The total receipts from the admissions, the sale of programmes and flowers, and from contributions from various sources were reported as being close to $10,000.

The programme consisted of fifty numbers, covering almost all varieties of entertainment. Mrs. Fiske made a short address on the purposes of the benefit, and other prominent stars appeared either in special numbers or in scenes from their current plays. A programme autographed by all of the performers was put up at auction, with George M. Cohan as auctioneer. After much spirited bidding Mr. Cohan bought it himself for $350.

The performance began promptly at 1 o'clock, and was scheduled to end at 5:40. William Seymour, who had charge of the stage, succeeded in bringing the final curtain down at just one minute after the scheduled time, a feat of stage management which was considered as rather remarkable by the actors.

American Indians for Paris Exhibit.

Fernand Akoud, Assistant Manager of Luna Park, in Paris, has entered into a contract with Dreamland, Coney Island, for an exchange of novelties. Mr. Akoud is also Director of the ethnological department of the Paris Zoological Gardens, at the Jardin d'Acclimatation, in the Bois de Boulogne, and has arranged with the American Government to take to Paris ninety-five American Indians to be seen in an educational industry exhibit at the Gardens, as a public enterprise. Representatives of seven tribes will accompany him to Paris. Thirty of the Indians, from the Iroquois and Onondaga tribes, will sail on the Niagara to-morrow, and the rest of them will go on the Bretagne on Saturday.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Leonore Harris has been engaged by William A. Brady for the role of Cordelia in "King Lear," in support of Robert Mantell, opening at Daly's Theatre next Monday.

Lucille La Verne, who has appeared in "Seven Days" for 612 performances, will appear soon in the title role in her own dramatization of "Ann Boyd," Will N. Harben's story of life in Georgia. Rehearsals are now under way.

Dress rehearsals of the Folies Bergere entertainment that is to open the new theatre in West Forty-sixth Street soon, will be held all this week at the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn. On Saturday a special train will take the company and scenery to Atlantic City for a week of performances there.

Holbrook Blinn and his company in "The Boss," will give a performance at The Playhouse next Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of the Regina Angelorum Home. Senator O'Gorman has sent a check for $50 for a box for his own use.

Daniel Frohman will leave for Chicago Saturday with Charles Cherry, Laurette Taylor, and the rest of the "Seven Sisters" company, where they will begin an engagement at Power's Theatre next Monday night.

Henry E. Dixey's special five weeks' engagement with Mrs. Fiske at the Lyceum Theatre will end on April 22, Mr. Dixey having found it impossible to cancel his vaudeville bookings after that date.

MRS. COLWELL A BANKRUPT.

Mrs. Lillian Huntington Colwell, who obtained a divorce from her husband, Frederick Lewis, at Reno a year ago, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $22,751 and no assets.

Mrs. Colwell, in her petition, says that she has only two creditors. One is Arthur J. Burns of Yonkers, to whom she owes $40 for legal services. The other is the Union Trust Company, to which, in its capacity of executor of the estate of Charles F. Hoffman, she says she owes $22,711.

Mrs. Colwell states in the petition that in 1906, while she and her former husband were living in Stamford, Conn., they jointly obtained a loan of 100 shares of Union Pacific stock worth $18,113 from Charles F. Hoffman. Mrs. Colwell says that she delivered to Mr. Hoffman eleven articles of jewelry valued at $7,750 as security for the loan. The jewelry consisted of a diamond necklace valued at $3,500, a turquois necklace valued at $200, three diamond pins valued, respectively, at $150, $375, and $500; five diamond earrings valued, respectively, at $200, $250, $500, and $1,500, and a diamond bracelet valued at $375. The interest on the $18,112 loan, she says, has now swollen her indebtedness to his estate to $22,711.

Mrs. Colwell lives at 3 Claremont Avenue. She married Frederick Lewis Colwell at the St. Regis Hotel in 1905. Colwell is a stock broker. The Charles F. Hoffman referred to in Mrs. Colwell's petition was the inconspicuous Wall Street clerk who died a year ago, leaving an estate of $2,800,000, which he had amassed in fortunate speculation.

At her home last night Mrs. Colwell refused to discuss any of the matters mentioned in her petition. She denied that she was a niece of the late Collis P. Huntington, as reported when she obtained her divorce.

HER PRIZE DOGS POISONED.

St. Louis Woman Accuses Envious Persons of Killing Two Gordon Setters.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—Prince Elcho and Princess Maude, Gordon setters, which won six prize ribbons in the Mississippi Valley Kennel Show last week, died suddenly at the home of their owner on Friday morning, the day after the show closed.

The owner, Mrs. William F. Frain, says the dogs were poisoned, and blames persons envious of her prizes. She kept their death secret until to-day because she said she did not want the "murderers" to have the satisfaction of knowing how heartbroken she was. The setters had won more than fifty exhibition prizes, and she valued them at $500 each.

On Friday morning she took the dogs to the kitchen for a breakfast of bread soaked in coffee and milk. Until then both animals appeared to be in the best of spirits. While Mrs. Frain was busy at the stove preparing the coffee she heard a thud, she said, and looking around saw Princess Maude lying on the floor dead, while her companion sniffed wonderingly. Prince Elcho died in the same way fifteen minutes later.

An examination of the room occupied by the setters brought to light a small white pill, which Mrs. Frain will have analyzed. She thinks it is one of several that were thrown to the dogs, and that they swallowed the others.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—With the gathering here of trustees and others interested in the estate of the late Baroness von Zedtwitz, who died at Frankfort-on-the-Main last December and whose body was buried here yesterday, came the report that the codicil to the Baroness's will had disappeared. The codicil, it is said, amended several provisions of the will proper and the manner in which the $6,000,000 estate is to be handled.

C. A. Cachard of Paris, France, foreign trustee of the estate, and Marvyn Scudder and George L. Schearer, the two other trustees, both of New York, were here for the burial. Together with local representatives of the estate the trustees talked of the advisability of probating the Baroness's will in Kentucky, it already having been admitted to probate in New York.

This brought out the fact that Trustees Scudder and Schearer had employed an attorney to investigate the disappearance of the codicil, while Cachard, the foreign trustee, insists there was no codicil.

Cutler School Seniors to Give Comedy.

The Cutler Comedy Club, composed of the seniors of Cutler School, Fiftieth Street and Fifth Avenue, has selected the farce comedy "Facing the Music," by James Henry Darnley, as its dramatic offering at Carnegie Lyceum, on Friday evening, April 21. The seniors in the cast this year are F. A. W. Davis, D. F. Cammann, James G. Cannon, Jr., G. H. Mumford, Andrew J. Post, Jr., Gilroy Mulqueen, Thomas J. Welsh, Thomas Onativia, and Arthur Keck.

SAM LOYD, PUZZLE MAN, DIES.

Sam Loyd, who made a fortune from the devising and sale of puzzles, died yesterday at his home, 153 Halsey Street, Brooklyn. He was born in Philadelphia in 1841, and could claim as one of his ancestors a Governor of Pennsylvania. His mother was a cousin of John Sargent, R. A., the portrait painter, who has made for himself such a name in London. He was himself educated as a civil engineer, and held a steam and mechanical engineer's license from New York City, but there was a curious trend to his brain which turned him toward the ferreting out of mental puzzles.

He said of himself that at the age of 10 he took a great interest in chess problems and was successfully pitted against some of the best chess players of the country. Before he was 20 he had worked out a number of the kind of popular problems which excite the interest of everybody, and he had sufficient commercial instinct to turn this propensity to a moneymaking advantage. Mr. Loyd's most profitable idea was "The Donkey" puzzle, of which 1,000,000,000 were sold, but others, not less clever though hardly so financially profitable, were the "Fifteen Block" puzzle, "Pigs in Clover," "Parchesi," and "Get Off the Earth."

Apart from his puzzles Mr. Loyd was for a time the editor of The Sanitary Engineer and a shrewd operator in Wall Street. In all his financial dealings, however, he steered clear of margin gambling, and operated only with stocks which he had bought outright. He also wrote for a number of magazines.

David Belasco's Father Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Abraham Belasco, father of David and Frederick Belasco of theatrical fame, died in San Francisco to-day at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Mayer. Mr. Belasco was 80 years old. He was born in London and came to California fifty-six years ago. He was first cousin to David James, at one time England's most famous comedian. Seven sons and two daughters survive. Burial will be in San Francisco.

JOHNSON TO LIE NEAR GEORGE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 11.—The body of Tom L. Johnson will go from Cleveland late to-morrow afternoon. The people's only chance to bid farewell to the leader will come when the hearse moves from the Johnson home to the Union station. The body will not lie in state. There will be no funeral ceremonies in Cleveland. A little band of devoted mourners will go with the body to Brooklyn, where Mr. Johnson will be buried on Thursday in Greenwood Cemetery, beside the grave of Henry George. There will be no religious services except at the grave.

The groups of pallbearers have been selected. The first group, which will bear the coffin while it remains in Cleveland, is made up of men close to Tom Johnson in the days when he was Mayor. The second group, which will carry the coffin after the arrival in Brooklyn, is made up of men with whom he was associated in other days. The Brooklyn pallbearers are William Jennings Bryan, C. M. Bates, Ben T. Cable, A. J. Moxham, Lincoln Steffens, Henry George, Jr., August Lewis, and Philip A. Brennan.

Flags all over the city are at half-mast to-day, and stores along the line of the funeral cortege to-morrow will be closed. The street cars of the city will all stop running for a short time as a tribute to the man who gave the city the three-cent fare. The State Legislature and the City Council to-day passed resolutions of tribute, and hundreds of telegrams of condolence have been received from all over the country.

Mr. Folk: "The influence he exerted to bring about good government will have a lasting effect on the destinies of the Republic."

David S. Jones.

A dispatch from Miami, Fla., yesterday announced the death there of David S. Jones, ex-Vice President of the New York Produce Exchange and a retired flour merchant of this city. Mr. Jones had spent the Winter at Nassau, and had recently gone to Miami. Mr. Jones was a member of the Produce Exchange for nearly fifty years. During that time he was at different times Vice President, member of the Board of Managers, Trustee of the Gratuity Fund, and active as a member of a large number of committees. He was one of the organizers of the Produce Exchange Building and Loan Association, and was President of the organization until his death. Mr. Jones retired from business four years ago. He was formerly a member of the firm D. S. & A. G. Jones. He was 74 years old and was born in Jerusalem, L. I. He is survived by a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Edgar J. Phillips. Mr. Jones resided at 376 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn.

MEMORIAL.

It is with deep sorrow that the members of this board as individuals and as a body record the death of their fellow-Director, Mr. Gustav E. Kissel, which occurred at his home in this city on Monday, April 10, 1911. Mr. Kissel had been identified with this company as a member of the board since its organization in January, 1893, and had served continuously during the same period on the Executive Committee as well as at different times on various sub-committees concerned with the administration of the company's affairs, and in the performance of all these duties he showed an unfailing devotion to the welfare of the company.

Among the qualities which distinguished Mr. Kissel in his business career were his faithful attention to details, his quick judgment and wide knowledge of men and affairs generally. His interest in the success of this company was marked, and to the advancement of its prosperity he gave his best efforts. His loss will be deeply felt by his late associates in the board, and it is with this sense of his worth and in sorrow for his demise that they desire to spread upon the records this expression of their appreciation of his character and services.

JOHN W. PLATTEN, President.
ALEXANDER PHILLIPS, Secretary.

LAWRENCE.—Suddenly, at Hinsdale, Mass., April 8, Gilbert Lawrence, aged 27, son of Mrs. Mary McDermot Lawrence and the late Gilbert Smith Lawrence of Astoria, L. I. Funeral at Hinsdale, April 11.

ROSENFELD.—At her residence, 53 West 80th St., on Monday, April 10, in the 90th year of her age, Hannah, widow of Isaac Rosenfeld. Funeral services will be held at her residence on Wednesday at 9:30 A. M. Interment private.

ROSENFELD.—The Board of Trustees of the Association for the Improved Instruction of Deaf-Mutes records this expression of its sorrow and of the great loss sustained by our institution, upon the death of Mrs. Hannah Rosenfeld, which occurred on the 10th day of April, 1911. In active co-operation with her husband, the late Mr. Isaac Rosenfeld, Mrs. Hannah Rosenfeld was a leading factor in the establishment of our institution in the year 1864, and in thereby introducing into the United States the improved or oral method of instructing the deaf. Throughout the period of nearly fifty years which has since elapsed, Mrs. Rosenfeld has been a constant and valuable coadjutor in our work and a most general benefactor in promoting the material welfare of our institution. In her death, the institution has lost a devoted friend, whose advice and assistance were ever at our disposal. To her, more than any other person, our institution is indebted for its existence and welfare. Her name and her memory will ever be sacredly cherished. The Board of Trustees resolved that the profound sympathy of the board be extended to the family of Mrs. Rosenfeld, and that the Board of Trustees attend at her funeral in a body.

FELIX H. LEVY, President.
ARTHUR M. WOLFF, Secretary.

Income

One of the best means by which to obtain the highest rate of income compatible with safety is to diversify your investments. For example, invest part of your money in high-grade bonds having a broad market; part in high-grade bonds of more or less limited market, and the balance in preferred stocks of high standard. The more you consider this question of diversification, the more you will appreciate its many advantages.

Write for our Circular No. 820, "Judicious Investment," which is accompanied by a diversified list of sound investments yielding an average return of about 5½ per cent.

FARM EXPORTS IN MARCH

Toward midday yesterday the course of prices on the Stock Exchange turned downward and at the same time transactions for a brief period were conducted on a substantially larger scale than on recent days. A sharp decline in American Cotton Oil was the forerunner of the general reaction in prices, but except in this stock and a few others the extreme declines did not much exceed 1 point. At the lower level the trading again became very dull, and despite the greater than usual activity during the second hour the total for the day fell short of 200,000 shares. There was sufficient recovery in the later trading to reduce the losses in nearly all stocks to fractions, and in some instances, notably in Missouri Pacific, which had been weak in the early trading, net gains were shown. Although the movement of prices yesterday was better defined than the majority of recent fluctuations on the Stock Exchange the dealings were not materially different in character. The closing was as dull as the opening had been, but thanks to the recovery in the final hour the tone at the end of the session was considerably firmer than at midday. The record of the country's agricultural exports for the month of March, given out yesterday by the Bureau of Statistics, showed another increase compared with the corresponding month of last year. The growth in these exports in March, however, was small compared with the very heavy increase shown during the preceding few months. The exports of cotton, which did so much to help out the country's foreign trade balance in February and in earlier months actually fell short last month of the cotton exports during March, 1910, but increases in breadstuffs and other items more than made up for this decrease. The total of all agricultural exports for the month, amounting to $62,575,000, was larger than in March, 1910 or 1909, but fell below the March figures of several preceding years. Compared with February this year the exports for March show a decrease of over $25,000,000. The single item of cotton accounted for all of this decrease, the exports of that staple in March being only a little more than half of the total recorded in February. For the nine months ended March 31 the country's agricultural exports reached the total of $780,700,000, which is only $12,000,000 under the great total exported during the nine months' period ended March 31, 1908. The falling off in agricultural exports compared with the earlier months of the year is a reminder that we are running into the season when the exports of farm products are normally smaller than those of the earlier months of the year. The country has already established for itself, however, a foreign trade balance of very handsome proportions, one of the results of which are the large credits which this market now has abroad. The banks' transactions with the Sub-Treasury so far this week have resulted in a loss in cash of $1,131,000 compared with a loss of about half this amount during the corresponding period a week ago. The call money renewal rate yesterday was 2¼ per cent. Sterling exchange showed a small decline.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

On the decline the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange broadened. There were indications of liquidation on the part of tired holders, who had become discouraged over the delay in handing down of the Supreme Court decision in the trust cases. Transactions totaled 44,930 shares, with forty-eight different stocks represented on the list. Commission houses handled a very large number of odd-lot orders.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

BONDS SHOW STRENGTH

The mining list was somewhat more active on the Curb yesterday, although price movements remained narrow. Interest in Braden Copper continued, with transactions reported at 1,822 shares, on which the prices moved up from the opening at 4 to 4½. There were numerous small declines, Giroux closing ⅛ down at 5⅞, and Greene-Cananea and Inspiration each losing 1-16 from the opening levels. Kerr Lake rose 3-16 from 6 3-16 to 6⅜, and Miami and Ray Central closed even with the opening prices. Activity in bonds continued, with fractional gains reported at the close in a number of issues.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—The publication of Mr. Mitten's detailed plans for the rehabilitation of the local traction system caused a sudden revival of interest in this group of securities on the local Stock Exchange. About 1,500 shares of Philadelphia Rapid Transit changed hands before 3 o'clock. One of the features was the sale of about 800 shares of Union Traction at 46¼ during the first hour. The remainder of the list, with the exception of a little flurry in Tonopah, merely marked time for the most part with odd lot transactions. Storage Battery was unaffected by the report that the company has to erect a much enlarged plant.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Legislation Affecting Railroads.

While some of the railroads are complaining of heavy increases in their expenditures caused by legislation, the crop of proposed new laws that would have the same effect is said to be larger than ever this year. Statistics compiled by the American Railway Association's special Committee on the Relation of Legislation to Operation show that in 37 States 484 bills that would directly affect operation are now pending. Of these, 113 affect employes, 88 passenger train operation, 57 inspection, 54 stations, 37 grade crossings, 17 claims, 38 right of way, and 18 freight train operation. In Missouri 64 bills of this sort have been instroduced, in Indiana 34, in Wisconsin 29, in South Carolina 24, and in Kansas 23.

Telephone Stock Widely Held.

Figures made public yesterday in Boston, the home office of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, show that it now stands third among American corporations in number of stockholders, being exceeded only by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the United States Steel Corporation, which heads the list with an estimated total of about 100,000. The telephone company has reached a total of 40,381, an increase of 4,500 since 1910 and of nearly 30,000 since 1903. With $263,000,00 capital stock, it now has as many holders as Union and Southern Pacific combined, with $489,000,000 capital.

Missouri Pacific Still Without a Head

Despite reports to the contrary, no decision has yet been reached as to filling the vacancy in the Presidency of the Missouri Pacific. The Executive Committee of the board met yesterday, but took no action in this direction. It was said that only routine business was transacted. The special committee of three appointed to recommend a suitable man has not yet reported, and it is understood that it may be some time yet before it reaches a definite determination.

Porcupine Worries the Curb.

The new Curb organization is wrestling with temptation. A new mining boom is gathering force which already compares in a small way with the Goldfield and Cobalt excitements, and because most of the best sentiment in the outside market is against letting down the bars to the promotions of the new camp, much of the business in these "prospect" shares is done in Toronto and Montreal. The public is about ripe again for another plucking, but the Curb remembers the bad name the outside market got for its connection with the wildcatting which brought tens of millions into promoters' pockets during the mining boom of 1906.

Anthracite Wages Up.

Hard coal miners in Pennsylvania receive for their March work an increase of 4 per cent. over the rate of wages fixed by the Roosevelt Anthracite Strike Commission of 1902. This increase, which is in accordance with the schedule by which the miners receive an increase of 1 per cent. for every five-cent advance in the tide-water price of domestic coal, applies to the April payroll.

Exports for March.

Agricultural exports for March, in spite of the fact that cotton shipments totaled approximately $3,500,000 less than they did in the same month last year, show an increase over March, 1910, and a small increase over March 1, 1909. The gain, which is close to $3,500,000, is small, however, by comparison with recent months when the outflow of agricultural products was at its height, and the increase in the monthly figures over those of the previous year ranged from $45,000,000 for December to $38,000,000 for February. The high levels which have prevailed for cotton and the persistence of the European demand while our own mills were holding back are sufficient to account for the record-breaking totals made by this factor in the export figures in earlier months, and to explain a letting up at this time, when so large a proportion of the needs of the other side have already been supplied.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, April 11.—Trading in the local market was dull to-day and fluctuations were confined within a fraction. The undertone was inclined to be weak and price changes were toward a lower level. North Butte declined to 27¼ and Amalgamated to 61⅝. The general market closed steady.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 11.—Money was in good demand for settlement purposes to-day. Discount rates were firmer.

The stock market was dull. Home rails yielded under profit-taking and consols and gilt-edged securities sagged on dear money, but foreign rails and Kaffirs were steadier and Guayaquil bonds advanced four points.

American securities opened steady and advanced from ¼ to ¾ on fair buying in the forenoon. During the rest of the day the market was dull and uninteresting in the absence of a decided lead from Wall Street. The closing was quiet.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¾@2 9-16 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 2¾@2 9-16 per cent.

Bullion amounting to £60,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

PARIS, April 11.—Prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, April 11.—Trading was quiet and prices were easy on the Börse to-day.

Private rate of discount, 3⅛ per cent.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following Foreign Trade Opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

6,521. HARDWARE AND SPECIALTIES.—A business man in Canada reports that he would like to get in touch with firms in the United States desiring representation in that country. He is especially anxious to hear from firms handling hardware and specialties, but does not care for lines of paint, varnish, or oil.

6,522. FLOUR MILL MACHINERY.—An American Consul in a Mediterranean country reports that a commission merchant in his district wants the catalogues of American firms dealing in flour milling machinery. He wants particularly all the information available concerning a three-pair roller mill. He has catalogues of English mills, but has agreed to wait until he can get American catalogues.

6,523. DEVICES FOR FIRE PREVENTION AND FIRE PROTECTION.—A report from an American Consul in Canada states that a firm in his district proposes to erect a brick and concrete building to replace its executive building recently destroyed by fire. An official informs the Consul that the firm will consider the use of all kinds of contrivances for fire prevention and protection. It is therefore suggested that manufacturers of the lines indicated mail catalogues, price lists, &c., to this concern.

6,524. PROVISIONS AND CANNED GOODS.—A commission merchant in a Canadian city informs an American consular officer that he wishes to handle lines of provisions such as beef, pork, canned goods, &c., produced in the United States.

6,525. OILS, CEMENT, PITCH, OAKUM, &c.—A business firm in Latin America writes that it has inquiries concerning the importation from the United States of cottonseed oil, linseed oil, kerosene oil, turpentine, Portland cement, oakum, tar, pitch, white zinc, paints, rope, and other articles, and would like to get in touch with the principal producers of those commodities in the United States.

6,526. AMERICAN FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.—An American consular officer in the Far East has forwarded a copy of a letter received from the manager of an American company doing business in his district relative to the opportunity for doing a profitable business in fire insurance in that region. The consular officer writes that a personal investigation along this line enables him to agree with the statements contained in the letter in question.

6,527. AMERICAN GOODS OF VARIOUS KINDS.—An American consulate in the Levant has been requested by a promnient local importer to state that he desires to be put in communication with American firms exporting the following named articles: Steam plows and other agricultural implements, petroleum motors, carpet sweepers, cotton goods, face beautifying liquids and powders, iron and woodworking tools, steam and hand pumps, iron safes, and steel cabinets, heating stoves, wagons, carriages, and parts. Correspondence should be in French.

6,528. BASIC PIG IRON.—The purchasing agent of a Canadian firm informs an American Consul that he will be pleased to receive tenders for 10,000 tons of basic pig iron. Parties tendering are requested to furnish an analysis and state time of delivery, together with prices, free on board vessel, seaport, or delivered. The company will pay $14.50 per ton delivered, and delivery should take place within the next four or five weeks.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The stockholders of the Union Bag and Paper Company elected yesterday Alfred Clifford a Class "B" Director and Chauncey Marshall a Class "A" Director. The other Directors were re-elected.

The Cotton Exchange membership of E. B. Vandyck has been sold to J. E. Thompson for another at $13,400. The membership of C. M. Fairchild has been sold to A. L. Wolff for another at the same price.

William C. Cornwell of J. S. Bache & Co., will speak at the Finance Forum, West Side Y. M. C. A., to-night on "Wall Street and Political Control of a Central Reserve Association Impossible Under the Aldrich Plan."

J. A. Clark & Co., have opened an office at 52 William Street. The firm, which is Eastern Correspondent of the Chicago Savings Bank and Trust Company, will do a general investment business in bonds and other securities.

At a special meeting of the Directors of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company yesterday resolutions were adopted in connection with the death of Gustav E. Kissel, who had been a Director of the company since its organization in 1893.

Lewis E. Pierson, President of the Irving Exchange National Bank, was host at a dinner to Louis G. Kaufman, President of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank at the Waldorf. A number of New York bankers were brought together to meet Mr. Kaufman, who came from the West some time ago and merged the Chatham and Phenix National Banks.

The Brunswick-Balke Collender Company has increased its capitalization from $1,500,000 to $12,000,000, of which one-half is preferred, and one-half common stock. The preferred issue has been purchased by A. Schmidlapp & Co., and George Eustis & Co., of Cincinnati, A. M. Kidder & Co., of New York, and George H. Burr & Co., and Ames Emerich & Co., of Chicago. According to an audit of Dec. 31, 1910, net resources, exclusive of good will, patents, trade marks, &c., were more than twice the preferred stock. Net earnings for five years have averaged $1,325,923 a year.

The Japanese Government has called for redemption on May 25, in Japan, at par, these bonds: Imperial Japanese Government Exchequer Bonds Mark "D", issued in 1905, Third Series, and Imperial Japanese Government exchequer bonds, issued under the tobacco monopoly law mark "E" issued in 1905, and mark "H", issued in 1908. Agent Tokieda of the Yokohama Bank, 55 Wall Street, will purchase such bonds on or after May 25, at the current rate of exchange on Japan, or, at the option of the holders, will make application to exchange them for the International loan bonds, first series, at the rate of yen 95 per 100, at any time before or after the date of redemption. Anticipation of the redemption of any of the bonds may be arranged subject to a discount at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

For best reports of Wall Street business investors consult The New York Times Weekly Financial Review. Range of prices for ten years, latest quotations of bonds and stocks dealt in on the Exchanges and the Curb, railroad earnings at a glance, and a mass of information useful to investors, bankers, and brokers. Every Monday. Mailed to any address in the United States for One Dollar a Year. Strong binder to preserve the Review sent for One Dollar.—Adv.

"BUSINESS IS WAR"; ITS EXCESS A DANGER

USELESS SANITARY WORK

BOSTON, April 11.—"Business is war and money making is and always has been the chief motive of all our efforts at progress," said David Van Alstyne of Milwaukee, a member of the class of '86, in discussing "Profitable Ethics" before the Congress of Technology here to-day.

"In the present organization of society," he continued, "it is inevitable that money getting shall be primarily our inspiration, and, indeed, it is doubtful if any other motive will ever be practicable. On the other hand, unrestricted money making, like any other dissipation, is not good for the health of the body politic. The chief manifestation of the disease is in the extremes of wealth and poverty, the former of which is unnecessary and the latter ethically and therefore morally wrong. Because poverty is wrong it will not be permitted to continue always.

"Among the factors of progress in our social organization, perhaps the most potent are the employers of labor, the managers of men. The social reformer who would effect his reforms through the employer is confronted with the task of increasing the employes' wages and at the same time increasing the employer's profits. It is the instinctive desire of every employer to promote the welfare of his employes to the fullest possible extent so long as it does not interfere with his profits. His philanthropy and good will do not extend much beyond this.

"In proportion as the magnitude of the business increases the importance of the personality of the leader decreases and that of the system and organization through which he exercises his personality increases. The measure of the efficiency of an organization is the extent to which the enthusiasm of the individuals in it is maintained through the organization and not through the personality of the man at the head of it.

"Whenever the employer can create the feeling that the sole object of his official existence is to get the most out of his employes for the money invested in them, and that he realizes that this can be done only with the best paid, most contented employes, he has won his point and need waste no further effort to destroy unionism."

Tracy Lyon of Pittsburg, a member of the Technology class of '85, discussed "Scientific Industrial Operation." He said:

"In order to bring out the best and most intelligent effort on the part of most men it is necessary to establish and recognize a reasonable measure of their efficiency, and to develop this efficiency to its highest degree, and there must exist methods of compensation which will offer a comparatively large return for increased individual effort. A very essential function of organization is to create a feeling of co-partnership between employer and workman, and an understanding that the employer is not trying to get the most for the least wage, but is willing to pay liberally for increased output and efficiency.

"Many manufacturers do not know what the real cost of their product is, particularly if it is diversified, because of a lack of adequate cost accounting and because the general charges are not properly distributed. I believe that railroads would purchase many articles they now manufacture if they had a truer knowledge of their shop costs. Railroad shops have no balance sheets to face, and do not necessarily go out of business if they are not making money."

"Profitable and Fruitless Lines of Endeavor in Public Health Work" was the subject of the address of Edwin O. Jordan, Professor of Bacteriology at the University of Chicago.

"It is true," said Prof. Jordan, "that, in spite of the existence of definite principles and well-established facts, a part of the activity of almost every municipal Health Department in this country is devoted to combating imaginary dangers or applied to tasks that have only a remote bearing on the public health.

"To be specific, two instances of this confusion are found in the demand for garbage disposal and plumbing inspection. Sanitarians do not admit that even a grossly improper method of garbage disposal can have much to do with the spread of disease in a large city, or that diphtheria or typhoid fever or any other disease is properly attributable to the entrance of sewer air into dwelling houses. So firmly imbedded in public belief, however, is the connection of piles of decaying garbage with outbreaks of infectious disease, and of 'defective plumbing' with all sorts of maladies, that to the average citizen 'garbage disposal' and 'plumbing inspection' bulk large as the chief, if not the only, activities of a municipal Health Department."

Papers were also read by Frederick H. Newell, Tech. '85, Director of the Federal Reclamation Service, on the irrigation work in the West, by James R. Monroe, President of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, upon that subject; by Prof. Henry Fay of the Institute, Prof. Albert of Harvard, B. C. Bachellor of New York, and several others.

AGRICULTURAL EXPORTS LOW

Agricultural exports in March, although $3,409,782 greater than in the same month of last year and $1,564,571 greater than in March, 1909, fell below the record of the four previous years. March's gain over 1910 was slight compared with increases over the previous year shown in the Winter months. The increase for December, for instance, was approximately $45,000,000, that for January, $41,000,000, and February's gain over the same month in 1910 was $38,000,000.

One of the features of the report was the falling off in cotton exports, the total of $29,673,373 being $3,432,587 less than in March, 1910, although $3,279,405 greater than in 1909.

Compared with February the decline in cotton amounted to $28,383,950. The report of the Bureau of Statistics made public yesterday for March compares as follows with the figures for March, 1910, and February, 1911:

	March,'11.	March,'10.	Feb.,'11.

	Breadstuffs.	Cotton.	Total.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FUND ISSUE.

Kings County Company to Put Out $1,500,000 6 Per Cent. Convertibles.

The Kings County Electric Light and Power Company is to issue $1,500,000 of the $5,000,000 6 per cent. convertible coupon debenture bonds authorized by the stockholders on Nov. 11, 1909. This issue has been approved by the Public Service Commission, and will make the total issued $4,000,000. The bonds will be dated March 1, 1910, and will be convertible into stock at the option of the holder at par on and after March 1, 1913, and within twelve years from their date, and will mature March 1, 1922.

They will be issued in denominations of $1,000 and $100 and will have privilege of registration as to principal at the Franklin Trust Company, Brooklyn. The bonds will be offered to stockholders of record at the closing of the books on April 24 at par, payable 50 per cent. on or before June 1 and 50 per cent. on or before Dec. 1.

Each stockholder will be entitled to subscribe for bonds to the amount of 15 per cent. of his holdings of stock. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company will act as agent for the Franklin Trust Company to receive and deliver warrants, subscriptions, and bonds in Manhattan.

CLOSING INSURANCE COMPANY

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum granted the application of Supt. Hotchkiss of the State Insurance Department yesterday for an order directing the officers of the Liberty Life Insurance Company of 111 Broadway to show cause on Thursday why the assets of the company should not be taken over by his department.

Supt. Hotchkiss alleges that the assets of the company have been depleted to the extent of $25,000. The company's business was suspended and its policy holders were reinsured on Feb. 23 last in the Metropolitan Life.

This agreement was later repudiated by the Liberty Company, and it was alleged that the policy holders were without adequate protection. The amount alleged to be depleted is said to have gone for salaries which were supposed to have been discontinued.

DECREASE OF NET REVENUES.

Business of P., C., C. & St. L. Railway Grew, but So Did Expenses.

PITTSBURG, April 11.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company was held here to-day. The annual report for 1910 showed total operating revenues of $40,601,879.89, an increase of $4,630,546.14; total operating expenses, $29,901,985.39, an increase of $5,326,826.72; net operating revenues, $10,699,394, a decrease of $696,280.58.

After necessary deductions and additions, the total balance to the credit of profit and loss Dec. 31, 1910, was $3,633,650.05. The total tonnage on all lines increase 6,122,710, or 18.64 per cent. The total number of passengers increased 1,057,194.

The new Directors elected were D. T. McCabe and G. L. Peck of Pittsburg, John P. Green and C. Stuart Patterson of Philadelphia. The board will meet in Philadelphia within a short time.

BIG RUBBER BUSINESS.

But Net Earnings Were Low Owing to Shrinkage in Inventoried Values.

Net sales of the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1910, totaled $35,188,295. Earnings of the subsidiary companies aggregated $32,169,326, to which the addition of $100,000 income from investments brought the total income up to $2,269,326. Expenses of $147,078 left net profits at $2,122,247, which compares with $2,369,972 in 1909. The report states that business surpassed that of all previous years, but net earnings were kept down by the "great shrinkage in inventoried values, due to the comparatively low price of crude rubber in December, 1910."

At the time inventories were made, "fine up-river Para" was quoted at $1.35 a pound. Within the year it had been as high as $3, and in January, 1910, the price was $1.75 a pound.

Little Board Buying in Seats.

In pursuance of its policy of gradually eliminating the death benefit features of membership, the Consolidated Stock Exchange has purchased and canceled thirty-four seats since March 1, thus reducing by $250,000 the gratuity obligations. Most of the seats were bought from inactive members. The original membership of 2,400 has been gradually reduced to below 1,000, and it is expected that it will be reduced to about 700.

Its Control of Chicago Terminal Transfer Company Upheld.

CHICAGO, April 11.—In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to-day minority stockholders of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Company lost their fight to intervene in the proceedings by which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company obtained possession of the Terminal Company's property, alleged to be worth $30,000,000.

The Baltimore & Ohio in 1907 got control through payment of $16,000,000. It was contended by the plaintiffs that competition in bidding was suppressed.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The volume of trading in the wheat market was moderate, but prices were very firm, gaining ½@1c, led by the Northwest. Toward the close there was a little reaction on profit taking. The upward movement seemed to be due to the further anxiety of shorts, light receipts, and decreasing stocks. The visible decreased 1,521,000 bushels in the United States, with 211,000 bushels decrease in Canada, making a total decrease of 1,732,000 bushels, against 787,000 bushels decrease the previous week. The European statistics were a little bearish, showing 800,000 bushels increase in the European visible, against 684,000 bushels decrease a week ago. The foreign markets were rather irregular and somewhat lower. The foreign crop news was on both sides, some unfavorable and some favorable. The weather was satisfactory through the West, and there were reports of rain in Nebraska, where it will be very beneficial. The private reports from the Central West and Missouri Valley are very satisfactory. The recent moisture in the Northwest has been a very favorable condition, and there were reports of more rain in Manitoba. The exports of wheat from the United States during March were 5,581,000 bushels, and since July 1, 53,883,000 bushels, against 72,346,000 bushels last year. In the same time the Canadian exports have been 38,665,000 bushels, against 42,923,000 bushels last year. Cash wheat was dull. No export business was reported. No. 2 red was quoted at 95½c; No. 1 Northern, $1.07⅜; No. 2 hard, Winter, 99⅝c; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.01.

CORN.—The Southwestern corn markets were somewhat firmer, and locally there was a gain in prices, particularly steamer corn, which showed quite a good demand, and there was a fair trade in steamer futures. The wet weather is delaying farm work and restricting the movement. Bradstreet's visible decreased 1,479,000 bushels, against an increase of 147,000 bushels the previous week. Exports of corn from the United States in March were 9,773,000 bushels, and for nine months the total has been 45,529,000 bushels, against 27,363,000 bushels last year. Cash corn was firm; No. 2 was quoted at 56½c, free on board; No. 3, 56⅜c; steamer, 55½c; No. 4, 53½c, all in elevator, export rate.

OATS were very firm for cash oats in all markets and there has been evidence of an improving demand both in cash and futures. The persistent wet weather is delaying farm work, and very little progress has been made recently in seeding. The visible supply showed a decrease of 791,000 bushels, against a decrease last year of 314,000 bushels. Cash quotations were: Standards, 38½c; No. 2 white, 38⅝c; No. 3 white, 38c.

PROVISIONS.—There was quite an active trade in the New York lard market, with prices showing a little advance over the final of the previous day. Hogs were steady at the West, and there was not as heavy a movement as expected. The Western packing operations, however, are very heavy at all points.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market seemed to make a belated response to the recent weakness of lard, and confidence among bears appears to have fully returned. There was scattered liquidation, but the weak feature at present seems to be the absence of support, with the result that values moved into new low records for the season. Crude oil was quoted a shade lower, but it was asserted that bids had been reduced materially, as the future market at present is at a disparity of from 10 to 20 points when compared with asking prices of the mills. Crude quoted generally at 5.07 to 5.14c. Future prices follow:

COTTON.

Activity was witnessed in a greater degree than for several weeks during yesterday's session, with considerable irregularity accompanying the larger volume of trading. At the close many operators were confused as a result of what transpired, but it seemed to be the general opinion that outstanding commitments had been further reduced with the technical position weaker, while at the same time it was thought that the attitude of bulls was to liquidate in the near months in order to avoid receiving cotton from the South, although they apparently had sufficient confidence in the situation to replace holdings in later options, principally August. Values were at new high levels for a time, but profit-taking, selling for a reaction and some bear pressure, brought about a substantial reaction.

For the first time in several days Liverpool failed to come up to expectations, and this accounted for some pressure at the opening, but there was good support from spot interests with shorts displaying further nervousness and some buying as a result of weather conditions. The map, while not entirely unfavorable, indicated an overabundance of moisture, which it was thought would delay planting. In conservative quarters, however, there did not seem to be much apprehension expressed, as the season at present is an early one, while on the other hand dispatches from some of the Eastern States indicated a continued good demand for fertilizers; sales are estimated at 25 to 30 per cent. above those of last year and increased acreage reports are numerous. The Government weekly weather report, the first of the season, was favorable, emphasizing the beneficial rains recently noted, but unsettled conditions were predicted for the belt over night, whereas warm, clear weather is most desired at present.

Manchester advices continue generally favorable, which offset to some extent the liberal holdings of cotton at Great Britain. From other points trade conditions show little change, although naturally higher prices do not stimulate mill activity at present. On the other hand bulls make the point that with the enormous world's spindleage increased curtailment is an absolute necessity.

Locally stocks continue to decrease rapidly and certificated is placed at 155,000 bales, against 167,000 on April 1 and 99,000 this time last year. Exports are 1,615,000 bales greater than last year. Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c higher, with New York spot cotton quiet, .05c decline; middling uplands, 14.70.

JAMES LIVINGSTON CONSTRUCTION COMPANY,

By James Livingston, President.

ISSUE OF NEW CAPITAL STOCK

In pursuance of resolutions passed at the Annual Meeting of Shareholders, held at Minneapolis, on 17th September, 1907, increasing the Capital Stock of the Company, the Directors have by further resolutions adopted March 13th, 1911, authorized issue forthwith of Two Million One Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand Four Hundred Dollars ($2,187,400) of Preferred and Four Million Three Hundred and Seventy-four Thousand Eight Hundred Dollars ($4,374,800) of the Common Stock of the Company. The said Stock to be offered at par to Stockholders of record at the closing of the books for the purpose.

The present Issue will be on the basis of 21 shares of New Stock for each 100 shares of old Capital Stock, to be subscribed and paid for upon the following conditions:

The subscription must be for Both kinds of Stock in the ratio of 1 share of Preferred to 2 shares of Common, to be paid for at par in the following manner:

20% or $20 per share on Subscription, on or before May 8th, 1911, at 3 P. M., when the right to Subscribe will expire.

20% or $20 per share.........7th June, 1911

20% or $20 per share......31st August, 1911

20% or $20 per share....16th October, 1911

Payments will be received at the First National Bank, Minneapolis, or at the Bank of Montreal in New York, Montreal, or London.

The respective classes of Stock cannot be segregated until the payment of the first instalment on May 8th, 1911, when separate Certificates of Subscription will be issued for each class of Stock subscribed for.

The Transfer Books of the Company will be closed for the purpose of this Issue at 3 P. M., April 15th, 1911, and remain closed until 3 P. M., May 8th, 1911.

The New Stock upon which all payments have been duly made as called for, will rank for dividend for the half year ending December 31st, 1911, and will be issued on and after the date of final payment and not before.

A circular stating the terms and conditions of the Issue and Subscription will be mailed to the Stockholders after the closing of the books.

By order of the Board.

E. PENNINGTON, President.

GEO. W. WEBSTER, Secretary.

A copy of the Circular may be obtained on application to this office or to the Bank of Montreal, 64 Wall Street, New York.

Readers of The New York Times may have the Daily and Sunday Editions mailed to them in any part of the Country at the rate of 75c. per month, Daily Edition, 50c. per month. Orders may be sent through newsdealers or directly to the Publication Office.

Room 206, City Hall Annex.

New Orleans, La., April 4th, 1911.

The Board of Liquidation of City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the Session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1910, as amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910, which said Acts No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908 have been adopted and ratified by Constitutional Amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, up to twelve o'clock noon on the eighth day of May, 1911, for the purchase of $7,000,000.00 in face value of New Public Improvement Bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under and subject to the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the Constitutional Amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4%) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year respectively. Said bonds are by law exempt from taxation, State, Parish, and Municipal.

Said bonds are payable January 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after January 1, 1928, and are and will be issued under and subject to the statutes aforementioned, all of which are hereby referred to and made part of this advertisement for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions to wit:

1. That no sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of bids received shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit, $7,000,000.00 in face value.

2. Said bonds shall be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds, or any part thereof, shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission or deduction not to exceed six per centum (6%) on the principal thereof.

3. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder or bidders shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder or bidders in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, and all of said bonds shall be delivered in not more than sixty days from the date of the opening of said bids.

5. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for an amount equal to three per cent. of the amount to the said bid; said check shall be made to the order of the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, and the check or checks of the successful bidder or bidders shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt as a guarantee that the successful bidder or bidders, respectively, will comply with its or their bids, and the said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to the said bidder or bidders respectively. In case of the neglect or refusal to comply with any bid the proceeds of said check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage & Water Board.

6. Any local bank or banks that may bid for said bonds may stipulate in its or their bids that it or they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund, as provided by Act. No. 23 of the General Assembly for the Session of 1910, amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910.

7. If any local bank or banks should, pursuant to the statutes aforesaid, be awarded the custody and deposit of the Public Improvement Fund, as established by law, the said local bank or banks shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances as may be fixed by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, pursuant to the statutes aforementioned, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206, City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt.

MISSOURI, KANSAS & TEXAS RAILWAY COMPANY.

Notice of Redemption of One-Year Five Per Cent. Secured Gold Notes.

To each and every holder of the One-Year Five Per Cent. Secured Gold Notes of Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company, issued under and secured by the Trust Agreement, dated August 1, 1910, between said Railway Company and Union Trust Company of New York, as Trustee:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company has elected to redeem the entire issue of said Notes on May 1, 1911; that interest on said Notes will cease on said day, and that on presentation and surrender thereof, with all unmatured coupons, to said Railway Company at the office of Union Trust Company of New York, No. 80 Broadway, New York City, said Notes will be paid at par with accrued interest to said redemption date; and that the holders of said Notes are required to present the same for redemption.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

An Active Market Produces Many Important Transactions—Two Big Apartments Figured in Trade—The Leeds Dwelling on Fifth Avenue Sold.

There was plenty of activity in the realty market yesterday, the upper west side and Harlem figuring prominently in several good deals, while the Fifth Avenue district also furnished some of the interesting events of the day in the sale of the former William B. Leeds home and the disposal of a big plot in Ninety-fifth Street, just east of Fifth Avenue, for a high-class apartment house improvement. In addition to the widely distributed private sales, a particularly choice list of valuable parcels was offered in the auction room, bringing out a typical old-time crowd of bidders and well-known operators, with the result that the prices, in the main, were very satisfactory.

Joseph P. Day sold, among other good offerings, the old Thalia Theatre on the Bowery and the big Tefft-Weller building on Broadway and Worth Street. The Thalia Theatre, at 46 and 48 Bowery, which, in its day was one of the best-known amusement houses in the city, was sold for the estate of the late William Kramer, and was bought for $350,000 by Frank J. MacKane, a real estate man who was said to be acting for a client. No announcement was made as to the future disposition of the house. The recent lessee has a lease of several years on the property.

The Tefft-Weller Building, long the home of one of the largest jobbing dry goods houses in the city, was knocked down to Frederick Beltz, Jr., for $570,000. The property is assessed at $730,000. The building has a large frontage on Broadway, just below Worth, with extensions on Worth and Pearl Streets. The buyer is said to represent some of the selling interests. Michael Coleman bought two old houses in the Fifth Avenue loft district, paying $140,000 for 49 and 51 West Thirty-sixth Street. The three-story dwelling on the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Thirty-third Street, was bought by H. Loewenthal for $125,000. A large business plot at 96 to 100 Maiden Lane was sold to L. W. Turner on a bid of $205,000. Full details of the auction offerings will be found in the list of sales.

95th Street Deal Near Fifth Avenue.

James A. Farley has purchased a vacant plot, 100 by 100.8, on the south side of Ninety-fifth Street, 102 feet east of Fifth Avenue. He intends to improve the plot with a high-class apartment house of eight stories, and it will be one of the largest improvements in that section of Fifth Avenue for some time. The property was sold through Duff & Conger for Jacob Wertheim, who bought it in 1902. The plot has been held at $130,000, a lower price than was paid for it. It is in the upper district of Fifth Avenue, which experienced quite a boom a few years ago, it being the belief of several investors that the lower land above Ninety-second Street would eventually command almost as high a price as the property on the higher ground below.

The Leeds Dwelling Sold.

The estate of William B. Leeds has sold to a client of Pease & Elliman, for occupancy, 987 Fifth Avenue. The house, which is a six-story American basement structure on a lot 25 by 100, is located in the centre of the block between Seventy-ninth and Eightieth Streets, and until recently was occupied by Mrs. Leeds. It was built by W. W. & T. M. Hall, and sold to Mr. Leeds in March, 1901.

Although the house was magnificently fitted up by the Halls, Mr. Leeds added a marble hall and staircase and refitted the interior at an expense of over $70,000.

Included in this sale is also considerable of the furniture collected by Mr. Leeds abroad for this house. This block, which faces the plaza at the Seventy-ninth Street entrance to the Park, is one of the finest in the city, and contains such owners as Isaac V. Brokaw and his two sons, Nicholas F. Brady, Hugh A. Murray, and William J. Curtis.

Baptist Mission Sells Plot.

The New York City Baptist Mission Society has sold, through the Cruikshank Company, the German Baptist Chapel at 223 and 225 West Sixty-seventh Street, on a plot 50 by 100.5.

Deal in "Penn" Loft Zone.

Louisa Phillips has sold 133 West Thirtieth Street. The buyer is said to be the Chase Realty Company, which recently bought from the St. Philip's Protestant Episcopal Church nine old houses to the east, 115 to 131, for which they gave in part payment the ten six-story double flats at 107 to 145 West 135th Street.

Buys 17th Street Loft for Investment.

An important investment purchase in the midtown loft zone was made yesterday by Philip B. Lewisohn, who purchased from Mrs. Eliza Guggenheimer, widow of Randolph Guggenheimer, the twelve-story loft building occupying a plot, 50 by 184, extending from 243 to 247 West Seventeenth Street to 232 and 234 West Eighteenth Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

Mrs. Guggenheimer acquired the property last December for about $500,000 in a trade with the builders, Daniel W. Richman and Gustavus A. Beyers, for the seven-story apartment house 510 to 514 West 124th Street.

Mr. Lewisohn is a son-in-law of Mrs. Guggenheimer.

Two Big Apartments in Trade.

Two big west side apartments figured in trades yesterday. Valencia Court, a seven-story apartment at 317 and 319 West Ninety-fifth Street, 62.6 by 100, was sold by Henry P. Gardner to the A. & S. Construction Company. Mr. Gardner recently purchased 28 and 30 West Twenty-fifth Street, a twelve-story and basement fireproof loft building, 50 by 98.9, from the A. & S. Construction Company, and gave the Ninety-fifth Street property in part payment. M. & L. Hess, in conjunction with Webster B. Mabie, negotiated the sale.

Further north on Washington Heights the Medford, a six-story elevator apartment at 3,890 to 3,898 Broadway, corner of 164th Street, was sold by the Medford Realty Company. The property covers a plot, 100 by 100, and was held at $325,000. In part payment the purchaser gave a 175-foot plot on Boston Road in the Bronx.

Washington Heights Corner Sold.

The vacant plot, 50 by 100, on the northeast corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 160th Street, has been sold for the Newman Holding Company by Daniel H. Renton & Co. and Maurice W. Halpin to a builder for improvement.

Investors Buying Tenements.

Daniel B. Freedman has sold through G. H. Ludlow & Co. to an investor 49 West Sixty-third Street, a five-story apartment house, on lot 25 by 100.5. The property is only 58.3 feet east of Broadway, and controls the Broadway front.

Louis Starr and the Success Holding Company bought 49 Ludlow Street, the four-story front and rear tenements, on lot 25 by 87.6.

Private Dwellings in Demand.

Henry D. Winans & May sold 40 West Fifty-first Street for Mrs. Esther Hecht to a client, who will immediately rebuild and occupy. This is a Columbia College leasehold.

F. R. Wood & Co. sold for Martha Elizabeth and Matilda Jane McKeown 762 West End Avenue, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 18 by 100, adjoining the northeast corner of Ninety-seventh Street.

The United States Trust Company, through the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, has sold to the New York Probation Association the four-story dwelling at 88 West Tenth Street, on plot 22.6 by 92.3. The present quarters of the association are at 165 West Tenth Street.

On the east side Pease & Elliman and William Cruikshank's Sons sold for Elizabeth K. d'Este of Paris 143 and 145 East Thirty-ninth Street, two four-story English basement dwellings, on plot 35.5 by 98.9, between Lexington and Third Avenues.

George R. Read & Co. have sold for Francis G. Van Woest 109 East Seventeenth Street, a four-story building and lot 25 by 92, to a client for alteration.

Dry Goods Firm Buys Harlem Site.

A transaction on Harlem's most valuable business block that foreshadows an important development was the purchase by Lit Brothers, the Philadelphia dry goods merchants, of 253 to 259 West 125th Street, running through to 256 and 258 West 126th Street.

This property, consisting of a plot 50 by 199.10, is covered with old one-story buildings, and was leased in 1907 by the Central Building Improvement and Investment Company (Sonn Brothers) to Felix Isman for twenty years at an annual net rental of from $11,500 to $14,500. The lease carried with it an option of purchase at $200,000, which Mr. Isman is going to exercise on May 1, preparatory to turning the parcel over to the new owners.

Bronx.

William Grant, in conjunction with Dorothy A. Fischer, has sold for Mrs. A. B. Lartet the two-family house 1,841 Clinton Avenue, Bronx, on lot 23 by 89.

John F. Fetzer has sold 368 and 370 East 145th Street, also 415 and 417 East 154th Street. Both parcels are 50 by 100 new law flats. The same broker has also sold 896 Eagle Avenue, a four-story and basement single flat.

Lizzie Wheat has sold to Clement H. Smith a lot, 16.8 by 120, on the west side of Park Avenue, 423.10 feet south of 175th Street, for $4,000.

Daniel H. Renton & Co. and Maurice W. Halpin have sold for John T. Leo the two four-story apartment houses at 1,222 and 1,224 Southern Boulevard, each on plot 30 by 105, to a client for investment.

Leases.

Everett M. Seixas & Co. have leased for the Fleischman Brothers their four houses, 491, 495, 501, and 505 East 140th Street, to one tenant for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $50,000.

Benjamin R. Lummis has leased to the Greenroom Club the building 139 West Forty-seventh Street.

Paul D. Saxe of Taylor Brothers has leased for J. P. McHugh & Co. to Barrett, Nephews & Co. the ground floor store at 7 West Forty-second Street for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $70,000.

Frederick Southack and Alwyn Ball, Jr., have leased for the George Kemp Real Estate Company the northerly store in the Belgravia, located at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, to Jules Dardonville of the Windsor Arcade for a long term of years.

Edmond Bensamon has leased the sixth floor of the building at 381 Fifth Avenue to Benjamin W. Levitan, architect, for Isaac H. Peller for eight years at an aggregate rental of $30,000. This completes the renting of the building.

U. S. Realty Company Dividend.

The Directors of the United States Realty and Improvement Company, at their meeting yesterday, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent., payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 21. Since the previous meeting of the Directors the George A. Fuller Company, which is a subsidiary of the United States Realty and Improvement Company, has taken twenty-six contracts for buildings throughout the country, embracing New York, Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, Boston, Kansas City, Youngstown, Ohio; Kineo, Me., and Montreal. Among these buildings were one Post Office, one art museum, one laboratory, one baseball stand, one residence, one newspaper office, one power plant, one biscuit factory, one theatre, one caisson foundation, three hotels, three lofts, and eight office buildings.

New West Side Apartments.

Plans have been filed for the erection of a six-story apartment house on the northeast corner of Audubon Avenue and 173d Street for the Latham Realty Company, of which A. Schwoerer is President, at a cost of $185,000. The building will have a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue by 90 feet on the street. It will be equipped with an elevator and will have accommodations for fifty-five families. Neville & Bagge are the architects. The same architects have filed plans for the erection of a six-story elevator apartment house on the east side of Hamilton Terrace, 504.6 feet north of 141st Street, for the Hamilton Terrace Company, of which Charles Gross is President. The building will have a frontage of 125 feet and a depth of 28.2 feet, and is estimated to cost $225,000.

Addition to Sloane Hospital.

Four additional stories are to be added to the Sloane Maternity on the northeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. They will be used for private patients and will have a pavilion and shelter on the roof. The cost will be $60,000. The architects are Crow, Lewis & Wickenhoefer.

Notes.

Mooyer & Marston were the brokers in the sale of 152 East Seventy-first Street recently made for Dr. Robert S. Morris to Edward F. Du Vivier.

Plans have been filed for making over the four-story and basement flats on the north side of Fifty-sixth Street, 90 feet east of Park Avenue, for studio apartments and increasing the size of the building by adding one story at a total cost of $10,000 for Cornelius Poillon.

The Lewis H. May Company has leased for Mary J. Connelly her country seat at Cedarhurst, L. I., to George Rosenshine, and for P. C. Kelly a house on Oakland Avenue, Cedarhurst, to H. V. Monohan, Jr.

This land was purchased many years ago by a few far sighted men who have since died. They foresaw the tremendous growth of Washington, and the possibilities of this beautiful tract that Nature had provided.

The necessity for closing the estates makes an exceptional opportunity for investment, and now it is ready for the investor, the homeseeker—the man who wants a Washington residence.

Massachusetts Avenue Heights, Washington, D. C.

144 acres divided into rectangular lots (50 feet wide by various depths) and villa sites (¼ to 9 acres each) now offered for sale at 50c to $1.50 per square foot. This property has an elevation of 348 feet above the center of Washington, overlooking the entire city, and it is worth at least $7,000,000 to-day. A woodland undulating tract, with beautiful drives, trees and home sites; flanked by great National Parks; situated about two miles from the White House; surrounded by the mansions and estates of famous men; abutting the U. S. Naval Observatory and Park and the National Episcopal Cathedral; pierced by Massachusetts Avenue, along which two miles of millionaires' residences (hundred million value now) run, including celebrated Dupont Circle, and Sheridan Circle less than one-half mile away.

CONGRESS has recently passed a law permitting this unique property to be developed on its natural topographical lines, instead of the usual rectangular system that prevails elsewhere in Washington. Thus preserving the wealth of oak, beech and maple trees, as well as the beautiful stream which rises at the upper end of the property, running through a park to its easterly end, where it empties into Rock Creek. For the purpose of settling the estates interested, the American Security and Trust Company and Amos H. Plumb, the Trustees, immediately after the passage of the law, awarded contracts for the expenditure of three-quarters of a million dollars for macadam roads, bridle paths, granolithic sidewalks, sewers, water and all other modern utilities and placed the property in the hands of Thos. J. Fisher & Company, Inc., with instructions to market it at prices which would effect an early sale. The homes of millionaires are built along Massachusetts Avenue right up to this property, which is the most beautiful residential section of the Capital. Values cannot help but rise from the moment it is offered for sale.

Not only is the trend of best development out Massachusetts Avenue beyond Sheridan Circle and must ever continue in that direction, but from the natural beauty of the property, unequaled in Washington or elsewhere, and its gradual rise from Sheridan Circle to an elevation on the west of 281 feet above and overlooking the entire city, it must appeal to all those desiring a home in the Capital of the Nation as the perfection of desirable residence sites, and is the assurance to every purchaser that he is securing a piece of property that, by the very force of the unique conditions in and surrounding it, must enhance rapidly in value.

Send for the "Story of the Heights," a Beautifully Illustrated Book Fully Describing the Property—Its Investment and Home Building Possibilities.

TERMS OF PURCHASE A payment of only 1-4 cash will be required, balance payable at the convenience of the purchaser. CHINAMAN A BANKRUPT.

Fung Y. Mow of 1,503 Third Avenue filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $3,425 and no assets. He carried $5,000 life insurance and has borrowed $1,200 on the policy. The debts were contracted principally in 1904 and 1910, and all but $850 is for borrowed money.

There are twelve creditors, mostly in Pell, Mott, and Bayard Streets. The creditors are Pan Fing Tai of Shanghai, $850, for merchandise in 1904; Lee Yet Yon, $650; Ho Poo, $40; Mrs. Lee Toy, $50; Ching Yut, $50; Dek Foon, $30; Y. Typond, $50; Chan Chung, $75; Fung Chun of Patchogue, L. I., $50; Mary Howard of Hartford, $500, loan in 1910; Low Quong, $25, and Chu Fon Wing, $1,005, money advanced and disputed by the petitioner.

This is the fourth Chinese petition filed since the Bankruptcy act has been in force. There was an involuntary petition filed on June 22, 1904, against twenty-seven Chinamen who composed the Yee Wah Lung Company, which was closed up in March, 1906. Two voluntary petitions were filed on Dec. 17, 1898, and March 21, 1901, both of which were closed up in 1907 without a discharge.

New Directory Shows City's Growth.

The remarkable commercial growth of New York City is shown in the fifty-ninth volume of Trow's Copartnership and Corporation Directory for 1911, which has just been issued. The directory shows a total of 83,500 names as compared with 77,000 in the edition of a year ago, an increase of about 6,500. The first volume, published in 1849, contained approximately 5,000 names. Since then there has been an average annual increase of 1,400 names in each directory.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

JACOB SALZMAN, hardware, 1,008 Westchester Avenue, made an assignment to Bernhard Ginzburg.

JOSEPH D. ZERWICH, wholesale dealer in fancy goods and jewelry, 23 Walker Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $12,950 and assets of $4,750. He offers his creditors 25 cents on the dollar, one-half cash.

ANNIE DE JONGE, widow, 1,144 Jackson Avenue, filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $49,900, of which $39,200 is secured by bond and mortgage, and nominal assets of $47,000, consisting of equities in two tenements, 552 East 133d Street.

CHROMO COMPANY, 14 Church Street.—Judge Holt vacated the appointment of Clarence S. Houghton as receiver. The Chromo Company denied that it had committed an act of bankruptcy, and stated that it made an arrangement in January with its creditors for the liquidation of the business, the money received therefrom to be distributed among them.

SMITH MERRITT and JOSEPH N. DIONNE, carpenters, Chappaqua, filed separate petitions in bankruptcy to get rid of a suit brought by Alpha H. Jennings of Ossining for $10,000 damages for injuries resulting from a blast of dynamite on Aug. 10, 1909. Mr. Merritt's total liabilities are $11,519, and his assets $10. Mr. Dionne's total liabilities are $11,228 and his assets $6.

WISE PIANO COMPANY, 17 East 125th Street, filed an answer to the bankruptcy petition filed against it on Monday, denies that it is insolvent or committed acts of bankruptcy, and asserts that its property will be sufficient to pay its debts. Judge Holt sent the case to Peter B. Olney, referee in bankruptcy, 68 William Street, and also granted an order restraining Louis Van Brink, auctioneer, from disposing of property of the company.

CENTRAL PARK TAXI-CAR COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy against the Central Park Taxi-Car Company was filed by Jerome, Rand & Kresel, attorneys for the creditors. Allegations are made that two chattel mortgages for considerations amounting to $4,806 were given to Henry Schultz, President of the company, covering property worth $30,000; that Solomon Haas, a creditor, was permitted by the company to obtain a preference for his claims, and that the company transferred a lease valued at $10,000 of the premises, 145 to 151 West 110th Street, to Mr. Schultz. The assets are estimated at $20,000.

FOR SALE.

17 Jewels High Grade Guaranteed SOLID 14K. GOLD. $15

This is strictly a Fifth Avenue Watch. It is a positive fact that Watches no better than these are being sold in the fine shops of that thoroughfare to-day at prices ranging from $40 to $50. We will offer this lot at $15 each on the Strength of this Statement, and upon investigation, if it is not found to be correct, we will willingly refund the money on Demand. The works are all beautifully 17-jewelled. The cases are Solid 14k. Gold through and through, not a particle of base metal of any sort, not even a joint pin. They are made along the lines of the new Models just out, some of which cost as high as $150 to $200. There are only a hundred to be offered at this Sale. It will be to your advantage not to let the opportunity slip by.

NOTE—In regard to other high grade watch movements we wish to state if you pay over $36 for the best 23-jewelled watch movement made in the United States you are paying too much. We can prove it; your own jeweller can be the judge. If any jeweller advises you to pay more he simply does it for extra profit.

There are only three morning newspapers in New York that sell a million copies every seven days to the metropolitan newsdealers. The New York Times is one of them. Of the four other morning newspapers in New York City, the most largely circulated one sells less than half a million copies in seven days to the metropolitan newsdealers.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

A Boulevard Evening

means that you need make no other plans to fill out your evening period of recreation. A remarkable Table d'Hote dinner with coffee at 75 cents a head, during which and after which you are entertained —REALLY entertained. No Hungarian band, you will agree, has ever glorified its national music as ours does; rarely do singers render simple ballad or operatic air with the distinction that our artists give them.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of COBLESKILL CRUSHED STONE COMPANY, Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given of a meeting of the creditors of the above-named bankrupt to be held at the office of Peter B. Olney, Referee in Bankruptcy in this matter, No. 68 William Street, New York City, on April 24th, 1911, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to consider the offer of L. B. Fitch to purchase for $7,000 at private sale certain assets of the bankrupt estate, as follows:

The lessee's rights under the lease to the bankrupt by C. A. Wieting and others, dated May 24, 1907, of a certain stone quarry at Cobleskill, New York; being a portion of the farm known as the John Wieting farm, and being further described as follows:

All the stone quarry on the northerly side of said farm, which was at one time worked by William Riley and afterward by Francis S. Woods and James M. Hamilton, composing the firm of Woods Brothers and Hamilton, and also by the Hamilton Contracting Company, and thereafter by the bankrupt, and as much more of the lands of the said lessors as the lessees may desire to quarry stone from, extending northerly from the said open quarry to the northerly line of the said Wieting farm; also the lands of said farm south of the said open quarry, being the lands bounded as follows: Running from the southeast corner of said open quarry southerly along the line of lands of Warren Liddle to the creek or stream running westerly across said Wieting farm, then westerly along said creek as it winds to the sawmill on said creek, then from said sawmill in a straight line westerly to the line fence of the Lefevre farm, so called, thence northerly along said line fence to said quarry.

Also all the personal property of which an inventory and appraisal were filed in the office of the referee herein on March 16, 1911, except the "accounts receivable" and "fixtures in N. Y. office" therein specified; being all the property located in said stone quarry and held by the said Howard E. Brown, as such Trustee; also all the rights of said Howard E. Brown, as Trustee in the well-drills and dump cars of the bankrupt, whether located at said quarry or elsewhere.

Also to consider any other offer for said assets or any of them that may be made at said meeting or prior thereto, and to authorize the acceptance of any such offer as it may seem advisable to the creditors to accept and to authorize the sale of the assets at private sale.

The lease above mentioned is for twenty-five years from its date, with an option of renewal for twenty-five years more. Copies of the lease and of the inventory and appraisal may be had upon application to the undersigned, or may be inspected at the office of the undersigned. The premises and the property thereon may be inspected at any time. At the meeting of creditors oral or written offers for the assets may be made when accompanied by New York funds to the amount of ten per cent. of any such offer.

GOLD MEDALS GIVEN LIFE-SAVING FIREMEN

Mayor in Presenting Them Says That $3,000,000 Liquor Graft Has Been Taken from Police.

AS MUCH GAMBLING GRAFT

But Only Words of Praise for Both Firemen and Policemen—Stories Told of Twenty-two Heroic Rescues.

Mayor Gaynor spent yesterday afternoon at Fire Headquarters in East Sixty-seventh Street, presenting Honor Medals to twenty-two brave firemen and two foremen who have distinguished themselves by having the best disciplined fire companies in the last two years.

A crowd filled the trial room on the third floor of Fire Headquarters when the Mayor pinned the gold medals on the firemen's uniforms. After this formality was over every one adjourned to the training yard to watch probationary firemen in hazardous scaling ladder and fire net exercises under the direction of Fire Chief Larkin.

Mayor Gaynor made a little speech before he gave out the medals. He said that the Fire and the Police Departments of this city were "not excelled anywhere on the globe." He described a climb which he had made with some "puffing firemen" through the Asch building ruins. The loss of life at that fire could not have been prevented by the Fire Department, he said. The Mayor remarked quite incidentally that his administration had succeeded in taking $3,000,000 of liquor graft and as many millions of gambling graft from the Police Department. Altogether he said this:

> I am very glad to pause in my work at the City Hall to come up here to give these brave men the medals for meritorious work and rescuing people from death. There are a great many people in the City of New York who know very little about the brave firemen and police of the city, who do their work as a matter of course, and doing it for the best interests of the whole community. If I was to read to you some of the letters against the Police and Fire Departments in general you would be astonished. You would not think there was anybody in the city who would be guilty of such abuse.
> We had a great fire here recently, and everything was done, but nevertheless there was a great loss of life. No one could have stopped it. You did all that you could to prevent it, but it was not prevented. I have myself taken the trouble to go up there to this building and climb up ten floors with the Commissioner here, who is a great deal heavier in a way than I am, and some other big firemen who puffed a lot, and we looked over the floors where the fire occurred. The building is an absolutely fireproof building, but these floors were adopted to a particular kind of manufacturing of inflammable material, strewed all over the floors, and it went up like that, (indicating with a wave of the hand) when some one threw a cigarette into it. There was a loss of life, but this could not have been prevented, and even though it was a fireproof building it doesn't seem possible, where manufacturing is being carried on; and all sorts of abuse has been heaped upon the firemen, but from my understanding the firemen of the Fire Department of the City of New York here are the finest body of men in the whole world.
>
> I received a letter from a clergyman in this city who heaped abuse on the firemen, and I replied in a kindly letter regarding his statements that our ladders were not large enough and that we ought to have heavier streams; that I hoped he would sit down and write me where it was possible to get men just like that.
>
> Now, just look what they are doing to the Police Department and the Police Commissioner. We have succeeded in taking $3,000,000 of liquor graft and as many millions of gambling graft, and I tell you those who are losing that graft are the people who are making the biggest noise in the City of New York, and there are some newspapers in the City of New York who call themselves respectable who aid in that kind of noise, but neither the Mayor of the city nor any Police Commissioner is to be removed, for he is an honest Police Commissioner and we have as splendid a body of policemen as we have on the face of this earth, and they only want to be treated right from the Commissioner down and prevent all from taking graft, and that is what we want.
> I want to say right here that these two departments, the Fire and Police Departments, are not excelled anywhere on the globe. I have traveled some myself, and think that I am competent to judge.

The firemen who earned medals in 1909 were John R. Harcke, Hook and Ladder Company 102; Frank C. Clarke, Hook and Ladder Company 24; John J. Quinn, Hook and Ladder Company 24; Robert Nelson, Hook and Ladder Company 24; Edward J. McCarthy, Engine Company 1; John S. Langan, Engine Company 120; James T. McGrath, Hook and Ladder Company 54; Edward F. McCormack, Engine Company 128.

Those who received medals for bravery in 1910 were Richard J. Condon, No. 2, Hook and Ladder Company 40; William F. Elder, Engine Company 165; Joseph L. Bonk, Engine Company 30; George Washburn, Hook and Ladder Company 40; Assistant Foreman Alexander McCrimlisk, Engine Company 121; John J. O'Rourke, Engine Company 165; William W. Marek, Engine Company 85; John J. Walsh No. 2, Engine Company 85; Deputy Chief John Kenlon of the Marine Division, Chief of Battalion Edward J. Worth of the Third Division, Foreman John H. Kelly, Pilot Lawrence Healy of the fireboat James Dunne, Dennis O'Shaughnessy, Hook and Ladder Company 40; Joseph Halpin, Engine Company 18.

Foreman James J. Walsh No. 1, Engine Company 169, Borough of Brooklyn, received the Stephenson Medal for the best disciplined company in 1909, and Foreman William H. Nash of Engine Company 71 of the Bronx received the Stephenson Medal for having the best disciplined company in 1910.

Before each fireman received his medal Deputy Fire Commissioner O'Keefe, standing in front of the platform, recited a brief description of the particular act of gallantry which won the medal.

"Fireman first grade Robert Nelson, Hook and Ladder Company 24, for heroic conduct on March 3, 1909, at fire in the building at 374 Seventh Avenue, Borough of Manhattan," the Deputy Commissioner announced.

"Fireman Nelson was ascending a thirty-five-foot ladder for the purpose of rescuing Mrs. James Pisipia and her two children, and Mrs. Zolitio, who had been driven to a window, when Mrs. Pisipia excitedly dropped one of her children into Fireman Nelson's arms, almost throwing him off the ladder. The child was caught, held, and taken safely to the street. Another Pisipia child was taken down the ladder by the fireman, after which rescues he brought down Mrs. Zolitio. Fireman Nelson received also the Strong Medal."

As Fireman Nelson stepped up to receive his medal, there was a little commotion in the crowded aisle, and the two little Pisipia children whom he had rescued came forward and shyly presented him with a nosegay of roses, pinks, and ferns.

Fireman Harcke's medal was won by carrying sixty-year-old Mrs. Louise Bina down a thirty-five-foot ladder to the street after groping his way to her through a smoke-filled and burning room. Firemen Clark, Quinn, and McCarthy carried two families down a thirty-five-foot ladder after rescuing them from a fiercely burning building at 374 Seventh Avenue on March 3, 1909.

Fireman Langan rescued several persons, including an eleven-year-old boy, in a fire at 313 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, on March 4, 1909. Firemen McGrath, McCormack, Condon, Elderbonk, Washburn, McCrimlisk, O'Rourke, and Shaughnessy received their medals for similar rescues of tenants or fellow firemen.

Firemen Marek, Walsh, Deputy Chief Kenlon, Battalion Chief Worth, Foreman Kelly, and Pilot Healy were rewarded for their combined efforts in rescuing two men who were found clinging to a piece of floating timber in the midst of flames at Pier 14, North River, July 15. Fireman Marek went overboard for the two men. Here is how Fireman Halpin, according to Deputy Commissioner O'Keefe, earned his medal.

"Fireman Halpin was on a leave of absence, and passing the building at this address saw a fire. He entered and found the building filled with illuminating gas. He extinguished a lighted candle at one end of a blasting fuse attached to a bomb filled with gunpowder. In connection with this case, Andrea Galasso was convicted of arson and sentenced to Sing Sing Prison for four years and six months, he having placed the fuse and bomb in the position in which they were found by Fireman Halpin.

When Mayor Gaynor pinned the medal on Chief Worth's uniform, the white-haired old fire fighter was heartily applauded, and Mayor Gaynor gave him an unusually vigorous handshake.

PROTEST FROM ST. JOSEPH'S.

Head of the Asylum Threatens to Receive No More Public Charges.

A controversy has arisen between the State Board of Charities and city officials on one hand, and the Rev. Joseph A. Schneider, President and Treasurer of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum at Eighty-ninth Street and Avenue A, on the other, which, it is understood, has resulted in Father Schneider's threatening in a letter to receive no more children committed to his institution by the courts and poor-law officers. Just what he wrote to the State Board of Charities, neither President Stewart of the board nor Secretary Hebberd would tell, nor would Controller Prendergast divulge the contents of a similar letter which Father Schneider is said to have sent to him. The contents of the first letter may be made public when the State Board of Charities meets to-day.

The difficulty, it is said, arose out of the proposal of the asylum, because of the rapid growth of its business, to erect a new $1,000,000 home. According to its report of January, 1910, the asylum held 481 boys and 287 girls at that time, of which only eighty-eight were sent by parents or guardians, while 680 were public charges. The treasurer's report in 1910 likewise showed that there was received from all sources $100,238 for the care of 766 orphans, of which all except $6,708 came from the city Treasury.

Father Schneider, it is said, found that the new rules of the State Board of Charities concerning air space, stairways, and other details looking toward the safety of the young charges kept there would interfere with his plans for the new building, and concluded that to conform to the regulations would be practically to turn the institution's management over to the State. Thereupon, it is said, he wrote an angry protest.

Since then, it is said, Father Schneider has somewhat regretted his action, and it is intimated that he wrote another letter suggesting that the whole matter be dropped. It was impossible to learn yesterday whether the State Board will carry out its rules after the disagreement is patched up.

HELD FOR BURNING CHILD.

Mrs. Mary Filenette, a negress of 19 Nicholson Street, was sent to jail in default of $5,000 bail yesterday by Police Judge Hahn in Newark, charged with extreme cruelty to an 11-year-old child.

The child, Amy M. Corse, repeated in court a story she had previously told to her mother, that Mrs. Filenette held her hands on red-hot coals in the kitchen stove because she had eaten two crullers she found in a closet. Mrs. Filenette is charged also with not only refusing to dress the wounds, but with having removed from the child's hands bandages put there by a public school nurse.

Amy has lived with Mrs. Filenette for six months because her mother, having several other small children, was glad to be relieved of her care. Mrs. Filenette declares that the child developed a habit of stealing, once taking $5. At that time she was told that she would be severely punished if she ever took anything else. She admitted taking the crullers, but said she did not think she had been guilty of stealing, because it was food and she was hungry.

Mrs. Filenette then seized her, Amy said in court, and dragged her to the kitchen stove, holding one of her hands on the coals until her fingers were severely burned. Despite her screams, she said, the woman turned her around and attempted to put the fingers of the other hand on the coals, but she managed to break loose after only the thumb of the second hand had been scorched. She ran upstairs screaming, and Mrs. Filenette followed her and beat her over the back with a piece of rope.

The story of the child could not be shaken. The mother of the child declared that when she accused Mrs. Filenette of doing the burning she admitted it and said that she merely meant to teach Amy not to steal. In court Mrs. Filenette would only admit that she had used a rope on the child to punish her for stealing money.

CAPT. BARTLETT NATURALIZED

Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, who was skipper of the Roosevelt on the last and successful Peary north pole expedition, has become a citizen of the United States. He took out his papers yesterday in the Federal Court in Brooklyn. He was a British subject. He said he was born at Briggs, N. F., on Aug. 15, 1875. He gave his address as 560 Eleventh Street, Brooklyn.

United States District Attorney William J. Youngs, who is a personal friend of Capt. Bartlett, had some fun quizzing the famous skipper. After putting questions to the explorer about the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, Col. Youngs asked:

"How far north have you been?"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

For YOUNG Men

THE Shape-maker Suit is the invention of one of the master tailor-men employed by Hart, Schaffner & Marx, who make our Clothes.
"What is the Shape-maker?" you ask.
This—it is a Suit so cut that it will give YOU the broad-chested, narrow-waisted appearance that every man desires.
Nothing freakish about them.

FOR you older men, other Suits—of course—legions of them—in all the new shades, as well as the more conservative grays and browns, blacks and blues.
Prices begin at $18, and offer very unordinary values at that price—as all our garments do at whatever price you pay—especially at $25, which is our special price.
Whether you pay $20 or $25; $35, $40 or $50 for one of our Hart, Schaffner & Marx Suits, your money will buy more than ever it has before.
Come and see.

Suits $18 to $50
